Plan Half Billion Dollar U. S. Farm Subsidy

CALL MILLIONS IN CITIES FOR LABOR IN FIELDS

Wickard to Recruit Food Producers.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 25.—In an effort to step up food production for 1943 to record levels sought by the department of agriculture, the government today announced plans to:

1. Pay an additional $100,000,000 in subsidies to the nation's farmers to encourage increased production of a number of "war" crops not previously included in the subsidy program. These crops are sweet potatoes, soy beans, grain sorghums, peanuts, flax, and dried peas. Crop goals for these products were also boosted.

2. Mobilize a volunteer land army of 3½ million farm workers from women, the unemployed ranks, retail stores, and other nonwar industries from cities and towns to meet the farm labor crisis which is expected to reach a peak next summer when the demand for labor reaches a seasonal high.

Offices to Seek Recruits.

Plans to enlist volunteer farm workers were announced by Food Administrator Claude Wickard and War Man Power Chief Paul V. McNutt at a press conference. They said that field offices of the war man power commission and the department of agriculture will launch a nation-wide program for enrolling farm volunteers to meet a peak seasonal demand this summer.

In two years, Wickard said, 3 million workers have left farms to take other jobs or to join the army and navy. Most of these have been replaced on the farms, but in many cases by less efficient workers, and the supply is rapidly running out.

Local offices of the agriculture department will in many cases seek to arrange for the closing of schools for several weeks in areas where pupils may be used on farms, Wickard said. Efforts also will be made to obtain farm help from local industries' rolls, and plans will be made to pay transportation costs to import workers from city jobs.

Deny It Is Nationalization.

Officials denied the proposed mobilization of a land army was a step toward nationalization of farms. They asserted the government is seeking primarily to act as an employment service for the farmers.

Wickard said the nation's farm labor force in December, 1942, totaled 8,900,000, a drop of about 100,000 from the total a year earlier. He estimated that more than 12 million will be needed next summer.

To meet food goals for supplying civilians, the army and navy, and lend-lease shipments, the nation's farmers have been asked to produce 8 per cent more food this year than in 1942, a record year. The 1943 goal is 30 per cent higher than average production for the years 1935 thru 1939.

Wickard said the proposed increase of $100,000,000 in subsidies to be paid by the agriculture adjustment administration will raise the proposed subsidy program for this year to $500,000,000. The proposed appropriation is subject to approval by congress.

Increased Goals Told.

The new goals and the proposed subsidies announced today follow:

Soy beans, goal increased from 10½ million to 12 million acres. Proposed subsidy is $15 an acre to farmers on each acre between 90 and 110 per cent of his established goal.

Peanuts, goal raised from 5 to 5½ million acres. Proposed subsidy of $30 an acre for each acre from 90 to 110 per cent of goal.

Flax, goal increased from 5 to 5½ million acres, with payment of $10 an acre for acres from 90 to 110 per cent of goal.

Dried peas, goal boosted from 665,000 to 725,000 acres, with payment of $15 an acre for acres from 90 to 110 per cent of goal.

Sweet potatoes, goal raised from 757,000 to 1 million acres, with payments of 50 cents a bushel for total over the normal yield expected from 90 per cent of the goal, up to 110 per cent.

Grain sorghums, goal raised from 10 to 12 million acres, with payments of $15 an acre on each acre from 90 to 110 per cent of goal.

JEFFERS BLASTS U.S. 'EXPERTS' IN WAR FACTORIES

Says Army and Navy Hurt Production.

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 25.—Rubber Director William M. Jeffers today assailed army and navy officials for interfering with his synthetic rubber plans in the second of two flare ups due to a growing indignation against the failure of the government to provide tire materials.

William M. Jeffers.

In another outbreak, the senate rubber investigation committee upbraided M. J. Madigan, special assistant to the undersecretary of war, as having abetted big pertoleum corporations in their grab of the bulk of benefits from the administration's 750 million dollar rubber plant construction program.

More heat, and possibly more light, on the critical rubber situation is expected tomorrow when the senate investigators are scheduled to interrogate Chairman Donald M. Nelson of the war production board on delays in the synthetic program. Jeffers two weeks ago went over Nelson's head with an appeal to President Roosevelt to unblock WPB priorities so as to advance completion of the rubber plants.

He Attacks "Expeditors."

Jeffers told a round table conference of the council of state governments at Baltimore, Md., that army and navy officers, "expeditors," were interfering with output of war plants. Among friends, the former president of the Union Pacific railroad has threatened to go to the people if he were stopped by politicians from doing his job.

"Keep these army and navy loafers out of the plants and let the men who know how run them," he demanded before a cheering audience of governors and other state officials. "Then we'll get production, keep our country on rubber and keep our economy.

"On rubber," continued the big fisted, square jawed ex-railroader, "there are too many experts in Washington, as we have too many experts on other things in Washington.

"There are too many experts in these plants, army and navy men. It's a battle between how many stars and how many bars. Keep the army and navy loafers out of these plants."

"Not Cleared" by OWI.

The office of war information, headed by Elmer Davis, after learning for the first time of Jeffers' Baltimore speech, issued a curt statement that the address had not been "cleared" by this official administration press agent. When OWI was established, one of its announced purposes was to prevent controversies among the bureaus from reaching public ears.

The army and navy have opposed Jeffers' efforts to get for the rubber plant construction more of the valves, instruments, and other component parts which are also needed to build aviation gasoline refineries. He has contended that unless the rubber factories receive preference, the shortage of rubber may cause collapse of arms production and, with no tires for motor transportation, wreck the civilian economy.

Hears Madigan Testimony.

Earlier in the day Jeffers, with his chief technician, Bradley Dewey, attended the senate committee hearing as a spectator while the chairman, Sen. Guy M. Gillette [D., Ia.] put Madigan on the pan.

Madigan, under questioning by Gillette, conceded that his testimony last July, when he was working for Jesse Jones in the Rubber Reserve corporation, was "optimistic" in regard to the associated synthetic rubber and aviation gasoline projects.

"To have been otherwise," he said, "would have been defeatism."

Previous Testimony Cited.

"Your testimony last summer," Gillette asserted, "tended to refute our evidence that the petroleum

New Deal Quiz Papers Plague Cargo Movers

New York, Jan. 25 [Special].—Foreign freight forwarders in the New York area have received sample forms from the maritime commission which would require many of them to answer more than a million questions in 30 days, it was revealed today.

The two largest organizations of freight forwarders have consulted their attorneys to determine whether there is any possibility of obtaining court relief from the task. Foreign freight forwarders arrange shipments of goods to foreign ports. Their task is seeing that the goods are shipped by the quickest and cheapest means possible, depending on the manufacturer's requirements.

U. S. Retaliation Charged.

Several forwarders, who declined to be quoted directly, expressed belief the plague of questions was in retaliation for criticism of the handling of lend-lease shipments, made by American companies which felt that foreign concerns were obtaining an unfair share of the business.

The sample form sent to the forwarders calls for answers to a minimum of 88 questions concerning every transaction made in January and February, 1940, June and July, 1941, and November and December, 1942.

A company which averaged 500 transactions a week during those periods would, therefore, be required to answer 1,144,000 questions on the basis of the minimum. The form, in addition, required the answers to be filed in 30 days.

Commission Aid Absent.

At the maritime commission offices here it was said that Morris Kressel of the commission's legal division was in charge of obtaining the information sought in the questionnaires.

Kressel now is in Washington, D. C., and no one else at the local offices would comment in his absence.

"This investigation and the questionnaire look like the penalty for opposing the boys in Washington," one forwarder was quoted as saying.

20 Tons of Horse Meat for Humans in Newark, N.J.

Newark, N. J., Jan. 25 [Special].—A huge shipment of horse meat for human consumption—40,000 pounds, or 20 tons of it—reached Newark today. The consignment will be placed on sale Wednesday morning when a new city ordinance permitting the sale of horse flesh for humans becomes effective.

CANADIAN BROADCAST REPORTER KILLED BY AFRICA ANTI-AIRCRAFT

MONTREAL, Que., Jan. 25 (AP).—Mrs. Edouard Baudry has been advised of the death of her husband, 33 year old Canadian broadcasting corporation correspondent, in North Africa. It was learned here that Baudry was killed by anti-aircraft fire when the plane in which he was a passenger flew off course and appeared over Spanish Morocco.

Baudry was on loan to the overseas unit of the CBC in England after he had been called up for service in the reconstituted army of his native Belgium. He had trained in Canada and then went to England.

Since joining the overseas unit of the CBC, he had been heard regularly here, interviewing French-Canadian troops in Britain. Recently he flew to North Africa and had broadcast descriptive stories of the campaign there from Algiers. He served for several years on the Montreal newspapers La Patrie and Le Canada. About 1931 he started freelance broadcasting. He married Yvette Gagnon, former member of the Montreal CBC staff. They had one child.

LAST DAY RUSH ADDS 15,000 TO REGISTERED VOTE

An unusually large number of new registrations forecast keen interest in the coming city primary election Feb. 23 as the 9 p. m. deadline expired at 137 city fire stations yesterday. John S. Rusch, chief clerk of the election commissioner's office, estimated that 15,000 new voters registered yesterday and that there were 1,600 changes in name and 7,500 changes of address.

Rusch said registration figures for Friday and Saturday showed 9,438 new voters, 966 changes in name and 10,312 changes of address. He attributed the heavy registration to an influx of war workers. Where heated aldermanic campaigns are in progress the turnout was heavy. At the fire station at 4426 North Kedzie avenue more than 60 persons were waiting inside to be registered when the doors were closed.

Firemen thruout the city said none was turned away as the deadline neared. Mailing of 200 applications for ballots to voters requesting them has begun.

Shot by Wife, Then Slain by 'Other Woman'

Cincinnati, O., Jan. 25 [Special].—Victor Caproni, 29 year old war plant guard, was shot and killed today by a 26 year old woman as he lay in a hospital bed recovering from a gunshot wound inflicted by his wife yesterday.

The slayer was Mrs. Pearl Leonard, who for more than six months had lived in the same house with Caproni and his wife. She was driven to the hospital by Mrs. Caproni, also 26, who waited outside while the shooting took place. Afterward the women surrendered. Murder charges have been placed against both.

Spend Day in Prayer.

The two women told Chief of Detectives Emmet D. Kirgan that they spent yesterday together in prayer, seeking a solution of their difficulties. They went to church together.

Mrs. Leonard said she met Caproni about a year ago and believed him a single man. For several weeks they lived together in a house for which she provided the money, but he insisted that they move to the home of "a girl friend."

Tell of Threats to Both.

About six months ago, Mrs. Leonard said, she consented to this change of residence, taking with her her 7 year old son by a former marriage. At the new home she found a woman with four children, the oldest 8 years old, who she learned was Caproni's wife.

Both women told authorities Caproni forced them to endure the situation by threatening to kill their children if they protested. They said he kept several loaded revolvers in the home and always slept with one under his pillow.

Caproni and his wife were quarreling in bed early Sunday when Caproni reached under the pillow for a weapon, Mrs. Caproni said.

Gets Gun First, Shoots.

"But I beat him to it," she exulted. "It was the first time in 10 years I ever beat him to anything." Her bullet went thru his chest.

Mrs. Mary Geisler, 20, nurses' aid at the Good Samaritan hospital, said Caproni was asleep when Mrs. Leonard entered his room. She saw Mrs. Leonard place an automatic pistol against his forehead and pull the trigger. Caproni died within 20 minutes.

"It is for the best," Mrs. Leonard told officers. "I went there to kill him." She added, referring to Mrs. Caproni, "Eleanor and I think the world of each other."

Report Britain, U. S. Agree on Africa Policy

IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

An important announcement is expected to be made public at 9 p. m. tonight [Tuesday]. No indication of its nature can be given at present.

[By Wireless to The New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, Jan. 25.—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden is facing a series of tough questions on Britain's attitude toward recent North African political developments in the next session of the house of commons. His answers should give a clew to the trend of recent negotiations between the allies and Gen. Henri Honoré Giraud, French high commissioner for North Africa, and Gen. Charles de Gaulle, the Fighting French leader.

It may be that soon the whole dramatic story of how China, Russia, the United States, and Great Britain have integrated their military strategy for the coming year and agreed upon post-war political aims, can be told.

There is recognition here that the North African situation has reached a showdown stage. Great Britain and the United States, it is believed, have reached an agreement on alternative ways in which the North African situation can be handled and these alternatives probably have been offered to Gen. De Gaulle and Gen. Giraud.

Hints Early Settlement.

Richard Law, undersecretary of state for foreign affairs said yesterday that "no doubt" many of the things which are worrying people about North Africa would straighten themselves out before long.

It was natural, he said, that many were dissatisfied with the progress of the allies in Tunisia, but in weighing the political difficulties encountered it should be remembered that the armies under Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower are not "occupying" in the sense that Germany occupied the country.

"We are not there to enslave a country. We are there as friends and liberators, not enemies. We have gone there to free the French of North Africa and we are not in a position to adopt an attitude of pure dictation or coercion," he commented.

Report Allied Decision.

LONDON, Jan. 25 (AP).—The allies were reported tonight in diplomatic circles to have agreed on a formula for some kind of a supreme council to direct and unify efforts to win the war in 1943.

British, United States, Russian, and Chinese officials remained silent on the grand strategy talks known to have been under way, but it is no secret that some extremely important announcement affecting the allied conduct of the war is imminent.

It is no secret either that a unification of strategy has been high on the allied agenda for months, nor that as part of this unity great attention is being given to the problem of coordinating allied armies in North Africa under a single command.

Armies Near Junction.

The British 8th army, commanded by Gen. Bernard L. Montgomery under supervision of Gen. Harold Alexander, the middle east commander, is nearing a junction with the British 1st army, the United States 5th army, and the French, all under the direction of Lt. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Recent speculation has centered on Gen. George C. Marshall, United States army chief of staff, as commander in chief of allied forces in the European theater.

Noting the great volume of public discussion, some observers viewed many rumors as having been planted deliberately to obtain public reaction.

If so, the renewed public, official, and press attention to the submarine menace must have placed the U-boat problem high on the allied agenda, along with the resolution of French political differences and wide scale offensive action for 1943. Critics expect Germany to use 500 to 700 U-boats.

Urges Support of Allies.

ALGIERS, Jan. 25 (AP).—Marcel Peyrouton, new governor general of Algeria, told an audience of officials and prominent residents of Algiers today that "we shall act" against any attempt to divide the population of Algiers to the detriment of the allies.

He described such attempts to divide the people as "the efficacious arm of collective suicide."

"The allies have promised us to respect French sovereignty," he said. "We must in exchange bring them active collaboration. Passive adhesion is not sufficient."

CITIZENS SET UP BARRICADES IN MARSEILLES

BULLETIN.

LONDON, Jan. 26 (Tuesday)—(AP).—Vichy authorities proclaimed a state of siege in Marseilles today, the Vichy radio announced, as revolting Frenchmen barricaded themselves in their homes in the old port district to fight off German troops bent on evacuating the entire area. Members of the Service D'Ordre have been instructed to use firearms against all who disregard orders.

LONDON, Jan. 25 (AP).—Revolting Frenchmen barricaded themselves inside their homes in the old port district of Marseilles tonight and began fighting German troops who called up tanks and artillery, reports from Switzerland said.

The revolt in restless France broke out after German occupation authorities and their puppet Vichy régime headed by Pierre Laval ordered the evacuation and razing of the entire area of 40,000 persons. DNB dispatches to Madrid and Lisbon said that 40,000 persons already had been arrested, but a few hours earlier the Vichy radio said only 6,000 had been rounded up.

A Reuters [British] dispatch from Zurich said that an undetermined number of Frenchmen dug up their guns, fortified their homes as best they could, and began firing on every German soldier approaching. The German troops then summoned artillery and tanks and began besieging the French in a house-to-house fight in the labyrinthian sector of narrow dark streets.

Highlights Growing Unrest.

The Marseilles fighting highlighted the increasing trouble encountered by the Germans and their Vichy régime thruout the country.

A Zurich dispatch to the soviet news agency Tass meanwhile reported that Vichy Police Chief Bousquet had barred French citizens from living within three miles of a triangular coastal area west of Marseilles formed by the towns of Cette, Montpellier, and Beziers. Foreigners are to be kept 18 miles from that zone, it was reported.

The Berlin radio broadcast a Vichy dispatch late tonight admitting that the Marseilles drive was "not only against ordinary criminals, but also against various secret political organizations which have settled in the city."

"Many Jews" Arrested.

Laval's régime was said to have carried out 10,000 "investigations" of Gen. Charles de Gaulle's Fighting French adherents and Communists, and the Nazis themselves have arrested "500 persons every month" since the occupation.

"Many Jews" were among those arrested, a DNB Paris dispatch said. Physicians, midwives, railroad clerks, and other professional men were not arrested, it added. Thousands of persons were reported being transferred to Frejus, a town near the coast about 75 miles east of Marseilles, and 20 miles southwest of Cannes.

[A Lyon broadcast recorded by the FCC said those arrested were being sent to the Bouches du Rhone department north and west of Marseilles.]

BRITISH CONFIRM COMMANDO RAID ON NORSE COAST

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 26 [Tuesday].—Indirect confirmation of the German report that seven British torpedo boats attempted to land sabotage troops at the Norwegian port of Larvik last Saturday was given by the British Broadcasting corporation tonight. It recalled that Deputy Prime Minister Clement Attlee recently foreshadowed that the Norwegian coast would be subject to Commando raids. Larvik is on the Skagerrak, the channel between Norway and Denmark, southwest of Oslo.

Altho there has been no official confirmation of the raid and no refutation of the German claim to have sunk two torpedo boats, the London press says the Commando operation, believed to have been aimed at the destruction of a factory, was successful.

Despite the raid's admittedly small scope, the Daily Express hails the venture as "the most audacious raid of the war."

BRITAIN GIVEN 77 PER CENT OF ALL LEND-LEASE

China Gets 1.8%, Report to Congress Shows.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 25.—The lion's share of lend-lease aid has gone to the British empire, it was officially disclosed today.

Edward R. Stettinius Jr., lend-lease administrator, made a cumulative report to congress on lend-lease operations from March 11, 1941, to Dec. 31, 1942, showing that aid totaling $8,252,733,000 has gone to allied nations.

The report showed that 77 per cent of the total went to the British empire, 18 per cent to soviet Russia, 1.8 per cent to China, and 2.5 per cent to all other allies. Britain received $6,353,143,000, Russia, $1,532,230,000; China, $156,738,000, and all other allies received $210,622,000.

Mission Protest Cited.

The comparatively small share of lend-lease delivered or en route to China was regarded as confirmation of reports that the recent withdrawal of the Chinese military mission here constituted a protest by Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek against the meager amount of aid extended to the nation which has been resisting axis aggression since July 7, 1937.

[The amount of aid extended the principal allies, including arms and miscellaneous items, is shown in a table in adjoining column.]

Not all of the lend-lease aid has reached destined recipients, Stettinius disclosed. Of the total, 5 billion 959 million dollars' worth of goods has been exported, including military items valued at 3 billion 330 millions. Eight per cent of the total export was shipped in 1941 and 92 per cent in 1942.

Aid Nears Half-Way Mark.

The total of $8,252,733,000 brings the lend-lease administration toward the half way mark of the 18 billion 410 million dollars in the three direct appropriations made for lend-lease before Pearl Harbor. There have been no direct appropriations for lend-lease since Pearl Harbor but the lend-lease administration has been authorized to transfer goods from the army, navy, and maritime commission up to a maximum value of 35 billion 970 million dollars.

The Stettinius report hinted what has long been suspected—that the allies will not be asked to pay for or return goods received under direct appropriations or the authorization.

"Lend-lease is not a loan of money," the report said, "nor is it an act of charity. The lend-lease program of providing goods and services to nations resisting the axis aggressors was undertaken for the defense of this country and has been carried out in the interests of the people of the United States. We have aided other peoples under lend-lease because their interests coincided with our interests."

World War Debts Nearly 15 Billion.

Unpaid World War I. debts owed the United States are approaching the 15 billion dollar mark, it was learned. Approximately 5 billion dollars of this is owed and has been defaulted upon for years by Great Britain.

Today's report said a substantial part of lend-lease aid is being repaid thru reciprocal lend-lease agreements. It said most of such reciprocal aid is coming from the United Kingdom, Australia, and New Zealand.

Major items of lend-lease reciprocal aid included $250,000 weekly in wages for civilian workers in Britain working for American forces there, 1,450,000 square yards of portable airfields, 15,000 bombs, and large supplies of other munitions, clothing, and other material. It also was said Australia and New Zealand supply large amounts of foodstuffs.

Half Goes for Military Items.

The report revealed that almost half of the $8,252,733,000 went for military items. Of $3,709,466,000 in military items, aircraft and aircraft parts totaled $1,198,800,000.

Other large items of aid included $682,022,000 in ammunition, $1,040,540,000 in food, $835,479,000 in shipping services rendered, $506,564,000 in metals, $333,337,000 in petroleum products, and $554,065,000 in production facilities made available in this country for allies.

The report also disclosed that ship repairs totaling $265,897,000 were made for allies. Almost 334 million dollars of this went to the British Empire.

Store Shut Once a Week to Fill Out Questionnaires

Easton, Md., Jan. 25 (AP).—Filling out government blanks, sorting ration coupons, and reading federal regulations is too much for Edward R. Dawkins, owner of one of Easton's largest groceries. He advertised that the store will be closed Wednesday afternoons, saying he needs half a day a week, "and maybe more," to catch up on his government reading and writing.

BILL WOULD BAR UNION GIFTS TO CAMPAIGN FUNDS

Also Requires Reports on Finances.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 25.—Such contributions as the $500,000 donation of John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers to the 1936 campaign fund of President Roosevelt would be outlawed under a bill introduced in the house today by Rep. Gerald W. Landis [R., Ind.].

The bill, similar to one which Landis proposed in the last congress, would forbid unions from making political contributions and require the unions to make financial statements to the government.

Provides Severe Penalties.

Landis' bill would specifically ban union contributions in connection with any election at which the Presidential or Vice Presidential electors or any senators or representatives are to be voted for. The bill provides maximum penalties of a $5,000 fine for the organization and one year in jail and a $1,000 fine for union officers consenting to such contributions.

The bill would require unions to file reports with the government twice a year, registering with the secretary of labor their cash receipts, expenditures, number of members, membership fees, and the names and salaries of their officers.

Labor organizations failing to make reports would lose their status under the national labor relations act.

Contributions Criticized.

The huge contribution of the United Mine Workers to the Democratic campaign fund in 1936 has come under heavy criticism because of the demands made by Lewis and his efforts to shape labor policies. There have been many protests by members of congress against permitting such campaign donations lest the labor leaders who order the distribution of funds seek to use their action to gain undue power.

BILL PROPOSES DEBT LIMIT RISE TO 210 BILLIONS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 25.—Administration sponsored legislation to raise the national debt limit to 210 billion dollars was introduced today in the house by Robert L. Doughton [D., N. C.], chairman of the ways and means committee, and in the senate by Walter F. George [D., Ga.], chairman of the senate finance committee.

Records show that the present public debt is now at the unprecedented peak of $114,152,668,166 while the present debt ceiling is 125 billions. A raise in the ceiling is necessary to help finance the administration's war spending program for the next fiscal year.

Meanwhile congressional committees prepared to consider this week a new war time tax program expected to add heavily to the burdens on American wage earners.

BILL TO INDUCT WAR STRIKERS AT ONCE IS OFFERED

Delaying of Supplies Is Held Treasonable.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 25.—Strikers delaying the production or delivery of war materials would be subject to immediate induction into military service under a bill to amend the selective service act introduced today in congress. The bill was drawn up by Rep. Clare E. Hoffman [R., Mich.].

It would subject "those who strike, bring about slowdowns, or who in any way interfere with the production or transportation of war materials, to be inducted into the army, there to have the status of privates in the armed forces."

"Treasonable Activities."

Declaring that "the cold fact, the bare truth" presented to congress in the last few days about the activities of labor unions and labor leaders "gives us a story of treasonable activities unsurpassed in the history of the world," Hoffman called for immediate action on his measure.

"The appointment of committees, the carrying on of investigations on this subject, are a waste of time and money," Hoffman said. "What the people of this country are demanding is action, and they do not mean some time in the dim and distant future. They want action now!"

Hits at CIO Union.

In introducing the proposed amendment to the draft law, Hoffman struck out at the CIO National Maritime union, whose members, according to stories coming back from Guadalcanal, refused to unload supplies for marines in the Solomons, being unwilling to work on Sunday.

He lashed the CIO west coast unions that, according to a letter from Assistant Secretary of the Navy Ralph A. Bard, went on a strike that prevented repairs on army and navy vessels doing convoy duty.

"Now we know—and there is no disputing the fact—that as long as three years ago the CIO deliberately and wilfully interfered with production for national defense," Hoffman declared.

"Now we know that a CIO organization refused to make ship repairs, and, by that refusal, hindered and delayed convoys carrying supplies to the men who are fighting our battle down in the southwest Pacific.

"Now we know that an affiliate of that same union has refused to unload food and supplies needed by men who have been battling for weeks in what are practically desert islands more than 7,000 miles from home.

"The cold fact, the bare truth, gives us a story of treasonable activities unsurpassed in the history of the world."

Adm. Keyes Takes Title of 'Baron of Zeebrugge'

LONDON, Jan. 25 (AP).—Admiral of the Fleet Roger Keyes, who received a barony in the new year honors list, has taken the title of Baron Keyes of Zeebrugge and Dover. In 1918 Keyes was commander of the Dover patrol and led a British naval foray on April 23 of that year to make the Belgian port of Zeebrugge useless to the Germans.

CARGO SAILORS' FREE CIGARETS PUZZLE FIGHTERS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 25.—Free cigarets for American merchant marine seamen, who are paid more than fighting men and who also receive large bonuses, puzzled $50 a month soldiers and sailors today.

The war shipping administration last week announced the establishment of a program, thru an arrangement with a cigaret manufacturer, under which cigarets will be distributed free to seamen aboard all vessels of the merchant marine.

At the navy department it was learned that sailors, who make longer and more hazardous voyages, do not receive free cigarets.

At the war department it was learned that soldiers likewise do not receive free cigarets, except at the discretion of their commanding officer when they are in combat. Soldiers may be issued 20 cigarets and one ounce of candy as part of their daily ration on fighting fronts.

A Half-Filled Stamp Album Is Like a Half-Equipped Soldier

A half-filled stamp album in your desk . . . your wallet . . . or some other forgotten spot, will do you no good, and certainly does Uncle Sam no good. Stamps alone do not draw interest for you . . . BUT, stamps converted into War Bonds do. And stamps converted into War Bonds keep our soldiers, sailors and marines equipped to fight for us . . . fully equipped with every weapon they need, and food and clothing to keep them going. Your half-filled album is only half helping them.

According to Treasury figures, there are one hundred million partly-filled albums in the country today. The conversion of these books into War Bonds would mean $1,870,000,000 ready to go into immediate action to defeat our enemies. BOYLE AND LYLE ATTACK, MAYOR DEFENDS RECORD

Kelly Cites Achievements in Health Program.

The Kelly-Nash organization of pay rollers and their relatives was attacked yesterday by John H. Lyle, Republican, and Ald. John S. Boyle [16th] Democrat, both candidates in the mayoral primary campaign, while Mayor Kelly lauded Chicago's health achievements under his administration in another of his weekly campaign radio talks.

"Chicago today is enjoying the best health conservation service in the world at the lowest per capita cost of any large city," Mayor Kelly said. "The authority for this statement is the United States bureau of census.

War Time Economy.

"Chicago's health has enabled its people to meet the demands of a war time economy—and has furnished strong men and women to set a nation-wide record for war production and war activities."

The mayor said that during his administration Chicago had attained the lowest baby death rate, the lowest maternal death rate, and the lowest contagious disease death rate in the world; also the greatest advance in the country in the control of social diseases, the best water supply, the purest milk supply, and the only free supply of breast milk in the world—the last achievement made at the mayor's own suggestion, he said.

Ald. Boyle told the City club in the Hotel La Salle that the Kelly-Nash machine controls 300,000 votes. This in itself cannot win the nomination for the mayor if the other Democratic voters turn out in the primary, he said.

Civil Service Employés.

"Part and parcel of the machine now are the 1,800 civil service employés who have been given temporary higher ratings which pay their rent for them," Boyle said. "Those 1,800 are darn good machine workers now. They're out plugging for the mayor in violation of the civil service law. But who can you complain to? To the mayor? To his own civil service commission?"

Boyle said he has often seen aldermen rise in the council chamber to protest against some measure, then sink back into their seats "when they think of the 300 or 400 jobs in their ward."

"An alderman doesn't own his own soul when the mayor controls those hundreds of jobs," he said. "He can take them away with a snap of his fingers."

Former Judge Lyle took a respite from his personal investigation of street car service to take some punches at the Kelly-Nash organization. He quoted from the lead editorial in the Democratic publication, Public Service Leader, on whose advisory board sit both Patrick A. Nash and the mayor.

"Wise precinct captains realize that this is their fight," the editorial declared. "If it is lost—and it can only be lost thru complacency—NO EXCUSES will be worth uttering. There'll be VERY LITTLE LEFT of the Democratic organization in Chicago.

"Let every precinct captain, every precinct worker, ask himself: What becomes of me if Mayor Kelly should be defeated?"

Lyle branded this appeal "a startling confession of how the Kelly-Nash machine buys its votes with the taxpayers' money."

"If Mayor Kelly should be defeated the Democratic machine would crumble, and the entire United States of America would be better off for it," Lyle said. "That is one of the gravely important reasons why I want the Republican nomination for mayor. I intend to put on the rip-roaringest campaign of Chicago history."

CALLAHAN JOINS MARINES; QUITS AS ALDERMAN

Ald. Francis E. Callahan [37th], 41 years old, was sworn in as a captain in the marines during the city council meeting yesterday, and then tendered his resignation as alderman, effective next Sunday. The oath was administered by Lt. Col. Chester L. Fordney, marine recruiting officer.

Callahan's work as an alderman and his patriotism were praised in brief talks by a dozen of his colleagues, while his wife and 5 year old son looked on. Callahan won his aldermanic post in a special election June 6, 1941.

Callahan's entry into the marines left William J. Lancaster, $8,000 a year assistant corporation counsel assigned to the public improvements division, the Democratic organization choice for alderman from the 37th ward in the coming election.

Only 42 of the city's 50 wards now are represented in the council.

Open Chicago Red Cross Drive

RED CROSS GOAL FOR CHICAGO IS NEAR 9 MILLION

Set Record War Fund Quota for Nation.

James B. Forgan, chairman of the Chicago chapter of the Red Cross, said yesterday that the chapter's share of the 1943 Red Cross war fund is $8,750,000, of which approximately half will be sent to national headquarters and half used in Chicago. This is the largest figure ever sought locally by the organization and is more than double the $4,200,000 raised last year immediately after the attack on Pearl Harbor.

The national quota, highest ever set in a single campaign for any cause, is 125 million dollars as against 60 millions last year. March is the campaign month.

Names Campaign Manager.

Forgan named Martin H. Kennelly, president of Werner Bros.-Kennelly company, general campaign manager. He will start immediately to organize the Chicago area which includes Cook and Du Page counties and the south half of Lake, largest chapter in the country in both area and population. Headquarters have been opened at 36 South State street. Kennelly said he would name a chairman in the next two weeks and hoped to recruit 50,000 volunteer workers for the campaign.

The 1943 national goal is only 25 million greater than the fund raised in 1918, Forgan said, when the United States had an army of 2 million men in a relatively small theater of action. A large portion of the 1943 war fund will be devoted to the need of the 7 million men in service thruout the world.

Operate Clubs for AEF.

Approximately 66 per cent of the national war fund will be earmarked for home service work. Among projects under this heading and not undertaken in 1918 are the operation of clubs for troops in England, Ireland, North Africa, and Australia.

The Red Cross war fund drive is one of two major fund campaigns scheduled for Chicago this year. The second will be in the fall when the newly formed community and war fund of metropolitan Chicago conducts a drive for the Community fund and participating war relief agencies.

57 CANDIDATES FOR ALDERMAN ARE CHALLENGED

Objections to the nominating petitions of 57 candidates for alderman were filed with the board of election commissioners by 5 p. m. yesterday, the deadline for submitting protests.

The petitions of only two present aldermen—Earl B. Dickerson [2d] and H. L. Brody [39th]—were contested. Only in the 1st ward, where John Budinger, 2449 Wentworth avenue, and James McVittie, 65 West Jackson street, seek the position being vacated by Ald. Michael Kenna, are the petitions of all candidates contested.

The election commissioners, sitting as the municipal officers electoral board, will begin hearing these cases at 10 a. m. Friday and expect to complete the job some time Saturday. The board is required by law to open these hearings in the county building. Actually, the board will meet briefly at room 615 in the county building, then adjourn to the city council chambers for the hearings.

COFFEE CUP HURLER FINED $35.

Mrs. Evelyn Clippinger, 30 years old, 1745 Warren boulevard, arrested Saturday for hurling a coffee cup thru the window of a tavern at 1556 Madison street, was fined $35 and costs yesterday by Judge J. M. Braude in Women's court.

BUSES AND TAXICABS TOLD TO PREPARE FOR 30 PCT. CUT IN SERVICE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 25.—Transportation Director Joseph B. Eastman today asked bus and taxicab operators thruout the country to prepare for possible reductions of as much as 30 per cent in their operations "in the event of emergency."

Eastman said "emergency mileage curtailment on short notice" may be required to prevent "transportation confusion or collapse."

Today's order requires all operators of fleets of 10 or more cabs or buses, local or intercity, to submit to the ODT three plans, one for a 10 per cent mileage reduction, one for a 20 per cent reduction, and one for a 30 per cent cut.

"In the event of emergency," Eastman said, "the ODT will thus be able to issue an order calling for 'plan No. 2 for 10 days,' for instance, in the area where the emergency exists, and covering the emergency's expected duration."

MORE TRANSIT CUTS FORECAST BY ENGINEERS

Further curtailments of public transit facilities were predicted for Chicago last night at a symposium on war transportation problems held jointly by the Chicago chapter of the Institute of Traffic Engineers and the Western Society of Engineers in the society's clubrooms at 205 West Wacker drive.

Workers must expect more drastic staggering of working hours, Kay Lorentzen, traffic engineer for the Chicago Motor Coach company, predicted, with some starting work as early as 7 a. m. as private autos wear out and the load on public transportation increases. Reduction in the buses available was forecast by William McConochie, traffic engineer for the Chicago Surface Lines, who said war plants would have to get buses to transport workers, and the only place to get them was from public systems. Harold Otis, elevated lines' equipment engineer, told about difficulties faced as a result of inability to obtain new equipment.

Meanwhile Mayor Kelly, after conferring with office of defense transportation officials in Washington, D. C., indicated the city was abandoning efforts to obtain restoration of the Kimball-Homan, Kimball, and Ogden avenue bus routes of the Chicago Surface Lines. "This curtailment is not just a gesture or a whim," said Kelly. "The ODT is determined to cut bus mileage all over the country 15 per cent from the 1941 level."

NELSON WILL O. K. TIME CHANGES IF WORK ISN'T PRICE

Baltimore, Md., Jan. 25 (AP).—War Production Manager Donald M. Nelson today gave qualified approval to the states of Ohio and Michigan for their plan to return to central war time. Both states now use eastern time.

Nelson, who attended the governors' meeting here, said he had no objection "providing such a change would not affect war production."

He announced after a conference with Governors Bricker of Ohio and Harry F. Kelly of Michigan that he had arranged a meeting of members of both houses of the Michigan and Ohio legislatures with WPB power division officials in Washington tomorrow. Further study of the question will be made at the conference.

1,300 STUDENTS FACE ARMY CALL FEB. 15 AT U. OF I.

Order General Induction of College Reservists.

Thirteen hundred enlisted army reservists at the University of Illinois expect to be ordered to active duty by Feb. 15, it was learned yesterday, as war department officials in Washington, D. C., reminded commanding generals of the nine service commands thruout the country that the specialized training program announced last Dec. 17 calls for induction of most students at the conclusion of the first semester, quarter, or term after Dec. 31, 1942. The University of Illinois term ends Saturday.

Officials of colleges and universities in and around Chicago said they were told their enlisted reservists would be called about two weeks after the end of the present terms. The term at the University of Chicago ends March 27 and the school is expecting students to be called about April 12. Terms at other universities end as follows: Loyola, March 5; De Paul, March 18, and Northwestern, March 20.

Exempt Certain Students.

Maj. Gen. H. S. Aurand of the 6th service command announced the following exceptions to the general induction order for college enlisted reservists: [1] medical and premedical students, including dental and veterinary; [2] engineering students of sophomore, junior or senior standing; [3] advance R. O. T. C. students [juniors and seniors]; [4] students of sophomore or higher standing in recognized military colleges; [5] aviation cadets in the enlisted reserve; [6] students in electronics.

In general, he said, the program is being geared to the specialized training program under which a number of colleges will contract with the war department to instruct 150,000 young soldiers a year.

Colleges Not Yet Named.

No final selection of colleges has been made and contracts are not yet signed, Gen. Aurand asserted, but reservists called from college for induction in the army must complete the basic military training of 13 weeks before they are eligible for reassignment to a college for additional instruction.

Misunderstanding of the soldier training program, according to University of Illinois officials, has resulted in a rumor that that school was being "taken over by the army" and would not accept students for the second semester which begins Feb. 5 and 6 with classes opening Feb. 8. This is not true, they asserted, as the school will accept all students who can qualify.

BURGLARS TAKE $785.

Police are searching for burglars who broke into the apartment of Charles Schroeder, an automobile salesman, at 410 East 32d street Sunday night and stole $785 in cash and $65 in jewelry.

APPROVE COLLEGE ENTRY BY SENIORS IN HIGH SCHOOL

State Grants Credit for Military Work.

Urbana, Ill., Jan. 25 [Special]—Admission of exceptional high school seniors to colleges before completing their high school work, and granting high school credit for military service and for special instruction while in military service, were approved today by state officers in charge of accrediting Illinois high schools.

General shortening of school terms except when absolutely essential to the war and high school credit for factory work experience not under school supervision and control were disapproved.

A statement of policies for maintaining the standards of Illinois high schools and at the same time allowing for war time conditions was sent today to all state high school principals over the joint signatures of Vernon L. Nickell, state superintendent of public instruction, and Arthur W. Clevenger, high school visitor of the University of Illinois.

Recognize Changed Conditions.

Inspection and accrediting of Illinois high schools is carried on jointly by these two officers. They enforce the standards which schools must maintain to have recognition and accredited standing. The statement sent today adapts the standards to changing conditions.

Among the new policies are:

Unrestricted admission to college of students who have not completed the requirements for graduation from secondary school cannot be justified. As a general rule pupils should complete the full program. However, exceptional pupils are competent to work on the college level and acceleration thru admission to college may be sound.

The selection of such pupils should be on an individual basis, confined to seniors, who possess the educational achievement, intellectual ability, social maturity, and emotional stability essential to success in college.

Credit for Drafted Students.

High school pupils who are drafted or who withdraw from school to enlist may be granted full credit for courses in which their work during at least one-half of a semester was satisfactory at the time of leaving school.

One unit of high school credit may be given for the basic 13 week training in the army, and an additional credit for military service of at least six months beyond the basic training.

Up to two units credit may be given for instruction while in service other than military where quality and work of the course is "substantially equivalent" to high school standards.

ARE WE WINNING THE WAR? YES, SAYS PATTERSON

Calls Russian Front the Most Important.

BY CHARLES GOTTHART.

Robert P. Patterson, undersecretary of war, last night answered the question, "Are we winning the war?" with an emphatic "yes," before 600 midwest industrialists and Chicago bankers at a Union League club dinner sponsored by the Technological institute of Northwestern university.

Patterson concluded his address and a question and answer period that followed, with a radio speech in which he promised that the military authorities would do their utmost in helping the returning soldiers, sailors and marines find jobs after the war.

The Russian Front.

"In the opinion of our military leaders," Patterson said, "the most important fighting front today is the Russian front. The almost unprecedented achievement of the Russians in raising the 17 month siege of Leningrad may have momentous consequences."

Patterson rated the African front next in importance. He said Americans can take pride in the part they are playing in the eventual complete defeat of Field Marshal Rommel's forces in North Africa.

Patterson said the Germans had beaten the allies to Tunisia, and that weather and supply problems had held up our offensive there, but victory will be ours as soon as these problems are solved. Victory will bring complete control of the Mediterranean, he said.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's rout of the Japanese in southeastern New Guinea was "an extraordinary operation," Patterson asserted. Extinction of the Japanese on Guadalcanal will be accomplished unless the enemy succeeds in effecting bigger landings than any attempted thus far, he said.

U-Boats on Increase.

On the debit side of the war ledger, Patterson listed Germany's ability to produce more submarines than the allies have been able to sink.

"Submarine forces of the enemy are on the increase," he said. "It is obvious we can't ship large numbers of men overseas and supply them until we get the submarine menace under control."

Patterson asserted military men with all the facts at their command were the only ones in position to decide the proper size of our army. He expressed the conviction the nation could provide the army of 7½ million soldiers projected for the end of 1943.

"Draft System in Reverse."

In his radio address Patterson proposed a post-war draft system "in reverse" to operate as a job placement agency. The army, he said, would "do its best to see no man is mustered out of military ranks into a breadline."

The war department, he said, catalogs each man according to occupation or profession and the demobilization plan would be to inform men about to leave the army of job opportunities in their own field.

Guadalcanal Veterans in Chicago

Marines and sailors attending the aviation school on Navy pier and the advanced aviation machinists' school at 87th street and Anthony avenue are learning airplane repairs and maintenance from two of their fellows who learned it the hard way—on Guadalcanal.

Master Technical Sergeants Andrew L. Heaton, Pullman, Wash., and Thomas C. Lamb, Orlando, Fla., have been assigned to the Chicago schools to lecture to students and instructors on conditions they encountered in field maintenance. In all lectures the sergeants have been emphasizing the fact that few power tools are available in the field and reliance must be placed in hand tools and elbow power.

Sergt. Heaton, a marine veteran with 14 years' service, had charge of dive bomber maintenance, and Sergt. Lamb, who is serving his seventh year, looked after a fighter squadron. They went to Guadalcanal last August and started back to the United States in October.

ARIANI PLEADS GUILTY; FACES FIVE YEAR TERM

Savario Ariani, president of the defunct Italian Trust and Savings bank, who fled to San Francisco, Cal., in 1932 after the bank closed, pleaded guilty before Federal Judge Michael L. Igoe yesterday to one of three charges of concealing assets in a bankruptcy case. Sentence was deferred until March 3.

Thru his attorney, Abraham Marovitz, the 66 year old former banker whose bank funds revealed a shortage of $153,000 after he and his family vanished, made a plea for probation. Marovitz informed the court that Ariani, who has offered $70,000 to a trustee in bankruptcy in an effort to negotiate a settlement, is ill and would not survive imprisonment. On his plea of guilty he became subject to a maximum term of five years.

Arraigned with Ariani were his wife, Minnie, and their two sons, Carlo and Romolo, who renewed their pleas of not guilty to all three charges.

HOUSE MAY CURB ARMY'S SIZE BY LIMIT ON FUNDS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 25.—The senate appropriations committee acted today to make its own inquiry into administration plans for raising an army of 7,500,000 men, indicating that the power of the purse strings may be invoked, if necessary, to control its size.

The committee unanimously adopted a resolution calling for the appointment of a subcommittee to investigate the man power question as it relates to the size of the army and the number of men in agriculture and industry. The inquiry would be concerned with the effects of the problem on government appropriations and expenditures, the measure states.

Since the committee would have no control over farm or industrial manpower thru its voting of appropriations, there appeared little doubt that the members are chiefly concerned over the number of men being taken into the army. The members could limit the army's strength simply by limiting the amount of money available to pay and supply the officers and enlisted men.

NAVY HERO GIVES A LIFT TO DRIVE FOR SCOUT FUNDS

Three hundred civic leaders—gathered at the Union League club yesterday to start an $80,000 fund-raising campaign for Chicago Boy Scouts—found the usual pep talks by bankers, the colored movies of scouting, and, even, the fried chicken, all dwarfed by a few impromptu words of a 25 year old sailor.

"Nobody told me to say this," said Milo L. Kimberlin, machinist's mate, "but I want to say I believe in scouting. And I will tell you why. If this country had observed the Scout's motto, 'Be prepared,' we wouldn't be in such a mess right now."

Kimberlin, a former Dubuque, Ia., Boy Scout, joined the navy in 1939. He has seen action in the Coral sea, the New Guinea area, and on Guadalcanal. He has been decorated several times.

Emil A. Stake, vice president of the First National bank and chairman of this year's Boy Scout fund drive, said he wanted the campaign to be short and snappy, with the money raising completed as soon as possible. He cited an increase in juvenile delinquency as one of many reasons scouting should be maintained now.

FILING OF BRIEFS ORDERED IN NEW PETRILLO ACTION

Further hearing on a motion to dismiss the government's second suit to restrain James C. Petrillo and the American Federation of Musicians, of which he is president, from banning the making of recordings for radio broadcasts and other public purposes was continued until Feb. 8 by Judge John P. Barnes in federal District court yesterday after he heard oral arguments.

Thurman Arnold, assistant attorney general, who charged that the union and its officials had conspired in violation of the Sherman anti-trust laws, and Joseph Padway, counsel for the musicians, were directed to file briefs to support their contentions. Padway said the controversy was settled when Judge Barnes previously ruled it was essentially a labor dispute.

Arnold said the ban would tend to destroy 550 independent radio stations which use recordings.

Seize Convicted Credit Union Official in Home

Harry W. Burmeister, 734 Vine street, convicted Nov. 7 of embezzling $47,845 from the Associated Credit union and sentenced to 1 to 10 years imprisonment, was seized at his home yesterday. He was granted a stay of mittimus until last Friday night but failed to surrender. Burmeister was treasurer of the union.

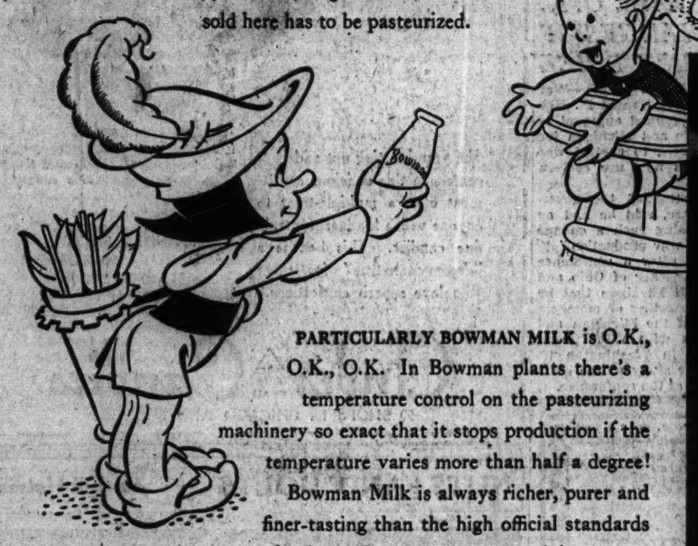
IT'S A FACT. A DOCTOR RUNS A DAIRY COMPANY HERE

YOURS SINCERELY
Bud Bowman

A LOT OF YOU OLDER PEOPLE in Chicago (and environs) have always got Bowman Milk for yourselves, and so your daughters and your granddaughters are "train-'em-as-they-should-go" customers, too, of Bowman. But did you ever tell them this?

WHEN THE BOWMAN DAIRY COMPANY started here it was customary to go out to the milk wagon that came down the street and get milk dippered out into your pitcher. That unsanitary way was changed by an M. D. who was one of the founders of Bowman here. His son D. B. Peck, also an M. D., is president of the company now.

DOCTORS FOR PRESIDENTS of a dairy company is a good thing. It means an awful high regard for purity that's so important in milk, especially for babies. Fact is, it was these Bowman fellows that worked and worked till Chicago people were protected from raw milk. Now, you know, all grade A milk that's sold here has to be pasteurized.



PARTICULARLY BOWMAN MILK is O.K., O.K., O.K. In Bowman plants there's a temperature control on the pasteurizing machinery so exact that it stops production if the temperature varies more than half a degree! Bowman Milk is always richer, purer and finer-tasting than the high official standards for fine milk. Are you getting it?

TAKE TOWN AND 6 JAP POSITIONS ON GUADALCANAL

Yanks Kill 201 of Foe in Two Day Drive.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 25 (AP).—By air, sea, and land, American fighting men in the Solomons made important territorial gains against the Japs on Guadalcanal over the week-end and inflicted heavy damage on the enemy.

The operations, the navy said today, resulted in capture of the village of Kokumbona, seven miles west of Guadalcanal airfield, where enemy stores and equipment were seized.

In addition, fuel and ammunition dumps on Kolombangara Island, 190 miles northwest of Guadalcanal airfield, were wiped out by bombardment from United States air and surface forces, and a large Japanese destroyer and a cargo ship were bombed in the vicinity of Shortland Island.

201 Japs Killed.

On Guadalcanal, where latest reports place the number of enemy troops at about 4,000, 201 Japanese were killed and 40 captured.

Naval spokesmen said the air action reported today, taken with that announced yesterday from Gen. MacArthur's headquarters, comprised the greatest air activity of the war in the Pacific to date.

The Guadalcanal action was launched Friday when United States troops pushed the Japanese westward and seized six important elevations which overlooked the village of Kokumbona.

Japs Raid Guadalcanal.

The Friday action resulted in the killing of 110 Japs, and mopping up operations the next day scored 91 more enemy dead and 40 prisoners.

The American positions on Guadalcanal were raided by enemy planes Saturday.

Enemy installations on Kolombangora Island were subjected to intensive bombardment Saturday and Sunday. The success of the mission was demonstrated by fires which indicated, the navy said, that the fuel and ammunition dumps on the enemy held island were "completely burned out."

Kolombangara Island, circular in shape and about 18 miles across, lies just northwest of New Georgia. Formed by an extinct volcano, it rises in a series of peaks, the highest of which reaches 5,450 feet.

CAPT. FOSS NAILS 3 JAP PLANES TO MAKE TOTAL 26

Yanks Bag 30 in Day's Fights.

BY ROBERT CROMIE.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

GUADALCANAL, Solomon Islands, Jan 18 [Delayed].—In a wild dog fight late today near New Georgia Island, Capt. Joseph Foss of Sioux Falls, S. D., nailed three Jap Zeroes of the new square winged type to run his total of enemy planes shot down to 26.

[Capt. Foss' feat ties the record of World War I. in which Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker won the title of "ace of aces" by shooting down 26 German planes.]

Other members of the "Foss Flying Circus" accounted for four more to bring the flight's total to 68.

Get 30 Japs in Day.

It was a banner day, army Warhawk fighters shooting down nine and Airacobras another five during an earlier afternoon mêlée, while army and marine flyers accounted for another nine during the morning. Total Jap losses for the day were known to be 30 and believed to be certainly higher. Our losses were far lighter.

Among the victorious marine pilots was Capt. Francis E. Pierce, 24, of Coronation, Cal., who got a Purple Heart medal, became an ace, and joined the Caterpillar club [persons who have made forced parachute jumps are eligible], all within a couple of hours.

Chicagoan Gets Two.

Pierce, who said, "I never had so much fun in my life," was wounded three times in the leg when a 20 millimeter cannon shell exploded in the cockpit of his plane over New Georgia. But he "lugged it out" with one Zero which came head-on into him, shooting it down, and then hit another which snap rolled in front of his Grumman Wildcat.

Army pilots who got two or more planes today include Lt. Robert D. Kennedy, 25, son of Donald Kennedy, 816 Agatite, Chicago, who shot down two float Zeros halfway between Bougainville and Munda. He has been here since Dec. 7, but this was his first real scramble.

Down Jap Planes

U.S. PLANES RAID RANGOON; BOMB JAP CARGO SHIP

NEW DELHI, India, Jan. 25 (AP).—United States bombers in a daylight raid into Burma struck docks at Rangoon and scored two direct hits on a 6,000 ton merchant vessel yesterday, a 10th air force communique said today. Fighters and bombers ranged into north Burma and set buildings afire at a Japanese storage area at Shaduzur, the announcement said.

Demolition and fragmentation bombs dropped in the target area, which was then heavily strafed with machine gun fire, leaving buildings in flames.

RAF bombers raided the Japanese airdrome at Shwebo. Bombs also were dropped on enemy occupied villages on Akyab Island. Three buildings were damaged at Gangaw and small shipping was attacked on the Arakan coast.

MacARTHUR AND AUSTRALIA HAVE BIRTHDAY TODAY

MELBOURNE, Australia, Jan. 25 (AP).—Gen. Douglas MacArthur and Australia will celebrate their birthdays together tomorrow. It will be the general's 63d; for Australia it will mark the 155th anniversary of the day the British flag was run up where Sydney now stands.

It will be "Foundation day" for Australia, but for the American commander it will mean only another heavy day at his headquarters, and an evening with his wife and young son, Arthur.

CITE CHICAGOAN WHO SHOT DOWN PLANES IN AFRICA

A letter of commendation for outstanding service as gunner of an armed guard crew aboard a merchant ship in the African campaign has been awarded to Virgil V. Wilson, 18 years old, 3306 North Sacramento avenue, the navy department announced yesterday.

Virgil Wilson.

The youth, a seaman first class in the navy, and the rest of his gun crew are credited with shooting down several German planes during the invasion of Africa and performing outstanding service in the transportation of vital materials for the campaign. Wilson was the only Chicagoan among 31 men cited yesterday.

He enlisted in the navy two years ago and has been at sea almost constantly, said his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cyril D. Wilson. Last March he was aboard a merchant vessel in the North Atlantic when it was sunk by a submarine and he was adrift two days before being rescued.

FORTRESSES RAID RABAUL, EXPLODE MUNITIONS SHIP

Second Vessel Hit in Low Level Attack.

ALLIED HDQ., Australia, Jan. 26 [Tuesday]—(AP).—Flying Fortresses spent more than two hours over the big Japanese base of Rabaul on New Britain Island around midnight Sunday and went as low as 200 feet to plant hits on one ship probably loaded with munitions and blast a large hole in the side of another.

The first vessel exploded.

Bomb Guinea Ports.

Anti-aircraft fire and searchlights were intense as the big bombers came in low to assault the oft-bombed base where 20,000 tons of shipping was reported destroyed last week-end.

Other allied bombers made smaller raids on Finschhafen and the New Guinea ports of Lae and Salamaua. The Japanese confined their raid schedule to light night attacks on Port Moresby and Milne Bay.

Forde Warns Complacent.

CANBERRA, Australia, Jan. 25 (AP).—Army Minister Francis Forde warned the allies today against complacency over the successful completion of the Papuan campaign, and said Japan undoubtedly would strike a counter-blow at the first opportunity.

The Papuan success, he said, must be regarded only as achieving a breathing space which would help Australia perfect her fighting organization in readiness for further offensives with increased assistance from the allies.

No student of the global war, Forde added, can afford to look upon the conflict in the southwest Pacific as a mere sideshow to the major battle.

More U. S. Troops Land in India, Berlin Reports

LONDON, Jan. 25 (AP).—The German radio said today a broadcast heard here by the Associated Press that "new contingents of United States troops have landed at Karachi [India] and several points on the Persian gulf." [The report is without allied confirmation.]

R.A.F. BOMBERS ATTACK DUTCH DOCKS, OIL TANKS

LONDON, Jan. 25 (AP).—R. A. F. Boston bombers, heavily escorted by allied fighting planes, raided docks at Flushing in the Netherlands today and scored bursts on quays and oil storage tanks, it was announced by the air ministry. One Boston was reported missing from the raid, which was carried out in good weather. Escorting fighters were from American, Canadian, R. A. F., and other allied units.

Taking advantage of low cloud cover, a number of enemy planes bombed and machine gunned the south coast area late this afternoon. A German raiding plane dropped bombs near a famous holiday resort in southwest England before it was chased out to sea by British Spitfires. There was no report of casualties.

U.S. AND FRENCH HALT NAZIS IN CENTRAL TUNISIA

Beat Off German Thrusts at Strategic Posts.

Improve Positions

ALLIED HDQ., NORTH AFRICA, Jan. 25 (AP).—French troops supported by United States armored forces have improved their positions north and northeast of Ousseltia in northeast Tunisia, a French communique said tonight. In the mountains east of Ousseltia, German attacks have been repulsed with heavy losses, the communique said.

Military sources said it was obvious the Nazis were content for a time to consolidate their positions on a strategic hill—Djebel Bou Dabous—overlooking the Kairouan plain to the east. The hill positions give the axis a strong barrier against any possible allied thrust toward the sea in that area to split the enemy forces.

BY JOHN THOMPSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN TUNISIA, Jan. 22 [Delayed]—[Censored].—American troops spearheaded by strong units of our armored force today were driving up the Ouesseltia valley northwest of Kairouan to challenge the German tanks and infantry attempting to break the allied line.

Since yesterday [Jan. 21] the American tanks have been in contact with the Germans. Headquarters announced that our tanks, armored infantry and artillery, supported by tank destroyers, already have stemmed part of the German advance and rolled back the enemy shock troops at certain points.

The American forces went into action after the German advance which began on Jan. 18 had imperiled the line held by French units. At the same time, driving down to the southwest, the British sent a strong column to join the American troops in support of the French.

Nazis Strike Down Valley.

The Germans struck thru Pont du Fahs, 35 miles southwest of Tunis, then down a valley toward Maktar. Meanwhile a second Nazi column, also from an armored division, crossed the mountains into a valley to the east.

This second move imperiled the French, whose soldiers were holding a ridge north of Kairouan.

At this juncture the French, fighting furiously to maintain their positions, called on the Americans for aid. It was the first time in this campaign that American armored units have been able to operate over terrain favorable for tank maneuvers, unhindered by rain and mud. Most of the action was around the town of Ousseltia.

To appreciate the strategical importance of this sector one must realize that a ridge of hills and mountains, just west of Kairouan and extending south from Pont du Fahs, commands the approaches to the coast behind them. To the east lie axis concentrations at Kairouan, Sousse, Sfax, and Gabes protecting the supply line and communications between axis forces in Tunisia and Marshal Erwin Rommel's African corps coming up from Tripolitania [Libya].

Can Guard Rommel's Rear.

If the axis can hold these key heights with their strategic towns, Rommel can protect the rear while preparing to make a stand against the British 8th army [pursuing him from Libya]. At the same time the axis position in the north, where the enemy faces the British 1st army, becomes more secure.

Just west of Kairouan at the edge of the high ground lies Pichon, a small French and Arab town now held by the French, but already fought for unsuccessfully by the Germans. Southeast of it is Fondouk, which the French forces relinquished a few weeks ago to a strong enemy tank unit. Farther south the French hold a mountain pass at Faid, about 50 kilometers [31 miles] east of Sbeitla. All these points lie along the strategic high ground.

Battle Against Serious Peril.

Recall again the two valleys fanning out south and west of Pont du Fahs. Should the Germans be able to push down thru them, the allied stronghold to the south would be gravely imperiled. To the north the British 1st army's left flank then would be in danger of being turned, and possibly the American-British-French forces would be forced to withdraw toward the Algerian border.

It would make the position of Col. E. D. Raff's task force further south precarious in the extreme. For these reasons, equally clear to the German high command as to Lt. Gen. Dwight Eisenhower and his advisers, the allied forces put forth a great effort to prevent German consolidation of the two valleys.

Syria and Lebanon Regain Constitutional Regimes

DAMASCUS, Jan. 24 [Delayed]—(AP).—Constitutional régimes will be restored in Syria and Lebanon, it was announced today, and the French national committee has empowered Gen. Georges Catroux, high commissioner of Syria, to make the necessary dispositions. The news was received joyfully by the public. The step will be taken with British approval.

YANKS SEIZE 80 CAPTIVES IN RAID ON TUNISIAN POST

Strike Toward Corridor of Rommel's Retreat.

LONDON, Jan. 25 (AP).—A raid by American troops to within striking distance of Marshal Erwin Rommel's line of retreat along the gulf of Gabes in Tunisia and sharp progress of the Fighting French columns seeking to hit his flank were disclosed today as the bulk of his axis army poured into Tunisia for a possible rendezvous with the forces of Gen. Jurgen von Arnim.

Allied headquarters in North Africa reported American troops had thrust into the town of Maknassy, capturing 80 axis prisoners in an area only 33 miles west of the gulf of Gabes. Brig. Gen. Jacques Le Clerc's headquarters reported that the Fighting French were now operating west of Tripoli and had only 50 miles more to go to reach the Mediterranean.

There was nothing to indicate that the American action at Maknassy was more than a raid in force and American military sources here warned against expecting an early full scale blow at the Rommel flank.

Maknassy was hit after the Germans had dropped a note: "Why won't the Americans come out and fight?"

60 Miles Within Tunisia.

Rommel's retreat from Libya, meanwhile, had taken most of his forces some 60 miles within Tunisia. Field dispatches reported that all his Italians and the greater part of his German corps were behind [west of] the Mareth line in southern Tunisia but observers doubted he would attempt any serious or prolonged stand there.

British headquarters at Cairo reported allied air attacks on enemy shipping trying to slip from Zuara harbor west of Tripoli; on axis air fields 60 miles within Tunisia; on enemy transports strung out westward from the Libyan frontier; on two enemy ships torpedoed and set afire off Sicily, and on Sicily at Palermo and Messina.

From allied headquarters in North Africa heavy attacks on Bizerte, on Sousse harbor, on an axis air field near Medenine about 60 miles within Tunisia, on Ben Gardane, farther east, and on enemy transport columns were reported.

An allied spokesman said 25 to 30 axis planes were believed to have been destroyed aground in the Medenine attack.

"RETREAT TO NEW LINE."

The Italian communique said "In western Libya there was limited activity between the enemy's advanced elements and our rearguard units. Our movement is continuing regularly toward our new line."

Both the Italians and Germans reported a bombing attack on Tobruk, allied supply port in eastern Libya. Both communiques said allied attacks in Tunisia were repelled.

GERMAN PEOPLE TOLD THEY FACE NEW HARDSHIPS

Warn Full Home Life Would Be Suicide.

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

BERNE, Switzerland, Jan. 25.—With the evacuation of the Voronezh bridgehead and Stalingrad rapidly deteriorating into a forlorn hope for the Germans, official warnings to the civilian population that the military crisis along the Russian front calls for mobilization of the nation's last reserves became still more outspoken today.

The Voelkischer Beobachter, official organ of the Nazi régime, forecasts the enactment of drastic measures:

"The time has now come for the German civilian population to realize that the bourgeois existence must adapt itself to the laws of total warfare and be prepared to assume some of the burdens carried by the men at the front."

Allies' Sacrifices Told.

It significantly reminds Germans of the sacrifices now being made by British women of all classes filling men's jobs in shops and factories. Americans, adds the official warning, are also sacrificing a portion of their former opulence, while in Russia the "knout of recruitment" is being wielded mercilessly.

"To attempt to maintain unimpaired the idyllic picture of peaceful home life in the face of the onslaught of our combined enemies means suicide," the Voelkischer Beobachter adds.

Tonight's dispatches from Berlin give no indication of the manner in which the government proposes to mobilize civilian nonbelligerents or how the new labor recruiting is to be carried out.

That plans for the latter have been in the making was to be adduced from earlier warnings of Dr. Joseph Goebbels, reich minister of propaganda; Dr. Robert Ley, chief of the labor front, and Fritz Saukel, reich commissar for the recruiting of man power.

Would Free Man Power.

The labor draft will automatically release needed man power for military purposes since it will enroll 1,000,000 or more German women in war and allied industries and civil service jobs.

Meanwhile the German press is conspicuously sparing in its comment on the occupation of Tripolitania and the outlook for the further drift of the war in North Africa. While the crisis on the eastern front is being exploited as a warning, the fact that the Russians have penetrated into the Ukraine also awaits illuminating comment in German quarters.

While popular resentment over the manner in which the public was informed of events leading to the fall of Tripoli continues to mount in Italy, the ministry of propaganda today continued efforts to make bad news serve a good end by heightening internal determination to fight on to victory.

Economic Position Affected.

One newspaper got out of line tonight, however, with a front page editorial in acrid tones. The paper, La Sera, of Milan, said:

"The masses of the workers will never completely understand reasons which lead to the outbreak of the war. They do, however, understand immediately and fully that in its prolongation their economic position requires a drastic change.

"On their part, governments conducting wars . . . are compelled at all times to make further demands on the spirit of sacrifice of the masses, in exchange making promises, great promises, which are often impossible of realization, to better the lot of the worker."

WOMAN FOUND HANGED.

Miss Belle Messer, 56 years old, 4021 Gladys avenue, who, according to neighbors, feared she was becoming blind, was found hanged in her kitchen yesterday.

CONNALLY RAPS CRITICS IN U. S. OF EISENHOWER

Washington, D. C., Jan. 25 (AP).—Chairman Tom Connally [D., Tex.] of the foreign relations committee told the senate today in a vigorous defense of the government's policies in North Africa that he was willing to trust Lt. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower to "treat the situation there as he finds it."

Calls Policies Realistic.

Deprecating what he said were attacks on the "realistic" policies pursued by Secretary of State Cordell Hull and Eisenhower in dealing with local French authorities, Connally asserted he was not so much interested in the politics of the Frenchmen involved as he was in the fact that some of them were "bearing their breasts to the enemy."

"I regard the action of Secretary Hull thruout this whole chapter in North Africa as having been a wise one and one which now gives promise of realizing the actualities of the situation and being of great aid to our military forces there," Connally said.

Saved Thousands of Lives.

While the Texas senator did not name the critics of the state department to whom he was replying, he said there had been attacks made on Hull and Gen. Eisenhower for agreeing to permit the late Adm. Jean Darlan to remain as head of the French government in North Africa, despite the charges that he previously had collaborated with the axis.

Connally said he had no doubt that the alignment made at that time, which resulted in the capitulation of the French and the subsequent joining of French troops in the fight against axis forces, had "saved thousands of American lives."

BRITISH SUBS SINK 5 MORE SHIPS IN MEDITERRANEAN

LONDON, Jan. 25 (AP).—British submarines have sunk five more axis supply ships in the central Mediterranean, the admiralty disclosed today.

Two medium sized supply ships were sunk despite a destroyer escort, one of them near Djerba in southeastern Tunisia and the other 60 miles west of Tripoli. Another medium sized, heavily loaded supply ship escorted by two naval vessels was attacked off the east coast of Sardinia. One of the escorting craft was sunk and the other was damaged and beached in sinking condition. Thereafter the submarine torpedoed the supply vessel. A small supply ship which was sunk was escorted by four auxiliary ships.

There are about 15,000 of us out here at the Chicago Works of Crane Co. who are being decorated by the Army and Navy for outstanding achievements in the production of war equipment.

We are proud to wear the Army-Navy "E" emblem—proud of the teamwork of management and workers that has won this award for us and our company.

You may never have thought of valves as war equipment, but war as it is known today would be inconceivable without them. Every fighting ship—every freighter—every tanker—would be unable to move without valves to control the flow of oil and steam and water that surges through their piping. Without valves no steel or aluminum or copper or, in fact, any of the countless thousands of raw products of war, could be produced.

The Army, too, needs valves in barracks, camps and ordnance plants. The factories making tanks and guns and munitions of war in such tremendous quantities also depend on valves and piping.

Producing valves is our job. The volume we are turning out is a military secret, but some idea of this enormous production may be gained from the fact that Crane, long the world's largest producer of valves, has doubled and redoubled its capacity under the spur of war's insistent demands.

We take pride in this "E" we have won—pride in the quality of the equipment we make, and pride in the quantity that has helped to provide the power that means Victory.

RADIO BROADCAST

The ceremonies of the presentation of the Army-Navy "E" Award to the Chicago Works of Crane Co. and its employees, will be broadcast from 3:30 to 4:00 P.M. over Station WENR. We cordially invite our many friends in the Chicago area to participate in this celebration with us by listening to the radio program at that time.

REDS' CAUCASUS ARMY ADVANCES ON RAIL JUNCTION

Last Germans Driven Out of Voronezh.

LONDON, Jan. 26 [Tuesday] (AP).—The Red army rolling westward on a 155 500 mile front has expelled all the Germans from Voronezh, upper Don river citadel, and reached a point 40 miles from Tikhoretsk, key rail junction in the Caucasus, south of Rostov, Moscow reported today. At the same time, Premier Josef Stalin ordered his troops to hurl back the invaders "over the boundaries of our motherland."

Stalin's order of the day broadcast by Moscow and recorded here by the soviet radio monitor quoted him as saying that more than 200,000 axis captives had been taken in two months, 102 enemy divisions routed, and 13,000 guns and other equipment seized in an advance of 245 miles.

"The offensive of our troops continues," he said in thanking the Red troops.

Meanwhile, the siege of Stalingrad entered its 155th day, but with trapped German troops gradually being reduced.

Voronezh Completely Cleared.

A special communique reported the complete occupation of Voronezh, part of which the Germans had seized in their summer drive. Eleven thousand more prisoners were reported taken to make the total for that front 75,000.

The Germans were first to announce the evacuation of Voronezh, 365 miles southeast of Moscow, early yesterday saying the action was taken to shorten their lines. Subsequently, a DNB [German news agency] dispatch broadcast from Berlin said the Voronezh withdrawal was only the first of a series planned by Adolf Hitler to shorten the whole Russian front and "build up a new defense line."

The regular midnight communique told of the capture in the Caucasus of Belaya Glina, a 12 mile Red advance since Sunday on the road to Tikhoretsk, where the Stalingrad-Novorossisk and Rostov-Baku railways cross.

Tikhoretsk's capture would draw a firmer Russian noose around the big Nazi base of Rostov toward which soviet troops already are fighting from 56 miles to the east and 70 miles to the north.

Approach Voroshilovgrad.

Russian troops in the lower Caucasus already are menacing Kropotkin, 40 miles south of Tikhoretsk.

In the Ukraine the Russians were fighting within 10 miles of Voroshilovgrad, Donetz basin industrial center. Starobelsk, 50 miles to the northwest, and Valuiki, 70 miles farther along an important north-south railway, were in Russian hands. The latter is only about 82 miles from Kharkov, capital of the Ukraine.

The soviet army between Rostov and Voronezh claimed to have seized a 50 mile stretch of the Moscow Donbas railway between Starobelsk and Kondrashevskaya.

Moscow dispatches emphasized that the Germans still were hurling more and more tanks into action, along with reserve troops, on the lower Don river in an effort to keep the Russians away from Rostov.

[The German communique again pointed up the plight of the trapped 6th army before Stalingrad, saying it was winning glory in a "self-sacrificial fight against overwhelming superiority." The Germans said Russian pressure eased only in some sectors and that the soviets were attacking night and day south of Lake Ladoga, on the Leningrad front. Heavy rains were reported in the western Caucasus.]

Friend of the Yanks' Kin

BY SALLY JOY BROWN

[This department will answer questions covering problems related to the social welfare of relatives of service men, both in the column and by mail, if stamped, addressed envelopes are sent with inquiries.]

Mrs. C. M. D. asks: "My husband is a staff sergeant in the army now in Africa. I am receiving the voluntary allotment which he has always sent to me and also the allotment sent to class "A" dependents. I received a notice with the first check that there might be an error in the amount, but since then I have received a notice that I will receive the same amount each month. How can I receive the usual allotment and the $50 check for class "A" dependents? If I am receiving too much, what can I do about it? I am willing to return whatever is not mine."

ANSWER: If your husband is now a staff sergeant, you are no longer eligible for benefits under the Servicemen's Dependents bill. However, it seems possible that you are now receiving checks due as a family allowance previous to your husband's promotion. If he contributed $22 a month from his salary before he received his present rank, the checks you are now getting are undoubtedly those payments. Apparently he did not cancel the voluntary allotment at the time he filed for the family allowance. However, it would be best for you to ask him about it in your next letter. Ask if he filed an official application and for how many months the pay roll deduction of $22 was made. He probably will wish the voluntary allotment to continue, since you no longer will be eligible for the $50 a month family allowance. If it is impossible to reach your husband and the checks continue to come next month, I would suggest that you notify the Office of Dependency Benefits, 213 Washington street, Newark, N. J.

NAZIS BUILD HUGE CARGO U-BOATS TO SAIL TO JAPAN

6 Nearing Completion, Says London.

LONDON, Jan. 25 (AP).—Reliable informants said tonight that Germany was building a fleet of the world's largest submarines as cargo carriers in an effort to establish shipping contact with Japan and obtain raw materials from the far east.

The first six, displacing 2,500 tons, will be completed within a few months, it was said. The U-boats were said to be of similar design to the famous Deutschland which crossed the Atlantic to the United States in 1916 with a cargo of dyes.

Three are under construction at Stettin and three or more are nearing completion at Danzig. The informant said they might be at sea by early April.

The informant said allied patrols had long been watching Kerguelen Island in the southernmost part of the Indian ocean, which is believed to be one meeting place of Japanese and German ships.

Use "Milk Cow" Subs.

MONTREAL, Que., Jan. 25 (AP).—Adolf Hitler now is employing "milk cow" submarines to supply fuel, torpedoes, and supplies to his U-boat fleet at sea, Vice Adm. Percy W. Nelles, Canadian chief of naval staff, said today.

Nelles, speaking at the opening of the naval exhibition here, estimated the German submarine fleet was growing at the rate of 10 a month despite allied sinkings and warned that a general intensification of undersea warfare was to be expected, including resumption next spring of attacks on shipping in the St. Lawrence.

Need More Escorts.

The best answer to the menace, Nelles said, was more escort ships, cooperating with more aircraft, and a constant improvement in allied naval tactics against submersibles.

"There is reason to believe, too, that the U-boat packs are being kept at sea for longer periods," he added. "Oil, torpedoes, and other supplies are often being carried and delivered by submarine freighters, the so-called 'milk cows' with which the Germans try to frighten us.

"They don't frighten us but we make careful note of the development and will act accordingly."

Period 2 Fuel Oil Coupon Will Expire at Midnight

Period 2 fuel oil coupons, intended to supply the needs for the heating period from Dec. 3 thru Jan. 5, expire at midnight tonight, Michael F. Mulcahy, Chicago metropolitan area OPA director, said yesterday. Most fuel oil consumers already have used their No. 2 coupons. Period 3 coupons, which became valid Dec. 23, expire Feb. 20 and period 4 coupons will become valid Jan. 31.

DAMAGES APPEAL OF PROSECUTOR'S POLICE UPHELD

The Appellate court yesterday reversed a Superior court verdict awarding $10,000 damages to Forrest G. Shaw, 56 years old, 7514 North Hoyne avenue, from four members of the state's attorney's staff and remanded the case for retrial. Shaw accused the four of false arrest and of assault while he was held incommunicado for six days after his arrest in 1937 on an embezzlement charge. The case against him was not pressed after a jury disagreement.

The appellants were Sergt. Stephen Leddy of Sheffield avenue police and Daniel Kenneally and Joseph Sponder of state's attorney's police, whom a jury in Superior Judge John P. McGoorty's court ordered to pay judgments of $1,500 to $2,000 in June, 1941. The fourth defendant in the original suit, Eugene O'Connor, state's attorney's investigator, died a year ago, but a $5,000 judgment lies against his estate.

MacARTHUR CITES 2 GENERALS FOR GUINEA BRAVERY

ALLIED HDQ. IN AUSTRALIA, Jan. 25 (AP).—Two American generals were cited for gallantry in action today by Gen. Douglas MacArthur, entitling them to wear the silver star. They were Maj. Gen. Edwin F. Harding of Franklin O., and Brig. Gen. Spencer B. Akin of Greenville, Miss.

Gen. S. D. Akin [top] Gen. E. F. Harding.

Gen. Harding was cited for gallantry Nov. 16 near Haroki, New Guinea. He was aboard a small boat off New Guinea which was bombed and strafed by Japanese planes. When the boat began to sink he jumped overboard and, refusing to occupy space in small lifeboats, swam a mile and a half to shore.

Gen. Akin, chief signal officer on Gen. MacArthur's staff, was honored for gallantry Dec. 23 near Buna. Akin aided in reorganizing a platoon which had been under severe enemy fire. He then crossed a bridge in advance of the infantry and spurred them in the attack which led to the capture of an air field.

REPORT SWEDEN LEANS TO ALLIES, BUT FEARS REDS

Wants Scandinavia Free of Soviet Influence.

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 25.—With the growing demand for a second front and German reports that Britain and America have huge concentrations of troops ready, one particularly in the Iceland area, the attitude of Sweden more and more is highlighting political developments.

Sweden, it is understood, is chary regarding communism, but is particularly moved at the predicament of Norway, and it is regarded as a certainty here that she would throw in her lot with the allies if she were convinced Scandinavia would be excluded from the soviet sphere of influence after the war.

Believe Axis Can't Win.

Furthermore, according to reports from Stockholm, the people there are more or less convinced Germany is unable to win the war, but the Swedes in the same way as certain elements here and in the United States are apprehensive that an unlimited soviet victory may itself introduce a new problem to the postwar peace of Europe, the weekly review, New Statesman and Nation, said.

The Swedish legation here was quick and careful to deny reports that Sweden is giving Germany every facility for the transportation of troops to Norway and Finland. It was explained that the railroads and other transportation facilities limit troop travel scrupulously to the number returning home on leave and to replacements, so that Swedish territory in no way can be regarded as a line of communication for reenforcements and supplies.

New Pressure Sighted.

It is feared that this situation might change, however, if the allies attempted a landing in Norway and a hookup with the Russians thru Finland. Northern Norway has been particularly valuable to the Germans as a base for submarines, airplanes, and surface ships which attack allied convoys bound for Murmansk, Russia. It is not believed that Germany would relinquish this advantage lightly and tonight the Evening Star suggests:

"Further Nazi pressure on Sweden is expected now that Adolf Hitler's new ambassador, Hans Thomsen, is about to take up his job in Stockholm. Swedish circles believe that Hitler will make stiff demands, including strict censorship of the press, half of Sweden's iron ore output, and unrestricted use of the Swedish corridor."

The last—full use of the corridor—is said to be the most important of all the demands, and the Star says it is believed "Thomsen may threaten force" if the demands are refused.

The view is taken here, however, that Sweden intends to fight to retain her neutrality and that if the Germans attack she has already prepared for this by calling up more military classes as well as strengthening her defenses.

TUESDAY, JANUARY 26, 1943.

The entire and absolute freedom of the press is essential to the preservation of government on the basis of a free constitution.—Daniel Webster.

THE NEW WEAPONS MAKE AMERICA SECURE.

The successful conclusion of the Papuan campaign gave Gen. MacArthur occasion to discuss the tactics and strategy that had enabled his army to win. The determining factor, he said, was air power, employed in closest coöperation with land troops. Airplanes were used to bomb and strafe the enemy troops and supplies, to transport soldiers and equipment over mountain and jungle, and to prevent the enemy from bringing up reënforcements by ship.

A comparable survey of the naval strategy and tactics of this war would show that control of the sea is dependent not only upon control of the air above it but also upon the submarine.

Ever since Pearl Harbor the incidents of air victory over surface ships have been piling up; Pearl Harbor itself and the destruction of the Repulse and Prince of Wales; then the long series of American counter-attacks that have riddled the Jap navy. Midway was the most significant, not only because the Japanese losses were heaviest there, but also because in that engagement even obsolete and obsolescent planes, the defects of which forced suicidal tactics on the American air leadership, inflicted a crushing defeat on the great Jap armada.

In all this budget of evidence there is only one incident contrary to the general trend—the recent encounter in which an American battleship beat off a heavy Jap air attack, its anti-aircraft batteries knocking down more enemy planes than did its own protective screen of fighter planes. But even if it develops that battleships, properly armed and properly handled, can venture against air attacks in daylight, it is doubtful that the supporting craft, without which the battleship fleet is useless, can stand up to air power. All of the recent fleet actions have been at night, for good reason. Fleets cannot exist in daylight in waters over which enemy airplanes are operating.

What has not been as much heralded as the power of aircraft, because it is less spectacular, is the equally tremendous power of the submarine. Of this the American public is being made aware bit by bit. We are told that the problem of the submarine has not been solved. This is bad news in the Atlantic but good news in the Pacific.

Against warcraft the submarine is a weapon of limited power. Leaving aside luck, with which any submarine commander may be blessed occasionally, it is difficult for him to pick ships out of fleet formation, particularly when they are moving at full speed. The effectiveness of the submarine is greater against the cripple, such as the carrier Yorktown, or against ships subjected to faulty tactical use, as were the two carriers lost in the Solomons. But against the merchant ship, the supply ship, and transport these disadvantages disappear.

Our own losses to submarines in the North Atlantic and off our east coast have been very heavy, and the destruction of submarines, while considerable, has not been great enough to end the menace. In the Pacific, a recent navy report showed, we have sunk 150 Japanese ships at a cost of only five subs, of which only three were lost thru enemy action. We have reason to hope that our little heralded submarine fleet may prevent the Japanese from utilizing their conquests, and even from supplying the far-flung garrisons that hold them.

This is certain: a year's combat test of weapons has shown that advances in technology have increased, rather than diminished, American security. The airplane and submarine together make our coast line safe. We have no frontiers that an army can cross. We are less dependent upon foreign trade or imports of strategic materials than any other nation and such deficiencies as we suffer, like that of rubber, our technology promises to remedy. This immunity to attack makes us the most powerful country in the world.

APPOINTMENTS TO WEST POINT.

The mother of a Chicago boy who had an outstanding record at his high school and in the R. O. T. C. has written THE TRIBUNE concerning her son's disappointment at failing to obtain an appointment to West Point. No congressional appointments were available and the young man, now a university student, is soon to be inducted into the army.

This boy's qualifications were self-evident, yet he was passed over. The situation is by no means unique. Many young men of character and ability who would like to devote their lives to the military profession have been frustrated in the same manner. The method of selection for West Point is far from satisfactory.

It has been customary to choose a small number of cadets from the ranks of the army, and this procedure recommends itself as worthy of governing all selections. Each young man entering the army at the lowest grade would have an equal chance of winning appointment. All cadets so selected would first have demonstrated their leadership and fitness for the military life in competition on an equal footing with all their comrades. Particularly would this prove to be the fairest and best method of selection if after the war we are to have a system of universal military service.

HOUSEWIVES ON THE PRODUCTION LINE.

The women who have gone to work by the thousands in Chicago munition plants have taken to their new tasks with something more than loyal hearts and willing hands. They have brought into the factory new forms of experience and out of their fresh viewpoint have come new and better ways of doing things.

Take Mrs. Hazel Rochel, the mother of two small sons, as an example. The parts on which she worked in the factory were kept immersed in oil until they were ready for polishing. The women had to reach into the oil to pick them out and a number of women suffered skin irritations from contact with the oil. Mrs. Rochel suggested to officials of the plant that they put the parts in a sieve basket with a long handle, which the workers could lift out of the oil container without getting their hands into the fluid. The results were a marked reduction in the cases of skin diseases and considerable increase in efficiency. Mrs. Rochel has been given THE TRIBUNE'S war worker award for December.

As we were saying, the women have brought fresh viewpoints to the work bench. The basket idea was undoubtedly a novelty to Mrs. Rochel's masculine bosses and thus well worth the award she received, but it could hardly have surprised her fellow housewives on the production line. They have cooked French fried potatoes themselves.

MR. BROWDER GETS HIS TROTSKYITES.

Earl Browder, general secretary of the American Communist party, has had his supper but he is still singing for it. He says congress and the upper classes are working against our commander in chief. He was released from jail as an expression of cordiality for Stalin. He is rude to many of the upper classes. Is that subterfuge or have they concealed their affections from him?

Mr. Browder and his comrades are entitled to self-congratulation. Their political and social standing is now A1 and evidences of governmental favor are in their hands. One of the small evidences is to be found in the fate of their Communist enemies, the American Trotskyites. The followers of Leon Trotsky are a small group of die-hard dialecticians whose two principal objectives were to keep Trotsky alive and to defend the Marxian dialectic, the science of matter in motion.

They lost the fight for Trotsky. They say Stalin finally got him and there is no proof to the contrary. He was the last of the old revolutionaries. The others met their fate in the state trials. The wild Mexican artist, David Alfaro Siqueiros, led a machine gun gang against Trotsky's Mexican home and sprayed his bedroom with bullets, but he escaped. The young American, Sheldon Hart, was kidnaped and killed, a still unsettled account in the books of Mexican justice. Then the assassin, Frank Jaxon or Jacson, was introduced into the Trotsky household and he succeeded in murder with a pickax. The American Trotskyites were left with nothing but the dialectic, but that was alive enough to cause a split in the ranks. These are earnest ideologs.

Their only stronghold in American affairs was in the Minneapolis teamsters' union. The Dunne brothers were Trotskyites. Why is not understood. Possibly to be contrary. It cost one of them his life. It also brought the federal department down on the union and on the ideologs. They were indicted for various offenses covered by a Civil war sedition act and the new sedition law. They were convicted, and are appealing. The Stalinites, carrying out the Moscow party line, never had that experience here.

The public activities of the Trotskyites have been centered in two publications, the Militant, a weekly, and the Fourth International, a monthly. The postoffice department has cracked down on them. Issues of both are being suppressed and the publishers can offer their subscribers nothing but the hope that they may get by. The January issue of the International has just been released.

What these mild incendiaries have been trying to print in the unmailed copies is left to the subscribers' guesswork because Postmaster General Walker's censors have closed the mails. In general, this much can be said for the Trotsky editors. They are genuine and honest expositors of Lenin communism and not agents of a foreign government. The Daily Worker, the Stalin Communist publication which is in governmental favor, is wholly hypocritical except as it is the propaganda sheet for alien influences. It has always been an insidious turncoat, changing its tactics and its color on every public question, many times in great confusion, to conform with the line taken in Moscow. The Trotsky Fourth International has been of interest to students of the Russian revolution because it is the repository for many of Trotsky's papers and because it portrays the liquidation of the Lenin revolution. It thus had considerable historic value.

Few in numbers as the American Trotskyites were, they have been pursued with implacable hatred by the Stalinites, possibly because in their uncompromising way they represent the old Lenin Marxism. Their Russian brethren had been exterminated. The American Stalinites could not endure the existence of the remnant in the United States. The favor in which Browder and his co-conspirators are now held in governmental circles seems to pay dividends in this deadly Communist feud.

AMERICAN OPINION COOL TO POST-WAR UTOPIAS.

[New York Sun.]

A good many Americans who do their thinking on reasonably nonemotional and unsentimental levels have been persuaded for a long time that there is no popular demand in this country that Uncle Sam serve as policeman for all the world after the war. This notion finds interesting confirmation in a study of American opinion recently made by the Foreign Policy association. That body reports in effect that at present the United States is not disposed to accept social and economic responsibility for setting up a post-war world, particularly if expenditure of American resources shall be involved. In upstate New York, for example, it finds "a distinct absence of any evangelical intention that the United States go about doing good, or act as Lady Bountiful for the whole wide world."

At about the time this report was made available for publication, Roane Waring, national commander of the American Legion, was saying to the troops at Fort Bragg: "When this war is over, there will be more freak isms, more Utopian crackpots, social politicians, and long haired reformers, prophets, and demagogues, who will trot out schemes for bringing on the millennium. They will advocate all kinds of panacess for the troubles of the world except honest-to-goodness hard work. Your job will be to fight them to the last ditch."

Altho Commander Waring and the Foreign Policy association touch upon related topics, it will scarcely be assumed that they are acting in collusion. Yet both are undoubtedly reflecting the unsentimental views of the average American citizen. This does not mean that after the chaos of war this citizen will be unwilling for the United States to do its fair share toward bringing peace and order to the rest of the world. It does mean that he is not prepared at this moment to underwrite any blanket power of attorney giving authority to anybody to commit the United States to international post-war action for any specific program or purpose whatever. His primary concern will be then, as it is now, the welfare of the United States. If internationalists with particular axes to grind say that this is narrow, chauvinistic, selfish of him, his inevitable answer will be "So what?"

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

"ALONE ON A WIDE, WIDE SEA."

The Rickenbacker saga was not permitted to name the islands where the castaways were found, and yet they seem to be a fairly open secret. An account of the rescue issued by the public relations office of the ninth naval district stated that these islands are about 1,000 miles east of Guadalcanal. With such a clew this column could name them, give their history, describe their appearance, and discuss the manners, morals, and language of their natives.

As told by THE TRIBUNE in a two week serial, this story is a masterpiece of war time journalism, and a classic in the annals of the sea. It ranks with the story of Capt. Bligh's open boat voyage after the mutiny on the Bounty, as retold by novelists Nordhoff and Hall in "Men Against the Sea." That odyssey of marine suffering trailed its wake across 4,000 miles of the South Pacific, ending at the island of Timor, north of Australia. [Watch for Timor in the war news.]

The element of the mystical in the struggle of Rickenbacker's men recalls certain stories by Edgar Allan Poe. He is not often mentioned in association with the literature of the sea, and yet he gave it three memorable tales: "The Narrative of A. Gordon Pym," "Ms. Found in a Bottle," and "A Descent into the Maelstrom."

The incident also recalls a famous French painting, "The Raft of the Medusa," by Gericault. In 1816 a French frigate was wrecked off the coast of Africa, and 149 members of her crew crowded upon a raft. Rescue came two weeks later, when there were only 15 survivors. Gericault's remarkable portrayal of that agony of hunger, thirst, and exposure hangs in the Louvre. A small preparatory study was exhibited in the Art Institute of Chicago in the spring of 1941.

Wanted: A Victory Lunchbox.

Everything has an effect on a fellow's life. Let's see what the Victory Tax has done to me.

Well, blow me down! I'm back to the days when I was a little flapdoodle. I'm carrying my lunch. The only difference is that when I was a boy I carried my lunch in a gay yellow bag, and now I carry it furtively in my overcoat pocket. I do this not from any false sense of pride, but because I don't like the present day brown grocery bags. I hate brown.

Maybe it would be more accurate to say I used to carry my lunch furtively in my overcoat pocket. It started that way, but soon it began: "Bring me a meat loaf sandwich tomorrow, will you, Roy? How about bringing me one?" So one day I came down to the office with two sandwiches and two doughnuts. Presently, I expect my pockets will be so full of sandwiches I shall resemble John Bunny.

And I used to be the World's Greatest Snacker. I would eat snacks on the slightest provocation, and think nothing of spending 30 or 40 cents a day in extraneous snacks. But no more of that! And no more of Larry coming downtown every other day to have lunch with me—carfare, lunch, and those intriguing windows mean less money for Victory Tax, you know. O, well, it is good for the purse and for the figure, say Larry and I.

Choppy says this Victory Tax is just a gag to cut down on his rations. Where is the ice cream every evening, he wants to know. He says he used to enjoy the spoonful we gave him, with nice crunchy pecans mixed into it.

Here is good news for Choppy. By such artifices as I have mentioned, Larry and I have defeated the Victory Tax, and he can have his ice cream every evening—I hope. Roy Engel.

PUS IN THE URINE.

IN PYURIA [pus in the urine] the source of infection must be found. The disorder indicates that inflammation is present within the bladder or in the so-called collecting space inside one or both kidneys. Of course, there are other hiding places for "bugs" and, in males, the prostate may be at fault.

The excreted fluid may teem with bacteria, with or without pus cells. Irritation of the wall of the bladder may give rise to frequency as well as pain. There is a constant tendency for the pouch to contract and, as the walls come together, severe distress may be experienced.

Where do these organisms come from? It is doubtful if many enter from outside the body except in female infants or young girls. They may be circulating in the blood or find their way thru lymph channels from the bowel. The most common type is the colon bacillus, but this does not imply that because the patient is constipated, organisms can travel thru numerous layers of tissues and reach the urinary sac. In fact, this is a doubtful origin.

Microbes can gain entrance, however, to the lymph and thus wander into the urinary space. Should streptococci be encountered the patient is usually substantially disturbed and may suffer a violent chill, followed by a fever. Now and then tuberculosis will be responsible.

In many cases the sulfonamides are of the greatest value, but many physicians employ a far simpler procedure which renders the urine strongly acid. Calcium mandelate is the drug of choice. This remedy swings the system strongly to the acid side and will eliminate most ordinary infections within a week.

Should the program fail, however, we may have recourse to sulfaguanidine, which can be given in relatively large doses with slight danger of poisoning. As a rule, 40 to 60 grains daily, for two or three days, will suffice. With this amount, we need fear little damage to the kidneys and few episodes of nausea, vomiting, skin eruptions, etc., will appear.

It should be emphasized, however, that not a single dose of one of these chemicals can be given with one hundred per cent safety. Much depends upon the personal behavior of the sufferer. Some individuals cannot take aspirin. In like fashion, others will react violently to the sulfonamides.

With adults, there is little difficulty in identifying the disorder. The urine will look cloudy and the patient may complain of smarting or burning. With children, however, symptoms may be lacking other than a high temperature. Unless a voided specimen is saved for inspection by the physician, the fever may continue for two or three days before we realize that something is wrong. We merely assume that an infection is present.

Only by means of the microscope can the presence of germs and pus be proved. The temperature will drop to normal as soon as an environment unfavorable to the invading microbes has been established.

While some immunity may be acquired, the risk of allowing this condition to persist lies in the fact that both the bladder and the renal organs may be injured severely. The plan of management is simple. In most cases, complete relief will ensue with prompt recognition and appropriate treatment.

COMING OF THE DARK AGES.

Chicago, Jan. 22.—For some reason of late I keep thinking about the reign of the Roman emperor, Diocletian, back in 290 A. D. Remember how Diocletian took office during a period of depression and international turmoil? He immediately undertook a broad program of reform—a sort of New Deal, you might call it. First he called in all the gold; then he reduced the power of his senate by dividing up his administration into little bureaus and departments. Next he raised the taxes and put millions of citizens on the public pay roll. But still things grew worse; so in desperation he claimed more power: he froze wages, he froze prices, he froze jobs, he stopped profit, he told the farmers what and how to grow, he rationed the commodities of life, and he completely regimented society. Finally he quieted all opposition, nominated a successor, and retired to his private estates.

And then do you recall what happened? Labor and markets closed down, the middle class was wiped out, agrarian life was made dependent on burocratic red tape, cities declined, individualism disappeared, life stagnated as initiative was choked out; and the once glorious Roman empire passed into a period which historians have since described as the "Dark Ages."

BUTTER.

Chicago, Jan. 20.—According to Mr. Paton the government has reserved about 340 million pounds of butter, which will provide approximately 40 pounds a year for each of our fighting men. I should like to see figures for 1917-'18-'19 as I was in service for 593 days and I did not get any butter.

The purchase of substitutes for butter and lard by Illinois institutions is limited to 25 per cent of their oil or fat requirements. [Chapt. 127, Sec. 132A.] People confined in Joliet may get more butter than people on the outside. This information may decrease the efforts to escape.

THE RICKENBACKER STORY.

Chicago, Jan. 21.—I have been reading with a great deal of interest the thrilling story by Lt. James C. Whittaker of Capt. Rickenbacker and seven companions and their fight for life in equatorial waters. I advised the folks at the Austin Methodist church school, of which I am superintendent, to read and reread it. There is a message there that we all need. I am hoping that you will reprint the story in booklet form so that it may be preserved in our homes and be referred to in hours of anxiety. SOLDIERS ENJOY TRIBUNE.

Camp Robinson, Ark., Jan. 18.—A few of my buddies and I feel that it is time to pay a few compliments to your fine paper. We, as medical soldiers, really appreciate Dr. Irving S. Cutter's column, "How to Keep Well." It has helped us in many of our classes. Also, I enjoy your Voice of the People column and your editorials.

WASTED MACHINERY.

Chicago, Jan. 18.—Today there is no more sliced bread so everybody that needs a knife rushes out to buy one and hopes he is lucky enough to get one. What happens to the slicing machines? Can't they be converted into safety pins? I have a small baby and need pins for the diapers. Could I buy any? No!

SOILLESS GARDENING IN THE MIDWEST.

Chicago, Jan. 18.—In reply to Mr. H. H. Reed's inquiry about soilless gardening, published Jan. 16, I would like to clear up the situation a little bit as to the practicableness of this method at present. Most of the soilless gardening which has been of any success so far has been done outdoors in California, where conditions are very propitious for plant growth, or in greenhouses in other parts of the country. There has been a great deal of talk about how simple it is and what wonderful crops are obtainable, and under some conditions all these statements are true.

No easy method, however, has been worked out yet whereby the average man in the middle west, or any other part of the country with a similar climate, can grow his radishes, tomatoes, lettuce, etc., as successfully by soilless gardening as he can in a regular dirt garden. The publicity that has come from people who have experimented with it in California has been so glowing as to discourage those who have tried it elsewhere and had difficulties. These latter experimenters have tended to quit in disgust when they don't get the same results as the California experimenters did.

However, there are companies who are carrying on research programs with a view to working out a practical vegetable growing method and a kit which will enable the average man to grow vegetables and flowers without soil in the summer time, and perhaps even in the winter time if light conditions are right.

PREPARATION FOR THINGS TO COME.

Decatur, Ill., Jan. 15.—Don't the people realize that the sole purpose of tire inspection is to check tire numbers to see that they correspond with the numbers turned in on gas rationing cards? If the numbers do not correspond, you will be thrown in the bastile for 5 or 10 years or heavily fined, or both. That goes also for most other so-called rationing programs.

What has Russia or Germany got that we haven't got? Call it rationing if you will, but it is regimentation none the less, done, in my opinion, with the primary object of getting the people accustomed to what is being planned for them by this administration after the war. Isn't it about time the atmosphere in Washington was purified?

DROWNED AT SEA.

Chicago, Jan. 20.—I have just received word of the drowning at sea of Frank Durrant, one of the four British navy boys who visited Chicago last fall and whose letter thanking Chicago people for the kindnesses shown them was printed in the Voice of the People on Oct. 7. He leaves a widowed mother and young sister in Hull, England.

MRS. SARAH MATHERS.

UNSHELTERED FARM MACHINERY.

Delavan, Wis., Jan. 21.—Your editorial today, "The Farmer and His Machinery," brings to mind that the outstanding reason why our present farm machinery is breaking down is because it is rusting out, not wearing out.

I am on the road six days a week and one day last week in southern Wisconsin, in 21 miles, I counted 44 pieces of farm machinery standing out in fields and yards that should have been put away in machine sheds, under cover, from the weather.

Next spring and summer when the owners of this machinery try to put it into service, the machinery manufacturers and implement dealers will come in for a nice lot of cussing whereas the farmer is the only one to blame.

If the farmers spent a few dollars for machine sheds they would be saved much for machine repairs.

H. P. MCCLELLAN.

THE RATIONER SHOULD TRY THEM.

Western Springs, Ill., Jan. 22.—It is quite evident that Mr. Harold B. Rowe, OPA director of food rationing, has never sampled a delicious dish of strained spinach, heretofore put up almost exclusively for infants, nor has he ever had the priceless opportunity of sipping that delectable liver soup that babies go for. Had Mr. Rowe ever gulped a piping hot can of strained mixed vegetables [with barley, yeast and wheat germ], or an equally inviting can of strained peas [very slightly salted], he could hardly have expressed the opinion that baby foods, if not rationed, might be bought extensively as a substitute for other canned goods which are to be rationed.

YVONNE KIMBELL CURACK.

"NO SLICING" REACTIONS.

Chicago, Jan. 20.—It's amazing and disgusting the way some people react to "no slicing" of bread. I work in a bakery. The first day this order went into effect, two ladies walked out and left the bread because they couldn't have it sliced. They ought to starve. They should be thankful they have got bread and an arm to slice it with. All it takes is a sharp knife and a little "elbow grease." What's the difference how it's sliced? It's still bread, ain't it, and thank God for it. A CLERK.

SPECIAL INQUIRY BY HOUSE INTO AP SUIT IS ASKED

Plan Seeks Probe Free from Influences.

BY WILLIAM MOORE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 25.—Rep. Forest A. Harness [R., Ind.] asked the house today to create a special committee to investigate the circumstances under which the department of justice brought charges of violating the anti-trust laws against the Associated Press.

Rep. F. A. Harness.

The Indiana congressman introduced his resolution as a measure for the preservation of a free press in America.

His measure was similar to one offered in the house last Thursday by Rep. Paul W. Shafer [R., Mich.]. Shafer's proposal, however, was for an investigation by the house judiciary committee. Harness said that a special committee would be more free to act, since it would not feel, as might the judiciary committee, that its inquiry might unduly influence the courts on a pending case.

Suspects Publishers Are Right.

"Publishers," Rep. Harness said, "without regard to their immediate relation to the case, have boldly and vigorously denounced the action as a direct attack upon the American free press, or as an effort to control and direct wire services for the special benefit of publishers who are administration supporters.

"The unadorned facts in the case convince me that either or both of these counter-charges may be justified.

"In all the years that news has been transmitted in associations or syndicates, only a few publishers have sought to test the validity of such services as the Associated Press. In the few instances where disappointed publishers have sought relief thru anti-trust action, the department of justice has refused to find the association method of collections and distributing news a violation of the anti-trust act.

"Why, then, should the department of justice now press this action, unless it is motivated by a hidden desire to bring the American press under the control and direction of the central government or to favor, for political reasons, certain newspapers?"

Cites Ridiculous Parallel.

Rep. Shafer asserted in introducing his demand for an investigation that the suit followed the failure of Marshal Field III., Chicago publisher, to obtain an Associated Press membership.

Harness asked if it would be reasonable for the department of justice to prosecute an automobile manufacturer for refusal to give a person half the sales territory of an already established dealer.

"Of course not," he said. "Even the men who designed this action against the Associated Press would laugh such a person out of their offices and tell him to try another line of cars, or even another line of business."

THE QUESTION.

For what reason were you most eager to be 21.

WHERE ASKED.

Civic Opera building.

THE ANSWERS.

Robert S. Lake, identification service, 222 East Delaware place — My parents had promised me $1,000 dollars if I didn't smoke or drink until I was 21. I was not only anxious to get that $1,000, but also to do a little smoking and drinking to see what I had been missing.

Edward G. Mack, janitor, 1403 North Maplewood avenue—Before I was 21 I wanted to "bum" my way around the world. My parents told me that if I still wanted to travel when I became 21 I'd have their permission. The day I was 21 I started my long voyage around the world.

Bernard Becker, police officer, 4729 Meadow avenue, Downer's Grove — I was sure life would begin as soon as I was 21. I was going to do everything I had ever been forbidden to do. But by that time I had changed my mind and it wasn't half the fun I figured.

Mable Turner, housewife, Gary — I was earning money before I was 18 years old, but couldn't always spend it as I thought best. I was anxious to grow up so I could get rid of it as I saw fit. Now I think I saved more then than now.

Bernard B. Ziv, control metallurgist, Hotel Southmoor—I had always been independent and considered myself quite a man, but I was anxious to reach 21 so every one would regard me as grownup. It was a very gratifying milestone to reach. I felt swell.

E. J. Kuhlman, freight traffic operator, 5055 Waveland avenue—I was most anxious to exercise my privileges as a 21 year old citizen. I couldn't wait to cast my first important vote. I really thought the whole world would look different, but it didn't seem to change much.

COUNCIL REMOVES THE DOUBT ABOUT WOMEN'S SLACKS

The city council yesterday passed an amendment to a city ordinance which makes clear the right of women to wear slacks or men's clothing as long as there is no attempt to conceal their sex. The amendment adds "with intent to conceal his or her sex" to an ordinance prohibiting persons from wearing clothing of the opposite sex. It was introduced by Ald. William J. Cowhey [41st] on the recommendation of Judge Jacob M. Braude of Women's court. The judge criticized the wording of the ordinance after Miss Evelyn Bross, 19 years old, of 2754 Jackson boulevard, who wore slacks on her job as machinist, was brought before him on a charge of violating the ordinance.

TELLS OF FLYNN ACCUSER'S HOPE FOR MOVIE ROLE

Witness Testifies of Girl's Plan to Meet Actor.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 25 (AP).—A brunette soda fountain girl, Mona Mervyn, today told the jury trying Errol Flynn on statutory rape charges that one of the complaining witnesses, Betty Hansen, informed her she hoped to meet Flynn and get into the movies with his help.

Miss Mervyn said she worked at a drug store where Miss Hansen, a Lincoln, Neb., girl was employed for two weeks. She said Betty told her she considered Flynn good looking.

Yacht Employé Questioned.

The defense switched to testimony about Miss Hansen after summoning as its first witness Corp. Hubert L. Oliver of Glendale, Cal., now stationed at a Texas army camp. Oliver said he was employed by Flynn as a seaman on his yacht, the Sirocco, that he was aboard the vessel the night 17 year old Peggy La Rue Satterlee, the other complaining witness, contends she was seduced by the screen star.

Oliver testified he heard no disturbance or outcry and that Flynn, to his knowledge, was not below deck at the time of the alleged attack.

Flynn, Oliver said, was at the wheel of the yacht all the way home.

Says Door Won't Lock.

Mrs. Helga Brabon, former caretaker at the Bel Air home of Fred McEvoy, where Miss Hansen alleged Flynn seduced her, testified Betty was wrong in saying Flynn locked the door after taking her to the bedroom. She said the door of the room in question has a lock "but it never worked, that I know of, and it still won't work."

Mrs. Addie E. Odell, operator of a Hollywood apartment house, said Miss Hansen rented one of her apartments Oct. 1, 1942, as Mrs. Betty Gray.

Mrs. Mary Ross, juvenile division policewoman, testified that Miss Hansen told her Flynn seduced her in a double bed in a large bedroom. This contrasted to Betty's direct testimony that the alleged seduction occurred in an alcove off the large bedroom.

Jerry Giesler, Flynn's attorney, said Flynn, himself, will take the stand, probably tomorrow or Wednesday.

Wartime Medical Supplies
and Electricity

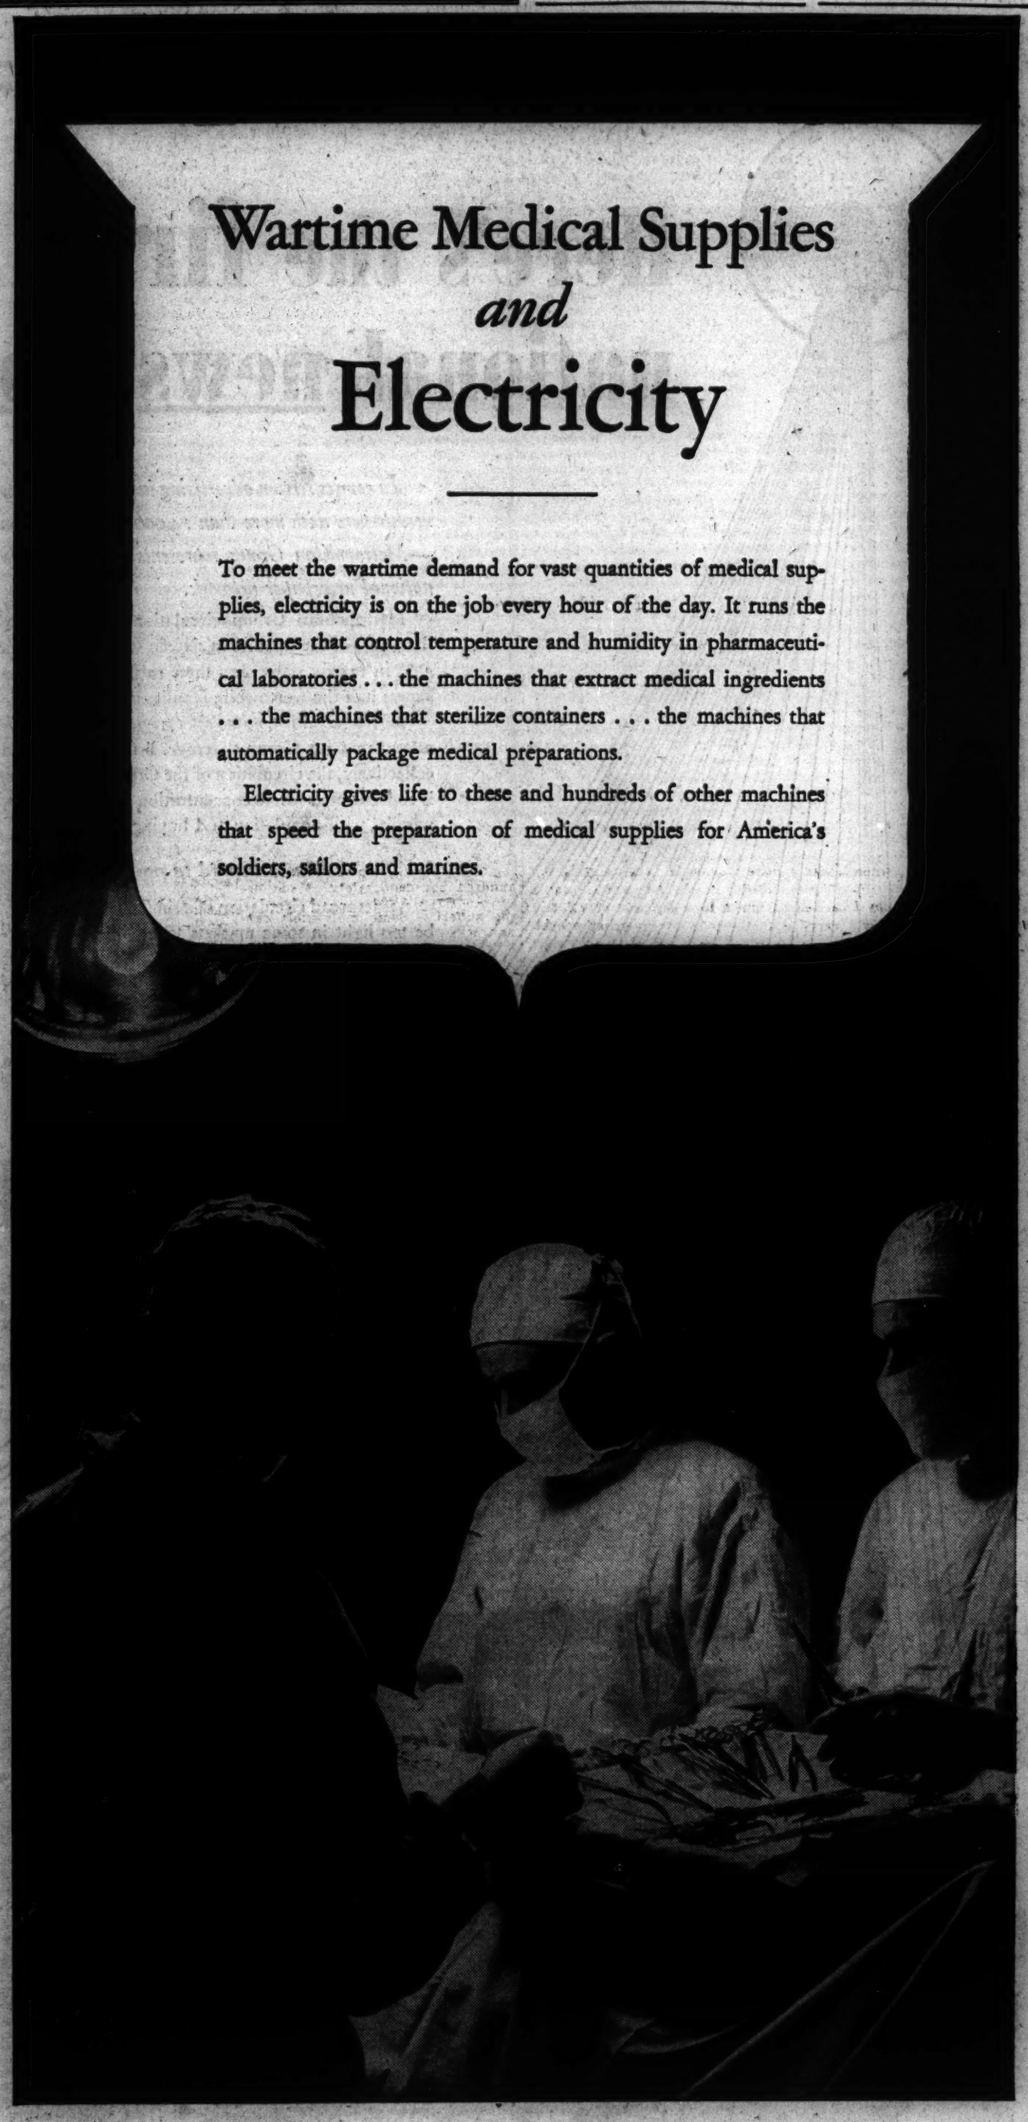
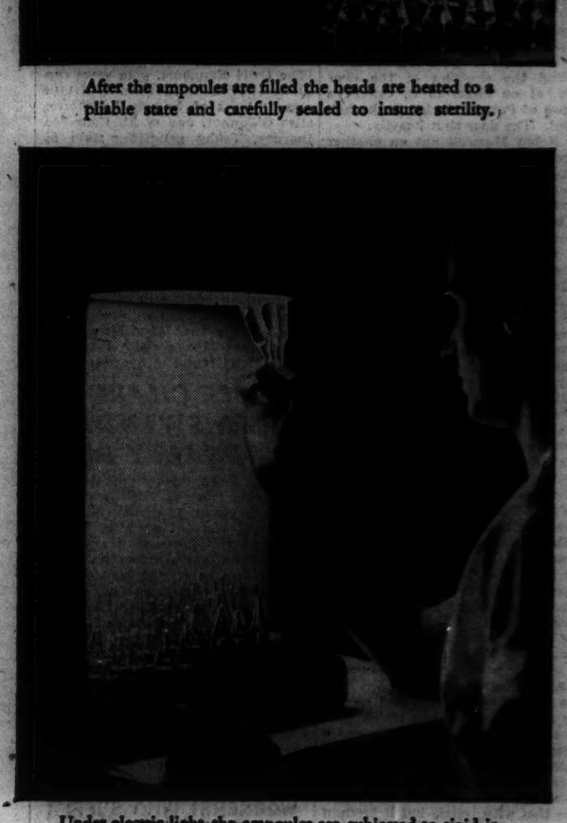
To meet the wartime demand for vast quantities of medical supplies, electricity is on the job every hour of the day. It runs the machines that control temperature and humidity in pharmaceutical laboratories . . . the machines that extract medical ingredients . . . the machines that sterilize containers . . . the machines that automatically package medical preparations.

Electricity gives life to these and hundreds of other machines that speed the preparation of medical supplies for America's soldiers, sailors and marines.



This electrically operated machine sterilizes ampoules which will carry injection preparations to our Medical Corps.

After the ampoules are filled the heads are heated to a pliable state and carefully sealed to insure sterility.



Under electric light the ampoules are subjected to rigid inspection before being shipped to America's field hospitals.

SYNOPSIS.

Laura Fane, shortly after her 21st birthday, visits London and meets her cousin, Tanis Lyle, for the first time. Tanis has been reared by a mutual cousin, Agnes Fane, who was engaged to Laura's father, Oliver, when he eloped with Laura's mother, Lillian. Since then Agnes has been a wheel chair invalid and has lived at the Priory, the family mansion she leased from Oliver for 21 years. Now she wants to buy it from Laura, who inherited it from her father. Laura, knowing that Cousin Agnes wants to leave the Priory to Tanis, does not want to sell. But she reluctantly accepts an invitation to a house party there. Tanis has invited Carey Desborough, her ex-fiancée, Robin and Alistair Maxwell, and Alistair's fiancée, Petra North, to the house party, too. Tanis makes a play for Alistair, but when she sees Carey and Laura falling in love she tries to reclaim Carey. Lucy Adams, another old cousin, lives with Agnes and they both try to make Laura feel like an interloper, just as they feel her mother was. Miss Maud Silver, an elderly detective, is visiting at the Priory at the time of the house party, and is an old friend of the family. Tanis divorced husband, Haselton, bursts in one evening and in a drunken craze threatens Tanis with a pistol, but Tanis subdues him and he is sent away. Then Tanis complicates the strain by inviting over a new conquest, Tim Madison, and his wife, Sylvia.

CHAPTER SIX.

DANCING PARTNER.

Tanis danced with Tim Madison. Three dances—then one with Carey. And then Tim Madison again. Carey, with Sylvia Madison, saw Miss Fane look up and frown, then back to her game of chess again.

Miss Silver had finished her baby's vest and was starting another. Alistair and Petra had disappeared. Laura was dancing with Robin whom she liked very much. They were laughing.

Sylvia said in a small, tired voice, "I didn't want to come. He made me."

"Would you rather not dance? We can go and sit out somewhere if you like."

She shook her head.

"It wouldn't be any good—I should go on seeing them. I do, nearly all the time, you know."

Carey was desperately sorry for her. He said kindly, "It won't last, you know—it's just a flare-up. Stick it out. She doesn't really want him."

They were moving to the rhythm of the dance. Her next words came on a faint fluttered breath.

"He comes up here—to see her—at night——"

"Nonsense!"

"No—it's true. Not last night, because I wouldn't go to bed. He wanted me to, and I wouldn't. We had a dreadful row. That's why I'm so tired. It kills me to have rows with Tim. I shall go to bed tonight, and he'll come up here to her." Her thread of a voice had taken on a kind of dreamy finality. She said faintly, "We won't talk about it any more. Tim's looking at us. I don't want him to be angry. I get frightened."

Carey began to tell her about Laura.

"The place belongs to her, but I don't suppose she'll ever live here. It's too big. This sort of house was out of date after the last war, and when this war's over we'll all be doing quite different things and living quite different lives. The old country house tradition has been dead for a generation. There's nothing left of it except a ghost or two. Laura——"

His voice changed on her name, and Sylvia caught him up.

"Laura—are you in love with her?"

His face changed, too, softening, breaking into a smile as he nodded.

"Dead secret. Don't tell any one."

She looked up at him, her blue eyes suddenly wet.

"You've got away. I'm glad."

It was a little after this that Alistair came back into the room alone. He had the look of a man under a heavy strain. Even to Laura's inexperience it was obvious that he had been drinking, but instead of being flushed he was exceedingly pale.

He walked straight up to where Tanis was standing with Tim Madison and said in a voice which any one could hear, "When are you going to dance with me?"

She gave him a fleeting glance, green and bright between black lashes.

"You haven't asked me."

He said, "That's a lie!" And then, "I'm asking you now."

Her fingers closed about Tim Madison's wrist. She said "No!" to him in an emphatic undertone. And then, with her sweetest smile, she said it to Alistair, "No, thank you, darling."

Just for a moment the thing hung in the balance—it might blow up, or it might not.

The moment passed. Alistair turned and went out of the room, walking as if he were drunk. Between the opening and the shutting of the door Laura, at an angle to it, caught a glimpse of Petra's scarlet in the hall beyond. The door shut heavily.

As Robin Maxwell put on another record, Miss Fane caught Carey Desborough's eye and beckoned imperiously. He came round to the far side of her chair between her and the fire, because Miss Silver was on the nearer side. She turned, and as he bent toward her she said, not whispering but low and deep, "Have you and Tanis quarreled?"

Carey smiled. "What makes you think so? I was dancing with her just now."

"Once," said Agnes. Then, with a further drop of the voice, "You should be dancing with her now. Mr. Madison never leaves her alone. He's making her conspicuous. Go and get her away from him! Who are you dancing with?"

His hand had been at Laura's waist and the music starting when she beckoned him.

He said, "Laura," and felt the dark eyes searching him.

"You're very friendly with her all of a sudden."

He said, "Yes."

The dark eyes held his. They were stern. He felt a fixity of purpose, an inescapable will.

He danced with Laura, and was solaced. They moved to music which was in their hearts. The moment was a brief, enchanted one.

He danced with Tanis, and was at once aware of a change which took him a long way back in time, and a longer still in mood. That hers was heightened, quickened, was plainly to be seen. She had an air of victorious expectancy. It was not for him—he knew that with relief—but it brought a return of her old smiles and glances, a softening of the voice. If he had not been in love with Laura he might have been in danger.

Her hand pressed his. She said, "You're not angry with me? We're friends?"

Carey laughed.

"Excellent friends. That's what you've got to tell your Aunt Agnes."

She nodded. "Yes, of course. We mustn't quarrel, must we? We've had good times—let's remember them. But, darling—you won't let Laura stick me with this place, will you? She'll listen to you. I'd die if I were tied up here, or else I'd bust the whole place wide open with some frightful scandal."

"You're doing that now."

She looked up, vividly amused.

"I know. It's marvelous, isn't it?" But that's just what I mean—you dance three times with a man and you're condemned in a place like this."

"Three times——" He smiled agreeably.

That pleased her, too. He thought to himself, "Good lord—has she gone off the deep end about the fellow?"

The music stopped. She stood leaning against him, her hand still on his arm, and shivered.

Carey asked, "Cold?"

Her fingers tightened and clung, then let go. She stepped back, smiling shaking her head. "Somebody walking over my grave," she said.

The evening ended. Alistair had not returned. Petra came back to the drawing room about 20 minutes after Laura had seen her in the hall. She stood for a moment with Carey and Laura, and said lightly, "Alistair's walking off. He'll come back like a lamb. How bad was it? Did he make a scene?"

Carey said "It might have been worse. He called Tanis a liar, and marched out of the room when she wouldn't dance with him."

The Madisons made their farewells and went out into a cold, windy night. "Blowing up for rain, but it won't come before morning," was Tim Madison's comment was lost as a swirling gust came in at the open lobby door. He took Sylvia by the arm, and they went off together to walk the quarter of a mile between the Priory and their cottage.

By ones and twos the others said good night and went upstairs, Robin Maxwell last, with Alistair who walked in without explanation or apology at a little after 1.

Laura slept, her last waking thought relief because the visit was over. She would look back on it and remember only that Carey and she had found each other. And everything else—the strain, the old cousins disliking her, Tanis—all would be forgotten.

PETITIONS COURT TO SPLIT LOOT OF TOUHY GANG

An equitable distribution according to law of the $13,605 found by federal bureau of investigation agents on Dec. 29 when they rounded up the Touhy gang was asked yesterday in a petition filed in federal district court by J. Albert Woll, United States attorney. The money is in the possession of the FBI.

The government's petition was forced by claims made by Roger Touhy, Edward Darlak, and Basil [The Owl] Banghart, who were captured after a break from Stateville prison; heirs of Eugene Lanthorne, alias O'Connor, and of St. Clair McInerney, Touhy gangsters slain by FBI agents; Atty. Joseph T. Harrington, Touhy's lawyer, and Melvin Thillens, official of the North Town Currency exchange. Touhy and four of his accomplices confessed they robbed the exchange's armored car of $20,000 on Dec. 18.

Woll's petition asked the court to enjoin the claimants from commencing recovery actions in other courts pending distribution by the federal court. Touhy, thru Atty. Harrington, already has filed a claim for $1,270 of the $1,974 found in his possession.

COUPLE CHARGE $1,000 SWINDLE IN REALTY DEAL

John J. Kern, former operator of a real estate office at 1520 Devon avenue, was named yesterday in a Felony court warrant accusing him of swindling two prospective buyers of $1,000 down payment on an apartment house at 6209-13 North Claremont avenue.

Clement Cody, assistant state's attorney later disclosed that six other persons complained they also made down payments of approximately $1,000 on the same property. Efforts to find Kern were unavailing, Cody said.

Fred Schwenk and his wife, Rose, 4731 North Central Park avenue, got the warrant. They said they contracted with Kern on Jan. 5 to buy the property for $19,000.

process for rubber production would compete with aviation gasoline in plant construction and later for raw materials. Don't you now agree that it's time for us to search for other sources for rubber?"

"It's my personal opinion," Madigan replied, "that it is too late for new processes to relieve the rubber shortage at its bottom this year. By the end of 1943, plants with a total capacity of 900,000 tons a year will be completed."

Madigan is in charge of new plant construction for the war department. Until Sept. 20, he was on loan to the Rubber Reserve corporation in a similar capacity.

Advocates Using Alcohol.

The Gillette committee has advocated further use of alcohol from farm surpluses and forestry waste as a raw material for synthetic rubber. The world shortage of food stuffs is laying further emphasis upon projected utilization of forestry wastes, conserving both farm crops and petroleum for their primary purposes.

THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE is pioneering the salvage from the woods by the construction of a plant at its Thorold, Ont., paper mill to extract alcohol from sulphite liquor usually poured into streams and lakes under American woodpulp practices.

"The ardent promoters of the petroleum process," said Sen. Gillette in opening his inquiry, "insisted last summer there would be no competition between the aviation gasoline and the synthetic rubber plant construction. What's the situation today?"

Competition for Equipment.

"There is the most keen competition for valves, instruments, and other component parts which are interchangeable between the two types of plants," Madigan replied. "The same parts are also needed for airplane engine factories and for navy escort vessels. The manufacturers are overloaded with urgent orders."

"And who decides which use is going to get preference?" asked the senator.

"Mr. Nelson."

Paul Hadlick, attorney for the committee, in questioning Madigan attempted to supplement last week's evidence tending to show that the administration rubber program is costing 500 million dollars [with a proportionate excess in time and in materials] more than it might have cost had alcohol processes in operation in Europe been adopted here for making tire materials.

"Are the petroleum companies charging some of their rubber expenses to their aviation gasoline operations [also paid by the government]?" the lawyer asked.

"For me to answer," Madigan replied, "would merely be the opinion of one without access to the records."

After the committee session Jeffers told reporters he hadn't changed his opinion of the outlook for a rubber crisis this fall.

"The problem now rests with a higher authority than me," he said, evidently referring to the President, who has been silent on this controversy.

Here's the first national newspaper network!

In comics section advertising in 40 great Sunday newspapers with more than 14,000,000 circulation—Metropolitan Group represents the first truly national newspaper network.

Metropolitan Group circulation includes more than 50% of the families in sixteen states; more than 40% in twenty states; less than 10% in only sixteen states; half the worthwhile families in the U. S.!

No magazine list, no top-rated program on a major radio network matches Group coverage. Because singly and collectively, the circulation of the Group newspapers, is concentrated where concentration counts for most, parallel with population and buying power!

Waste turned to power

Widespread circulation of a single newspaper may be too light in some markets to be effective. Overlapping circulation of these great Sunday newspapers gives useful, effective circulation in thousands of urban markets—converts waste circulation into power, adds economy and efficiency to national advertising.

For instance: No Group paper is published in Canton, O.; but the circulation of seven Group papers read in Canton includes 48% of Canton families!

No Group paper is published in the states of New Jersey, Delaware, South Carolina or Georgia. But circulation of Group papers includes 61% of the families in Trenton, and 60% in Newark, N. J.; 61% in Wilmington, Del., 21% in Charleston, S. C., and 18% in Savannah, Ga.

Whole family appeal in comics

Sunday comics are a childhood habit, never lost. Readership of Metropolitan Group comics among adults exceeds 75%; includes virtually all children.

The Sunday comics section has a whole day to reach its maximum audience, without competition from any other advertising. And the regular reading habit gives advertising the greatest certainty of reception!

Advertising in Metropolitan Group comics gets instant action all over the national market; reaches not only customers—but your salesmen and dealers, without advance notice or any secondary stimulation.

With a large space unit, four colors, and low cost, Metropolitan Group reaches the best of the national market—more quickly, effectively and cheaply!

Arden Shore's Work Told at Annual Session

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE high point of the Arden Shore association's annual meeting always is the informal talk given by Miss Anna Belle Ferrier on the year's activities at the Arden Shore camp in Lake Bluff. Members of committees from various suburbs gathered at noon yesterday at the Chicago Athletic association to elect officers and to hear how the camp fared during 1942.

"The year 1942 was a year of overcoming obstacles," said Miss Ferrier, the friendly executive director who is a favorite with camp families and the board of directors alike. "Uncle Sam took our entire staff last January, and again in October," Miss Ferrier told the members. She listed a procession of 13 cooks between May and September and the near loss of the beachhouse as other trying events.

Assurance Is Given Camp Will Carry on This Year.

"This year may see more changes," continued Miss Ferrier, who prophesied, however, that the camp would carry on "to give weary mothers a rest, take care of neglected children, and make boys fitted for citizenship."

Mrs. Robert B. Gregory, who continues as honorary president of the board, and Mrs. Theron Colton spoke briefly. The guest speaker was Pierce Atwater, executive director of the Chicago Community Fund, whose suggestions on "Financing Social Agencies in War Time" were heard with special attention by the association's new financial chairman, Mrs. George W. Traver. Mrs. Proehl H. Jaklon was elected president. The other officers are Mrs. Walter Straub, Mrs. L. T. Ellis, Mrs. H. S. Vanderbie, Mrs. Rockwood Edwards, Mrs. E. H. Freeman, and Mrs. Kenneth Du Vall.

For the first time there was not a waiting list to enroll in the camp during 1942. Many mothers who ordinarily would have been eligible had taken defense jobs, or were compelled to stay at home to care for other members of the family who were working.

Mrs. Gary Is Re-elected Head of St. Luke's Board.

With two exceptions, the woman's board of St. Luke's hospital will have the same officers for the coming year that guided the organization thru its last successful term. Mrs. John W. Gary was reëlected president at the annual meeting yesterday at the hospital. Other officers are Mrs. Walter B. Wolf, Mrs. Huntington B. Henry, Mrs. Gordon Lang, Mrs. Charles F. Glore, Mrs. W. Press Hodgkins, Mrs. William S. Covington. Mrs. Richard K. Juergens, and Mrs. Herbert C. De Young. Mrs. Covington fills the post formerly held by Mrs. Earl Kribben, who has gone to Washington, D. C., with her husband, a major in the army, and Mrs. De Young replaces Mrs. Samuel W. Bodman. The new membership committee will be headed by Mrs. Keith Brown and Mrs. Cyrus Adams.

At the annual meeting yesterday of the governing members of the Art Institute of Chicago, Walter Byron Smith, Abram Poole, and Thomas E. Donnelley were reëlected trustees for seven year terms.

"Will every one who cannot use his ticket to tomorrow's Bond concert in Orchestra hall because of illness or absence from the city patriotically return the ticket for resale," is the earnest plea from Mrs. Walter R. Kirk, chairman of the concert, and Mrs. Walter B. Wolf, chairman of the women's division of the Chicago and Cook county war savings staff. There is an enormous demand for tickets to the long ago sold out house despite the fact that many tickets and boxes have been sold and resold a number of times. The purchase price is in war bonds.

Dresses Frosted with White Get Early Start in Fashions

BY REA SEEGER.

Dark dresses frosted with white accents got off to an unprecedentedly early start this year. The white touches, which include collar and cuff sets and vestees and dickey sets, are also breaking records for early arrival. Of all these the dickeys are causing the biggest excitement. Altho labeled with an inconsequential name they still deserve the serious attention of all shoppers. There are never-ending displays of sheer organdies, white as sugar and made in an almost delirious assortment of ruffles, frills, and pleated effects as well as sleek tailored models.

Handsome eyelet embroidery is used effectively as the cascading single or double frill down the center or around the turnover collar and to edge the companion cuffs. Dickeys sold without cuffs are white magic for any suit. Most of them have the wide, simply cut, and unadorned back attached to the wide decorative front half with tape or fast vanishing elastic. They fit as flawlessly as a blouse, indeed some of them are practically blouses without benefit of sleeves.

There are fancy effects of alternating bands of vertical tuck and lace insertion. Others made of sheer organdy in blush pink, cloud blue, and white have a double circular cut fall of ruffles of the same organdy down the front. High round necklines, some square cut outlines, and the deep flattering vee lines are plentiful. There are even preacher bows tied precisely high in the center front, tucked bosoms like a man's shirt, tricky affairs of piqué combined or contrasted with sheer organdy, and a few stunning models of linen combined with decorative insets of large open work embroidery with the linen cut out open under the embroidery.

Short Snorter on Loose.

Even with a magnifying glass many of the signatures are undecipherable, for they merge with the engraving on the green side of the $1 bill. Henry Barbour received it in change, and could understand none of it until he saw the words, "Short Snorter," printed at the top of the bill. Then he realized it was some one's souvenir of a flight across the Atlantic. The Short Snorters is a fairly exclusive society, rapidly growing in membership, to which only those who have flown the Atlantic may belong. The membership card is a dollar bill signed by fellow passengers on the flight, and if a member cannot produce the bill when challenged by another member, as Winston Churchill was recently, he must forfeit $1. This one bears the date 9-5-42. Among the 25 signatures, some of them written in red ink in what seems to be foreign handwriting, are J. T. Lannin, Warren Harrells, Paul Perogine, G. C. Vaughn, Keeth Blossom, E. R. Aronson, P. J. Ziller and "Bob." Mr. Barbour is quite willing to trade it to its owner for a clean $1 bill. Any takers?

The Fallen Hero Speaks.

What poets will emerge from this war? In the last war there were Rupert Brooke, Siegfried Sassoon, Robert Graves, Alan Seeger, and Wilfred Owen, three of them killed in action. The first poet of this war was John Magee Jr., the young American flyer killed last year with the royal Canadian air force. In the mail now come poems from American boys in Australia, Alaska, New Guinea, and today came the anonymous work of a European soldier, identified by the sender, Mrs. Sally Paul, only as "a young relative of mine":

I sleep under an unpainted cross
And my death was a hero's death.
And once I crawled along a road.
That was said to lead somewhere.

But I have forgotten the length and the breadth
Of a road that led somewhere.

It was when we went — or do I forget?
That I shuddered under a blow
And when I looked at my uniform coat
I could see the red blood flow.

But I remember not whose uniform
I wore
Or who it was who shot,

A helmet hangs upon the cross
Which they left here in the light,
A heavy, dragging steel-gray one
That we wore day and night.

But I remember not why it hangs here now
Or whom it belonged to there.

Thru the Looking Glass

Right spang in the middle of the cold wave we rediscovered an old love, a hand cream that does all the things a harassed woman might ask of one in zero weather!

It's been a pretty tough winter for hands. Many of us are having to do things we didn't do before; we wash our own clothes and do our own dishes and work with our two good hands more than we ever did in the pre-war days. And honest toil takes a toll of hand beauty.

The battle scars can be compensated for, however, with proper care. There are knowledgeable little tricks we should all employ, such as drying hands thoroly after each washing and using protective gloves when we can. But nothing quite takes the place of a preparation that soothes and helps heal and even whitens.

Our pet hand cream of the moment does all these things. It's a snow white cream, thin-textured, and a miracle of quick drying. When the hands are chapped it should be used generously. Using as a preventive after each hand washing, you can apply it less generously.

This cream, tho it isn't the greasy type, does a wonderful job of restoring the oil that water and cold take away. It helps banish the redness and roughness and, unless our eyes deceive us, even tends to make the skin a little whiter.

Another point in its favor, budgeteers will be glad to know, is that it's inexpensive.

Women in War Work

By Kate Massee

The service men's hospitality committee of the women's coördinating committee of Oak Park and River Forest civilian defense councils will sponsor a dance Friday evening at the Fort Sheridan recreation center. Two hundred and twenty-five girls from the two villages will act as dancing partners for the enlisted men to be guests at the dance. They will travel to Fort Sheridan in buses. The dance is one of the regular Friday evening socials at the fort.

Miss Shirley Brown of River Forest, one of young women who will entertain Fort Sheridan service men at dance Friday.

It's now a little more convenient for members of the WAAC at Fort Sheridan to be beautiful. A station beauty salon has been opened in building 184 in the WAAC area at the post and G. I. hairdos are dispensed regularly and proficiently. The hairdos won't be as involved as many of those affected by the WAAC's civilian sisters, since regulations rule that hair must be one inch off the collar. The salon is open from noon until 9 o'clock in the evening and business, according to Joe Kumbera, who operates the shop, is rushing. Army nurses, officers' wives, and women employés at the post also patronize the shop.

The Y. W. C. A. League of Industrial Girls will sponsor a program of women's work in war time from 4 until 8 o'clock Sunday at the Loop Center Y. W. C. A., 59 East Monroe street. WAVES and members of the WAAC will be on hand, but the spotlight will focus on women industrial workers from Chicago war plants. A movie, a skit, an address by Mrs. Bettina E. Schwartz of the defense training referral unit of the United States employment service, and a social tea hour are included in the program. On exhibition will be material related to job training for war industry and safety clothing for war workers. Miss Elsa Graves and Miss Alice Pooley are co-chairmen of the program.

A program for the voluntary mobilization of American women for war work has been recommended by the women's advisory committee of the war man power commission, according to Mrs. Maudelle B. Bousfield, principal of Phillips High school and a member of the advisory committee.

The recommendation provides for the recruiting and referral of women workers thru the United States employment service, the placement of women in jobs on their qualifications and on strict equality with men workers, and the active recruiting of women without young children first.

The program also calls for the accelerated development of preëmployment training courses. This would involve the training of women who are entering the labor market for the first time and the retraining of women to develop new skills to meet the war need.

The committee is reviewing the progress which is being made toward the analysis of occupations within plants to determine the types of work women can do. Recruiting campaigns will be carried on by the war man power commission as the need arises in various areas, so that it is not necessary for women in all areas to enter the labor market now.

Three hundred physically fit Chicago women are being sought for light kitchen work in units 1 and 2 of the army air forces technical training command in the former Stevens and Congress hotels. The women will preside at the steam tables, prepare tables and vegetables, keep the necessary supplies on the tables, and do other light work, according to Lt. James S. Duncan, civilian employment officer at unit 1, 720 South Michigan avenue. The women would work eight hours daily, six days a week.

[This department reports on women's war activities and answers questions regarding such activities.]

Food Sources of Vitamin C Are Set Forth

BY MARY MEADE.

(Copyright: 1943: By The Chicago Tribune.)

Here's an excellent book for you women who have been attending nutrition classes and want to continue the process of educating yourselves in this very important science: "Essentials of Nutrition," by Henry C. Sherman and Caroline Sherman Lanford, Macmillan company. Look for it in your bookstore.

"Tables of Food Values," by Alice Bradley, Manual Arts Press, is another handy guide for the woman who takes this business of nutrition seriously. Both of these books presuppose some knowledge of nutrition, but neither is overtechnical.

Vitamin C, that food element which increases resistance to infections, helps keep teeth and bones in good condition, prevents and cures scurvy, and keeps the blood vessels in good health, is found abundantly in many vegetables. Citrus fruits are the most potent source, of course, with tomatoes a close second. But these sources also are important: Raw cabbage, raw turnips, raw celery [especially the leaves], raw asparagus tips [much of the vitamin is lost in cooking asparagus], young, fresh carrots, string beans, green peppers, lettuce, and raw onions [but there's an obvious disadvantage here!]. Potatoes aren't an especially good source in themselves, but are eaten in such quantity and so regularly that they become an excellent source of vitamin C in many diets.

When vegetables such as cabbage and green beans are cooked, there is some loss of vitamin C, of course. Quick cooking is important. Cabbage is so palatable raw that it may be wise to serve it in this state more frequently than as a cooked vegetable.

String beans contain so much cellulose that they aren't usually eaten raw. Overcooking is a common mistake in their preparation.

Take good care of the meat you buy. Store it under the freezing unit. Unwrap it or cover it very loosely, for wrappings encourage the growth of spoilage bacteria.

Cooked meat should be closely covered to prevent it from drying out. Use scraps of cooked meat in casserole dishes; grind it for sandwich fillings; grind it and add to white sauce to top toast or baked potatoes. Or, add it to vegetable casseroles. Leftover bones may be simmered in water to make stock for soup or sauces. You won't get a lot of flavor from them, but you'll get some.

Try leftover meat with vegetables in a casserole, topped with cornbread instead of the usual biscuit or pastry crust. This is a real treat.

A Cicero reader writes to suggest that we encourage foreign recipes in our recipe contest. "Many European nationalities eat little meat. We could get quite a number of meatless recipes from them," she says. "Furthermore, they are masters in the art of seasoning with herbs, and with spices hard to get, flavoring foods with home-grown herbs may become more important to us." Good suggestion, thank you. Perhaps readers who have recipes of these kinds will take note.

Field Museum Opens Exhibit of Indian Lore

Dusting off present museum methods in the exhibition of anthropological material, the Field Museum of Natural History today will open to the public the first completed section of a new hall of American prehistory, officially called the Hall of New World Archaeology. Members of the museum staff, scientists from other institutions, and press representatives were given a preview of the new section yesterday.

Devoted entirely to exhibits of "Indian America," the section presents a composite picture of the new world civilization as found by explorers, conquerors, and missionaries. The hall, which has taken a year and a half to design and prepare, according to Dr. Paul S. Martin, chief curator of the department of anthropology, marks the beginning of an era of radically improved museum techniques.

"In this new type of hall, with its new type of exhibits, museum visitors will find to their delight that there are only a few significant specimens instead of long rows of objects," Dr. Martin stated. "Also, there are practically no labels, and the displays are made doubly attractive by use of the most modern type of lighting and by the liberal use of gay colors tastefully and harmoniously blended."

When completed the hall will include exhibits of "Indian America," of new world civilizations as they were in the thousands of years preceding Columbus, techniques of the prehistoric Americans in the manufacture of clothing, pottery, and stone, bone and metal tools, and methods used by archaeologists in excavation, collection, and interpretation of material, Dr. Martin said.

St. Olaf Choir Has Brilliant Tour Opening

BY CLAUDIA CASSIDY.

The St. Olaf Lutheran college of Northfield, Minn., is as proud of its choir as many a school is of its football team, and considering the consistent quality of that choir's performance, you might even suspect the directors of scouting high schools for promising voices. Certainly its annual tours are a kind of triumphal progress, and the 1943 junket, admittedly endangered by the uncertainties of war time travel, got off to a brilliant start last night when the choir gave its services to aid Norwegian relief, and sold out Orchestra hall in the process.

Altho its personnel of 60 mixed voices shifts with the flowing tide of students, the St. Olaf choir has an unchanging tradition. Founded 31 years ago by F. Melius Christiansen, who now shares its direction with his son, Olaf C. Christiansen, it is devoted to the highest ideals in sacred music.

Year in and year out it creates a wonderful organ tone of extraordinary clarity and depth, and it has an accuracy of attack and intonation that verges on the reverent. It is possible to wish for more brilliance, but when it comes to dusky texture spun of translucent layers of rich tone, the St. Olaf choir has few equals, and no superior, in contemporary performance.

Last night's concert followed the usual pattern, featuring a magnificent performance of Bach's "Jesu, Priceless Treasure," singing Gretchaninoff scores in flawless Russian authenticity of mood, and ending, as always, with that spectacular version of the "Crusaders' Hymn," under the elder Christiansen's direction.

Another particularly effective choice was Oldroyd's contemplative setting of a 14th century prayer, which introduced an unidentified soloist with a soprano voice like thick cream, smooth, rich, and gently remote. A few voices like that, and those remarkable young basses, would give stature to any well directed choir.

The Stage

By Cecil Smith

"Watch on the Rhine," one of the notable plays of this or any other season, has nearly finished its transcontinental meandering. After closing at the Selwyn theater Saturday night the company will undertake just one more week of one night stands, calling it quits on Feb. 6 in Harrisburg, Pa. There is talk of returning "Watch on the Rhine" to Broadway in a larger house at cut prices, but so far it is only talk.

After two years of constant association with the rôlé, Paul Lukas' performance as Kurt Mueller, the unswerving anti-Nazi, is still remarkable for its supreme economy of effort and its quiet intensity. When some one asked Mr. Lukas the other day whether he never felt any temptation to let down and take his rôle casually, he replied honestly, "Of course I am tired sometimes, or not in good spirits; and when those times come along I have to cudgel myself into keeping my acting what it should be. But my part is too good for me to dare to let either Lillian Hellman [the author] or an audience down."

Mr. Lukas' assessment of his own work is as simple and modest as his acting. "Kurt Mueller is an actor-proof rôle," he said. When I objected that any rôle looks actor-proof if it is really well acted, he admitted you have to know how to play so honest a part in an honest manner. "Just depart from the line of simplicity by that much," he said, using his thumb and forefinger as if he were measuring the length of half a king sized cigaret, "and you can make the play seem so false that its meaning is lost."

On a return visit to the Selwyn last week-end I found Mr. Lukas and Lucile Watson still at the top of their best. Mady Christians, perhaps a bit tired, seemed a little more purely technical and not so warm as the other times I have seen her. The miscasting of Scott Colton, who plays David with the soft unction of a radio announcer, and of Frederic Tozere, whose Rumanian count has too many overtones of the gangster he played in "Key Largo," hurts the present ensemble and makes it less perfect than the cast we saw last spring.

But I do not want to cavil too much, for despite its new weaknesses of performance, "Watch on the Rhine" remains one of the high experiences of the year, and I am sorry it must leave us on Saturday.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 25.—Katharine Cornell appeared in the picture "Stage Door Canteen" for nothing, after she had turned down fabulous offers from every producer in town. So again she's being deluged with picture offers, and I'll bet before the year's end rolls around, she will be doing another picture. At least, here's hoping. . . . Spencer Tracy can't seem to make up his mind. Wanting to be in New York he flew out to Kansas City, came back the next day. Following day, took a plane for New York, where he is now. He and Katharine Hepburn will be teamed in a picture version of her New York play, "Without Love." In the meantime, "A Man Called Joe," which is to be his next picture, is waiting for him. So is Irene Dunne, who is to co-star in it.

Katharine Cornell.

Another Chance.

No, it isn't Simone Simon who's asking gentlemen to shave off their mustaches, but Ernst Lubitsch. The latest hairless one is Reginald Gardiner. Nice to see Simone back at Twentieth. When Ernst gets thru with her, they'll have another star on their hands. . . . Doesn't look as tho George Brent is going into the coast guard. He's just rented the house Hedy Lamarr once owned, which she sold to Leslie Howard, and which was the honeymoon home of Vivian Leigh and Laurence Olivier I'm wondering if George is aiming to spend a honeymoon there, too. . . . And speaking of Hedy, she fell in love with John Loder while watching him slice turkey on Thanksgiving, at Hollywood canteen. There must be some symbolism in that, but for the life of me, I can't find it. . . . Saturday night at the canteen, Jane Withers rushed over to Mrs. John Ford with, "That tall gentleman over there asked me to play tennis with him. Do you think I should?" Mrs. Ford looked over at the tall gentleman indicated, and said, "I think I would if I were you. That's Big Bill Tilden." He was only a bus boy at the canteen! . . . Charles Laughton had the soldiers shedding tears at the same place with his Gettysburg address. Now he's booked for once a week at the canteen, and camp shows with Kay Kyser. Saturday was Kay's 18th consecutive Saturday.

Mother Knows Best.

When Marlene Dietrich heard that her daughter was romantically interested in Richard Haydn, she sent for him and said, "I'm very happy to meet you. You'll be able to talk much more freely than you do to my daughter, because we're the same age—38—and therefore can understand each other." The rest of the conversation—unquote! Romance of Marlene and Jean Gabin is now a thing of the past also. . . . No, Rosalind Russell and Mary Boland didn't switch houses. Rosalind bought the Boland house because she needed more space, but is keeping her little one for income purposes. . . . Monty Woolley says, "I hope Nunnally Johnson won't ask me to live up to the title of the picture 'Buried Alive!'" "If he does, what will you do with your beard?" he was asked. "Will it be under or on top of the soil?" . . . Kay Aldridge doesn't mind location. When she returned from the high Sierras, she brought back six steaks.

His Last Bow.

The passing of Alexander Woollcott has taken the theater's greatest booster. He was a strange combination, a master of words. His first love of the theater was Minnie Maddern Fiske. His real love was Neysa McMein. Most people think he came to fame as a dramatic critic, but it was long before when he was only a cub reporter, that he happened to hear the shot fired and was practically on the spot when Gyp the Blood and Leftie Louie shot Rothstein. It was his coverage of that case which started him up the ladder. Nor was "The Man Who Came to Dinner" his first experience as actor. He did "The Charlatans" in 1907—played the leading lady for the drama club at Hamilton college. He wrote of Michael Arlen that he was "every other inch a gentleman." But the thing that hurt Woollcott most was a thing written about him, calling him "The Seidletz Powder of Times Square." He was one of the first to play poker, patience, anagrams—any game of words to confound both his friends and enemies; he tried to make you believe he was a cynical sophisticate, when in realty he was a sentimentalist at heart. In a letter only two weeks ago, he wrote, "By March I shall have ready for publication a book that is the apple of my eye, titled 'As You Were.' Six hundred and seventy pages on the thinniest paper, so you can slip the book into your pocket. It's a portable library of American prose and poetry designed for the men of the army, navy, and merchant marine. Authors range from Thomas Jefferson and Ben Johnson to Dorothy Parker and Hemingway. All profits go to relief fund of the merchant marine.

New auto designs to be years ahead

Scientists predict that automobiles of the post-war period will be nearly 20 years ahead of their normal development. Over-all design will be revolutionized and hundreds of new mechanical and scientific features, developed during the war, will be standard equipment. Many prospective purchasers of these vehicles are assuring themselves adequate funds for this purpose by buying their full quota of War Savings Bonds now. And, in so doing, they are helping to assure a free world of peace and plenty for all. So buy War Bonds and Stamps today. This advertisement contributed by the makers of Sani-Flush and Mel-O.

Over-Training Child Has Its Disadvantages

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1943: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Nature is a marvelous guide in living, if we can only see what she's driving at. She's a more marvelous guide to the "guiders" of young children, if they can only cock an observing eye on her and follow her lead.

For a long time nature was ostracized in the matter of babies and their processes of elimination. It was considered smart and modern to start early with the poor little dears and "train" them within an inch of their lives.

The beautiful, important rhythm of a baby's growth, based largely on rest and sleep, was rudely broken into by a knowing mother or nurse at shockingly short intervals to "catch" the baby before he forgot himself. This was called training, but all it was really was keeping him "dry." He was too young for voluntary control of this strong urge.

The whole business was bad for his delicate new nervous system, which often, later on, took its revenge by dropping the apparently trained older baby or small child back into most annoying and embarrassing habits of ignoring the purpose of the bathroom or toilet chair.

Over-training and too early training have been pushed into the discard by the most enlightened modern procedures in baby care. We are, in a sense, reverting to old fashioned laissez-faire methods, but with new angles and an understanding of why we revert to them. Also, we who are truly modern and informed remember constantly that, as our beginning measures, "catching" a child at reasonably long intervals to help him and save ourselves washing, is not at all the same thing as teaching him to recognize his "needs" and to exercise control of these natural functions of bowel and bladder control. "Timing" does come first; but it is not the same as training.

The basic knowledge of how large a part nature and growth play when a mother tries for the establishment of good eliminative habits is necessary for the baby's well being, and for the mother's enjoyment of these fascinating days of babyhood.

Kohlbusch, president last year of the auxiliary, will give the annual report.

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Jeanne Patricia Diehl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Ross Diehl, to Maj. Walter E. Hook, son of Mrs. Elisha L. Hook and the late Dr. Hook. The ceremony took place on Dec. 26 at St. Chrysostom's church, with a small reception following at the Ambassador hotel. Maj. Hook and his bride are at home in Staunton, Va., where he is on the staff of the new Woodrow Wilson General hospital.

Lt. and Mrs. Elliott Detchon [Joan Reid] became the parents of a daughter on Sunday at Quantico, Va. The baby's grandparents are the Elliott R. Detchons and the Bryan S. Reids of Lake Forest. Mrs. Reid went east to welcome their fifth granddaughter.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Alexander Ballantine Jr. [Barbara Behrens] became the parents of a son, Norman III., yesterday at the Delnor hospital in St. Charles. The baby's father is a private in the army, stationed at Medford, Ore. Mrs. Ballantine and the infant will live with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herman A. Behrens.

Friends of Mrs. Dean Coffin of Detroit, the former Winifred De Forest of Chicago, are interested to hear that she and Mr. Coffin recently became the parents of a second set of twin boys, Fred De Forest and William Vail. The Coffins also have a daughter.

According to Culbertson

[Copyright: 1943: By Ely Culbertson.]

There is one type of play which can be described by the simple phrase, "getting rid of losers." It applies to such a deal as the following:

South, dealer.
East-West vulnerable.

♥ 10 4 2
♦ 9 6 4
♣ J 9 7 5

WEST
♠ None
♥ A K J 8 7 6 5 3
♣ 10 4 2

EAST
♠ 9 8 6 5 2
♥ Q 9
♦ K Q J 10

SOUTH
♠ A K Q J 10
♥ None
♦ A 8 3 2
♣ A K Q 3

The bidding:

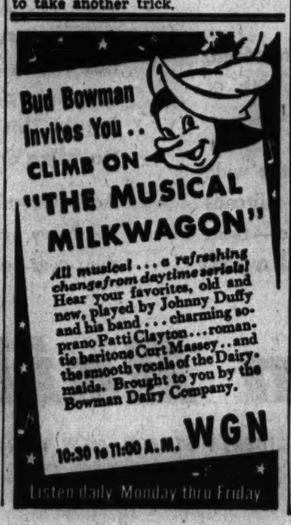
South	West	North	East
2 spades	3 hearts	Pass	Pass
3 spades	Pass	4 spades	Double
Redouble	Pass	Pass	Pass

North was decidedly up against it for a good bid over South's three spades. Many players in North's position would simply throw up their hands and refuse to take any action, later arguing that if South had game in his own hand, he should bid it. This North, however, was made of sterner stuff. He knew that an opening two-bid in a suit most certainly should be kept open until game is reached [or the opponents are doubled] and he knew, moreover, that it was merely up to him to obey orders, not to attempt to use "judgment."

East's penalty double was far from sound and should merely have served as an additional warning to South in the subsequent play.

West opened the heart king and declarer promptly ruffed! The lead of one trump now brought out the bad news that East had started with five. East was now "one up" in trumps, hence, declarer could neither bring home his entire club suit, nor could he ruff the losing diamonds in dummy. The redoubled contract was down one, no matter how declarer squirmed.

Note how childishly simple it would have been to fulfill this contract. All South had to do was make West a gracious gift of three heart tricks, meanwhile ridding his own hand of three diamonds, which were certain to be losers under the circumstances. After West took three hearts, dummy would be void of the suit and dummy's trumps would then protect declarer's far more important trump suit from a "force." East would be unable to get rid of any worthwhile card on the third heart, and after that, the defenders would be helpless to take another trick.



Lovely, Simple Dresses

MISS' SPRING DRESSES.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MACKAY.

It's a Thought.

"What with the WICS, the WEEDS, the WOWS, the WAACS, and the WAVES, how about the WIVES?" inquires "War Worker's Wife." "They also serve," she adds.

Be Human.

The head of a not so large company keeps a record of the birthdays of his employés. To each one he sends a birthday card—nothing pretentious—just a small greeting conveying the thought that he's glad they're alive and wishes them a "Happy Birthday."

Perhaps this employer obeys instinctively rule No. 1 in an interesting pamphlet which came to this desk a day or so ago: "Be human and obey those good impulses without being afraid of what others may think. . . . Be human—remember that others react according to the way you act."

Called "Success Through Leadership" and written by Jack Staehle, the booklet asserts this point of view:

"Figures show that more people fail because they cannot get along with others than because of lack of ability, education, opportunity, or money.

"In any organization the only way you can attain lasting success is by the willing, wholehearted support and coöperation of the entire organization. Without this, you are doomed to failure regardless of how hard you work or how many college degrees you have received.

"We should remember that to develop good human relations employés must be considered as human beings—not as machines and objects which do not think or feel. We should never think of system or methods in the same thought with human beings. . . . To insure good employé [human] relations we must recognize and treat each employé as an individual who thinks, feels, and acts just a bit differently from any other employé."

Word Study.

Helpful readers have supplied Anne Forrest with many a "missing word" containing all five vowels, but "facetious" and "abstemious" [with "ly" for good measure], the words in which the vowels appear in the usual order, were suggested [one or the other or both] by Hilda Wilton, E. F., C. B. P., N. M. Corliss, J. C. D., Mrs. Charles H. Marshall, Fran Mitchell, Ann Karel, Claire H. Rhodes, Marion G. McClelland [who modestly signs herself "another white collar girl"—she's a lawyer], Jeannette Sorensen, A. S. H., Harvey Fitzmaurice, Louise O'Connor, Pauline Koehler, "White Collar Mechanic," Fred Clutterham, Louis Perlman, Ida C. Rholf, and others.

O my! O me! Such a showing makes this one word-dabbler feel mildly abashed. But, here's one to catch you [sent in by Ann Karel]: What word has the five vowels backwards? Try that on your typewriter!

NEW COLD WAVE SPURS DEMANDS FOR FUEL PROBE

Predict Action This Week by Legislature.

BY JOHNSON KANADY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 25 [Special].—Spurred by a new cold wave, senate sponsors of the joint resolution to investigate office of price administration rationing of fuel oil in the state will open a campaign tomorrow to have the resolution approved this week.

Sen. N. L. Hubbard.

Democratic Sen. Nicholas L. Hubbard of Mount Pulaski, who joined with majority members in asking the investigation, said today he is certain the resolution will be passed and sent to the house of concurrence this week.

Adoption Predicted.

"I don't anticipate any trouble getting the resolution thru," Hubbard said, adding that he believed the investigation will receive support from others of the minority party.

Sen. Earle Benjamin Searcy [R., Springfield] today was renamed chairman of the powerful senate executive committee and announced that he would call a meeting of the group to consider the resolution Tuesday after the regular session, if it is referred to his committee.

Such a move would allow the committee to take formal action and report the resolution at the opening of the senate session Wednesday.

Sponsors of Measure.

Senators Searcy, Hubbard, Walker Butler [R., Chicago], and Arnold P. Benson [R., Batavia], president pro tempore of the senate, introduced the resolution Jan. 12 just before the legislators recessed for two weeks.

Both houses will meet at 10 a. m. tomorrow with final permanent organization completed. Lt. Gov. Hugh Cross, president of the senate, named his committees today, and Speaker Elmer J. Schnackenberg of the house of representatives is expected to announce his tomorrow.

MEYER REBUKED FOR HIS 'DRY ROT' RAP AT COUNTIES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 25 [Special].—Sen. R. G. Crisenberry [R., Murphysboro] today issued a strong rebuke to Dr. Karl A. Meyer, president of the University of Illinois board of trustees, for the latter's opposition to a plan to set up a University of Southern Illinois at Carbondale.

The senator, who has introduced bills in the senate to transform the normal school now at Carbondale into a university, censured recent utterances by Dr. Meyer as being designed to arouse sectional feeling, and added that residents of southern Illinois resent the application of the term "dry rot area" to that section of the state.

"However desirable it might be for the young people of southern Illinois to get away from the 'dry rot' area of the state for their education, the plain facts in the case are that most of them do not and cannot do so," the senator said.

COUNCIL VOTES 1943 TAX LEVY OF 72.4 MILLIONS

The city council yesterday approved a 1943 city tax levy of $72,402,395, a decline of $506,044 from the $72,908,439 levy for 1942. The levy for 1941 was $73,115,465.

A $200,000 levy in 1942 for library buildings and sites was eliminated, and the total of levies for the six employé pension funds was reduced $494,450 from the 1942 level to $8,445,000. The levy for bond redemption and interest was increased $188,356 to $14,457,395.

Other levies remained unchanged from 1942. Included are: Corporate [operating], 37 million dollars; judgment tax, $1,250,000; city relief, 6 million dollars; library, $2,250,000; tuberculosis sanitarium, 3 million dollars.

Thieves Cut Holes in Ceiling of Store; Take 140 Watches

Jewelry valued at $5,000 was stolen from the Silvey Jewelry store, 19 North Genesee street, Waukegan, some time between 9 p. m. Saturday and 8 a. m. yesterday by thieves who evaded burglar alarms by cutting holes in the ceiling to enter the store. Most of the loss consisted of 140 watches taken from a safe after the handle and combination knob had been knocked off, Stanford Shaft, manager of the store, reported. Other valuable jewelry was in a larger safe, which the burglars were unable to open, he said.

New York, Jan. 25 [Special].—Theft of nearly 53,000 gasoline ration books, representing 4,404,480 single coupons good for 16,142,400 gallons of gasoline, from the Queens county office of the OPA in Long Island City over the week-end was disclosed today by police.

INDIANA G. O. P. CHIEFS REBUKED FOR WILLKIE BID

Invitation Termed Slap at State's Voters.

Fort Wayne, Ind., Jan. 25 [Special].—State Republican leaders responsible for inviting Wendell Willkie to address a joint session of the state assembly on Lincoln's birthday were censured in a resolution circulated today by the Allen County Republican Labor club.

The resolution, adopted Saturday by the club's executive committee, was sent by registered mail to Ralph Gates, state Republican chairman, and to members of the general assembly from Allen county, according to J. L. Sessler, president of the club.

Invitation Called "Plot."

The resolution termed the Willkie invitation a plot to make it appear that Republicans in the Indiana legislature have respect for Willkie's leadership despite repudiation of the 1940 Republican Presidential candidate by the rank and file of the party thruout the nation in the 1942 November elections.

We feel that the action of Chairman Gates was, and is, a slap at the voters who are responsible for the great Republican victory in Indiana," the resolution stated. Willkie was described as a man "who is not a Republican, and one whom the Democrats will have nothing to do with, a New Dealer, and a double crosser of those who tried to believe in his speeches."

Warn of 'Political Oratory.'

"We respectfully wish to suggest that if the legislature needs advice or a 'pep' session, it can find plenty of Republicans, both in and out of congress, capable of doing a good job," the resolution said. "We feel there is no lack of material in the Republican party and can see no reason whatever for securing Willkie to address them, as they will not know where the 'political oratory' starts or finishes."

TO FEED a family of four—herself, dad and two lively youngsters—now costs mother $14.94* a week.

Before the war—say, October 1941—she paid $12.84* for the same groceries, the same quantities.

So now she pays $2.10 a week more.

But of that sum, the increased cost of railroad freight transportation represents exactly TWO PENNIES.

In fact, if you were to go down mother's long weekly grocery list, item for item, and then note the increase in freight cost for each—so infinitesimal would it be that there just isn't any standard of measurement in American currency to gauge a comparison.

Take the three examples above—ham—butter—canned tomatoes. Good old American food staples. See how microscopic is the change in transportation costs to the East.

In fact, if the slight increase in freight rates were completely removed, you wouldn't save a cent. Can a grocer hand you back 1/20th of a cent?

But that is only half the story. To haul to New York City the wide variety of foods that grace the average American table, the railroads must cover over 50,000 miles. They bring it from everywhere—from California, Florida, Maine, the Middle West, every agricultural region.

And further, they are doing it at virtually pre-war rates despite the fact that—

—Railroads now pay 14 per cent higher wages than in 1941—equal to an increase of $400,000,000 a year in payrolls;

—Railroads pay 18 per cent more for materials—an increase exceeding $100,000,000 a year;

—Railroads have voluntarily reduced their revenue by over $300,000,000 a year by decreasing freight rates on fuel oil, gasoline, sugar, rubber, ammunition and many other commodities vitally needed by the public and the Government—and by reducing passenger fares to men in uniform traveling on furlough. This reduction in fares for members of the armed forces traveling on furlough alone amounts to about $70,000,000 a year.

Add everything up that the railroads are doing today for the Army, the Navy and the nation, and you find they are moving more freight than ever before at the lowest cost per mile in 25 years.

ARMY CALL FOR RESERVES HITS THREE BIG 10 SCHOOLS

ILLINI, BADGER FIVES EXPECT TO LOSE 3 EACH

We'll Continue, Says Maj. Griffith.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

The war's long anticipated blow at college athletics is about to fall. Presidents of Western conference universities and other educational institutions thruout the central states yesterday received communications from Maj. Gen. H. S. Aurand, commanding officer of the 6th service command, stating that "college students in the enlisted reserve corps will be called to active duty at the end of the first semester, term or quarter terminating after Dec. 31, 1942."

The schools which will be hit immediately by this order include Illinois, Wisconsin, and Michigan. Their semesters ended last week or are ending this week.

Notre Dame, Northwestern, Chicago, Iowa, Ohio State, Indiana, Purdue, and Minnesota are operating on schedules which brought terms to a conclusion before the Christmas holidays. Their current terms began early in January and will run until well into the spring, after the basketball season is over.

Loyola, De Paul Not Affected.

The current terms at Loyola and De Paul will end in March. Loyola's will close March 5 and De Paul's in the middle of that month.

Illinois, now engaged in a struggle with Indiana for the Big Ten lead, has three stars in the enlisted reserve. These are Ken Menke, forward; Art Mathisen, center, and Jack Smiley, guard. Two others are in branches not affected by the present order. These are Andy Phillip, who is engaged in officers training for the marines and Gene Vance, who is in the advanced R. O. T. C. The latter branch was specifically exempted from the call to active duty in the notice sent out by Maj. Gen. Aurand.

Wisconsin stands to lose two centers and a guard—Ed Mills, Ray Patterson, and Bobby Clark. The Michigan basketball squad includes two members of the enlisted reserve—Don Lund, a guard, and Harold Anderson, a forward.

Here's Order from Washington.

In communicating the order to the various schools, Maj. Gen. Aurand released a telegram which he had received from Maj. Gen. J. A. Ulio, adjutant general in Washington. This telegram read:

"College students in the enlisted reserve corps will be called to active duty at the end of the first semester, term or quarter terminating after Dec. 31, 1942, except as follows: All medical and pre-medical students, including dental and veterinary; approved engineering course students who are classed as sophomores, juniors or seniors; advanced R. O. T. C. unit students; all sophomores in essentially military colleges, as classified by the war department; students in electronic groups and aviation cadets."

We'll Continue—Griffith.

Maj. John L. Griffith, athletic commissioner of the Western conference, has long been expecting this order.

"It was no surprise to the Western conference," Maj. Griffith said last night. "More than 50,000 of the Big Ten alumni and undergraduates already are fighting for their country and the present students are happy to do the same.

"Athletes who were starring for their schools no later than a year ago now are in uniform and they will continue to be called until the war is won. It should be remembered, however, that only a small percentage of the total number of athletes is being called. Therefore, all sports will be continued on the present basis until such time as the government orders differently."

The greater number of Northwestern students training for duty are enlisted in the naval R. O. T. C. and

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 25 [Special].—Manager Jimmy Dykes of the Chicago White Sox was sufficiently recovered today from his recent gall bladder operation at Cedars of Lebanon hospital to receive a few callers and have his picture taken.

He is scheduled to remain in the hospital another week or 10 days, then will recuperate here or in the desert until he goes to French Lick Springs, Ind., in mid-March where the Sox will do their spring training.

Dykes was not worried about the necessity for training in the north this spring.

GOLDEN GLOVES TOURNAMENT

MINNESOTA FIVE TOPS WILDCATS IN HARD BATTLE

Teams Are Tied, 20-20, After First Half.

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 25 [Special].—Minnesota spotted the Northwestern basketball team a 15 to 6 lead in the opening half, then rallied to tie at 20-all as the half ended and to finally defeat the Wildcats, 47 to 46, before 6,400 in the fieldhouse tonight. The game was one of the most thrilling in the history of Minnesota basketball.

The teams traded baskets early in the contest, but the Wildcats went ahead when Nick Vodick dropped in three baskets and a free throw in three minutes. Minnesota then started whittling at the visitors' lead and finally went ahead, 18 to 17, on Lou Brewster's goal. The halftime tie was the fourth during that period.

Gophers Take Charge.

The lead changed three times in the second half before the Gophers went ahead, 32 to 28. But again Northwestern started hitting and moved into a 39 to 35 and then 43 to 40 advantage. Here Minnesota took charge and built up a 47 to 44 lead. Bobby Jake cut that margin to a point and then, with four seconds left, Bud Hasse tried a long shot, which rolled around inside the hoop, then dropped out.

Bill Lind topped the Minnesota scorers, with 11 points. Eight out of nine Gophers broke into the scoring column. Vodick, Jake, and Otto Graham made all but two of Northwestern's points, Vodick getting 16 and Jake and Graham 14 each. Lineup:

NOTRE DAME WINS, 45-34

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 25 [Special].—Notre Dame's basketball team, after playing on nip-and-tuck terms with Butler for three-quarters of the contest, rallied in the final minutes tonight to deal the Bulldogs their sixth straight setback, 45 to 34, tonight. Notre Dame led at the half, 21 to 7.

After the lead had exchanged hands 15 times, little Frank Curran, substitute guard, poured in all his seven points during the late Notre Dame rally to help the Irish clinch the contest. Curran broke up a 31-all deadlock with a free throw, and after a basket each by Bob Rensberger and Charles Butler, he flipped in a couple of one-handed shots that took the heart out of Butler's attack.

The St. Louis team moved ahead with five minutes of the second half gone, 26 to 23, on field goals by Harry Sortal, Dick Wilcutt, and Herb Van Deven and Sortal's free throw. Loyola surged back, however, and by the middle of the half led, 32 to 28.

GREAT LAKES TO MEET WISCONSIN QUINTET TONIGHT

Sailors to Go After 18th Victory in 20 Games.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The Great Lakes basketball team, moving steadily toward a record that may surpass last year's splendid achievement, meets Wisconsin tonight on its home court. The game with the Badgers, played before the usual capacity crowd of 5,000 sailors, is annual open house for the press and radio.

Great Lakes defeated Chicago last night for its 17th victory in 19 games. Wisconsin will be No. 18 according to the pessimistic advance notices from Madison. The Badgers have just finished semester examinations with a score of 3 to 2, having lost three reserves at the scholastic barriers and gained two players who heretofore had failed to clear this hurdle.

Three Players Lost.

Coach Bud Foster yesterday announced the loss of Ed Mills, lanky sophomore center who frequently relieved Ray Patterson; Bob Clarke, a guard, and Bob Farrell, a forward. In addition, Harry Stoll, reserve center, has quit the squad. The players becoming eligible are Bill Loyshin and Al Ryser, guards.

The Badger starting five is intact, however, and Foster will open the game tonight with Johnny Kotz and Bobby Sullivan, forwards; Patterson, center, and Fred Rehm and Walt Lauterbach, guards. Kotz has gradually regained his accuracy at the basket and if for no other reason, the Badgers must be considered dangerous to Great Lakes' plans. It must not be forgotten that Wisconsin scored 67 points against Northwestern this season and that the Wildcats later whipped Great Lakes. Illinois was the other quintet to lick the Bluejackets.

Rehm Goes to Center.

The loss of Mills will send Rehm to center when Patterson is taken from the lineup. Bob Krueger then will replace Rehm at guard. Other members of Wisconsin traveling squad are Ed Downs, Ed Falls, and Exner Menzel, forwards; Gil Hertz, center, and Bob Johnson, guard.

Tonight's game will start at 7:30 o'clock. The Sailors' most recent major achievement was defeat of the previously unbeaten Creighton team, 63 to 55, last Saturday night in the Stadium.

Lt. Paul Hinkle, Great Lakes coach, will continue his strategy of using two teams. It is believed he will start the same players who opened against Creighton and relieve them with a team that has even greater speed. This team also includes four of the Bluejackets' six leading scorers. Eddie Riska, Bob Davies, and Forrest Anderson, of this second group, handle the ball with amazing accuracy at top speed.

Lineups tonight follow:

MAROONS ROUTED, 64-35.

Great Lakes used three complete teams and 17 players in all last night in routing the University of Chicago basketball team, 64 to 35, for the Sailors' third victory in five games over a Western conference representative. It was the seventh triumph in a row for Great Lakes, which led at the half, 37 to 17. A crowd of 5,000 navy recruits watched the Maroons lose their 31st consecutive game.

Takes New Post

CLARK SHAUGHNESSY.

Shaughnessy Is Appointed Coach at Pitt

Pittsburgh, Pa., Jan. 25 (AP).—The board of trustees of the University of Pittsburgh, by unanimous vote, tonight authorized the appointment of Clark D. Shaughnessy as head football coach at Pitt with the rank of full professor. He will take over the position next Monday.

Shaughnessy earlier in the day had announced his resignation as coach at the University of Maryland to accept the post here. A veteran of 29 years of college coaching at Tulane, Loyola of New Orleans, Chicago, Stanford and Maryland, he has been one of the leading exponents of the "T" formation.

Shaughnessy becomes the 10th head coach of the Panthers since Pitt started football in 1904. He is the first hongraduate to hold the position since Glenn S. (Pop) Warner, who coached here from 1915 thru 1923. Dr. John Bain (Jock) Sutherland took over after Warner and carried on until 1938.

The new coach succeeds Charley Bowser, who followed Sutherland as director of the Panthers. Bowser's contract expires March 15 and he expects to be in the navy by then.

No Change in Attitude.

Jimmy Hagan, athletic director at Pitt, disclosed that he had suggested hiring Shaughnessy after the athletic board of control some time ago expressed a desire to get the best coach possible to succeed Bowser. Hagan reiterated that the hiring of such a big name coach does not mean Pitt intends to modify its simon pure amateur practices in football.

Sutherland resigned as coach four years ago, saying he felt Pitt's deemphasizing program was so severe he did not believe adequate material would be available to give its teams an even chance against scheduled opponents.

Shaughnessy, who is expected to get between $10,000 and $12,500 a year, said in a visit here over the weekend he expected no change in Pitt's athletic policy.

WHAT ABOUT FORTMANN?

Chicago associates and friends of Clark Shaughnessy were surprised last night to learn the former Maroon and Stanford coach had moved from the University of Maryland to Pittsburgh as football coach.

At the same time they wondered about the status of Danny Fortmann, co-captain of the 1942 Chicago Bears, who was to have been line coach under Shaughnessy at Maryland next fall. Fortmann, thru the efforts of Shaughnessy, was made an intern in the University of Maryland hospital in Baltimore. He was to retain this post while helping out in football.

Surprise to Halas.

Walter Halas, brother of Lt. Comm. George Halas, and freshman coach and scout for Shaughnessy last year, expressed surprise that Clark had made the change.

"He had a sweet setup at Maryland," said Walter. "Athletic director, football coach, and head of the physical education department."

Walter, who is in Chicago, has been awaiting word from Maryland on his status.

Iowa City, Ia., Jan. 25 [Special].—Indiana university's basketball team tonight claimed technical leadership of the Western conference race by administering a 64 to 43 defeat to Iowa for the Hoosiers' fifth straight Big Ten victory. Illinois, which did not play tonight, has won four straight in the conference.

The Hoosiers, who beat Iowa on Saturday, 71 to 55, to set a conference scoring mark, held a 29 to 18 advantage at the half. The Hawkeyes led only once in the first period at 15 to 14.

The rough and tumble contest was marred by 27 personal fouls, 15 of them called against Iowa. Two players, both Hawkeyes, left the game on fouls, and coaches were forced to prevent a battle as the two squads left the floor at the intermission.

Hamilton Leads Scoring.

Ralph Hamilton of Indiana led the scoring with 21 points. Tommy Chapman, Iowa forward, scored 14 points.

The score was tied three times in the first period, the last at 12 all. After Ward Williams of Indiana had scored, Ben Trickey and Chapman combined for three points, giving the Iowans their only lead. With Hamilton pacing the attack the Hoosiers then swept into a 21 to 15 lead which they continued to lengthen.

Hamilton again was the driving power at the start of the second half. In four minutes he accounted for eight points, and set up a basket for a team mate.

For a time the Hoosiers deliberately slowed the game to protect their margin, but a sudden outburst by Iowa which closed the gap to only nine points, made the Hoosiers open up. Lineups:

PURDUE, 56; OHIO STATE, 38

Lafayette, Ind., Jan. 25 [Special].—An aroused Purdue quintet, still smarting from Saturday night's upset by Ohio State, evened matters with the Buckeyes tonight with a convincing 56 to 38 triumph. The Boilermakers bounced up to .600 in the Big Ten standing with three victories and two losses, while the Buckeyes dropped to .400 with two victories and three defeats.

The Boilermakers, displaying a brilliant passing game that bewildered the Ohio State defense, showed an almost complete reversal of form as they raced to a 38 to 17 lead at the half. Brilliant under-basket shooting by Duffy Friend, and the neat passing of Max Biggs, Capt. Al Menke, Floyd Lawson, and Ed Ehlers, were the big factors in the first half scoring drive. Friend racked up eight field goals and three free throws in the first 20 minutes.

HAMILL CROWDS BENTLEYS FOR SCORING HONORS

He's Short on Assists, but Leads with 21 Goals.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Those personable kids from Saskatchewan, Doug and Max Bentley, continue to pace the Blackhawk point makers in this week's National league individual point scoring list, but they have a rival for local fame in Red Hamill, who tops them both in actual goals despite his inability to give his teammates much help in the matter of assists.

Max Bentley, baby of the Bentley clan, who scored two goals in Sunday night's 4 to 3 victory over the league leading Boston Bruins, is the high point scorer on the Hawks with 37-15 goals and 22 assists—Doug is a point behind Max with 36 points—18 goals and 18 assists.

Hamill Third High in Goals.

Hamill, who has the reputation of being pretty much of a loner going up to the cage, is the third high man in the league on the payoff commodity—actual goals—with a total of 21. He is topped only by Lorne Carr and Syl Apps of the Toronto Maple Leafs. However, Carr is tied with Bill Cowley of Boston for the league point lead with 23 goals and 23 assists, and Apps is fifth with 23 goals and 17 assists, whereas Hamill's inability to catch on to the one-for-all and all-for-one idea finds him with only 8 assists to go with his handsome total of 21 goals, and has him down to 18th.

Macks Send 20 Players to War, Sox 19

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The White Sox finally have had to surrender their No. 1 spot in the American league service list. A Sox rookie, Gene Stack, was the first big leaguer to be called by the army and from then on the Chicago club set the pace, reaching a total of 19 players in Uncle Sam's uniforms. But a revised list, announced yesterday, showed the Athletics have taken first place with 20 men. Stack died last year after pitching a ball game for Camp Custer.

However, the Sox still have a 100 per cent grip on one other honor. So far as Earl Hilligan, the league's keeper of statistics has been able to discover, the Chicago club is the lone league member with a representative in the marines—Lt. Ted Amar Lyons. Of the grand total of 124 in service, 64 are in the army, 55 in the navy, two in Canadian air forces, and two are uncertified.

Baseball's advisory council, made up of Commissioner K. M. Landis, President Will Harridge of the American league, and President Ford Frick of the National league, continued to wait yesterday for Washington's interpretation of the wage freeze law as it pertains to baseball. All that is known thus far is that the Washington authorities requested all sixteen clubs to submit their 1942 salary lists.

Neither the National nor American leagues prepared a 1943 baseball movie, but the Cubs announce they are ready to step into the field with their own production entitled "Chicago Cubs Play Ball." The picture, which runs 32 minutes, was filmed last summer at Wrigley field. Bookings can be made thru the Howard Motion Picture Service, 7029 North Clark street.

DE PAUL TO MEET CAMP GRANT IN STADIUM FEB. 6

Camp Grant's basketball team, winner of 17 of 18 games, will meet De Paul in the Stadium Feb. 6, the game to replace a contest between the Blue Demons and Butler scheduled next Monday at De Paul. Butler requested a release because its record this season was not up to the standard set by other Bulldog quintets.

Reasoner, Joyce Draw in 8 Round Bout at Marigold

Al Reasoner, Hines, Ill., lightweight, and Jimmy Joyce of Gary, Ind., boxed to a draw in an eight round bout in Marigold Gardens last night. The decision was unpopular since Reasoner appeared to be in command thruout. Reasoner weighed 137½ pounds, seven and one-half more than Joyce.

A crowd of 1,033 paid a gross gate of $1,512.

Verne Patterson, former Chicagoland Golden Gloves welterweight champion, knocked out Mike Sopko of Indiana Harbor in the second round of a scheduled eight round bout. Four round matches were won by young Ted Lewis, loop bellboy; Louis Jackson, south side, and Bill Jordan, also of the south side. Lewis beat Al Nedoff, Gary lightweight; Jackson conquered Tony Capone, Melrose Park welterweight, and Jordan defeated Albert Adams, 1942 city Golden Gloves featherweight winner.

The Marshall High school juniors, playing at home, had a lot more than their usual amount of trouble in gaining their 71st straight basketball victory yesterday, but they managed to keep their string unbroken with a 41 to 38 triumph over Wells. It was the first defeat of the season for Wells and left Marshall in sole possession of first place in the west section of the City league.

Thruout the first half, prospects for an upset and the first break in the Marshall four season victory string appeared good, the defending city junior champions trailing, 24 to 22, at the intermission. However, Marshall pulled ahead in the last half, paced by Morrie Kaplan, who scored 18 points.

Crane Rolls Up Score.

The Crane Tech seniors rolled up the highest score made in their division this season when they beat Medill, 94 to 18, in a City league west section basketball game at Crane yesterday. It was Crane's fourth straight victory and put the Techmen in a tie with Kelvyn Park for first place. The winners made 42 field goals and both Red Weber and Babe Kowalewski outscored the entire Medill team, getting 20 and 19 points respectively. It was the final prep game for Kowalewski and Abe Troop, another Crane regular.

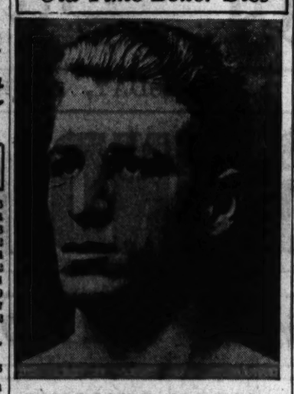
Old Time Boxer Dies



Joe Choynski, old time heavyweight fighter who died Sunday, shown when he was at the top of his form. He fought from 1884 to 1904.

Cincinnati, O., Jan. 25 (AP).—Joe Choynski, the California terror whose vinegar hardened hands once carried his 162 pounds to a 20 round draw with 230 pound Jim Jeffries, died yesterday, one of the last great figures of the bare knuckle era of fistiana. He was 74 years old.

He had been in ill health, but as recently as four years ago was in good condition as he instructed young hopefuls in boxing at the Cincinnati club.

Army's Call Affects Three Big 10 Schools

thus are not affected by yesterday's order. Athletic Director Kenneth L. [Tug] Wilson stated that Northwestern was the first school in this part of the country to establish a naval unit. This activity was organized in 1926.

There was some question last night as to the interpretation of the order with regard to semesters which started since Jan. 1.

Order Is Clear to Notre Dame.

The Rev. John Cavanaugh, C. S. C., vice president of the University of Notre Dame and chairman of the athletic board, stated that in the opinion of Notre Dame officials the order is clear. He believed that students would not be called before the current term ends in May. It began in January, but the previous term ended before the Christmas holidays.

Immediately after going on active duty the college men will be put thru 13 weeks of basic training and then will be eligible for assignment to units under the army's specialized training program.

MEMBERS PITCH IN—WESTGATE VALLEY ALL SET

35 Organize a Wartime Staff for Club.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The help problem, one of the more cantankerous dilemmas facing golf clubs during the 1943 season, holds no fears for at least one club in the Chicago district. That would be the Westgate Valley Country club, located at 127th street and Ridgeland avenue, and since 1929 one of the most lively daily fee organization in this area.

No, Westgate has not been fortunate in securing a company of jewels at course maintenance or clubhouse service. But it is lucky in having a number of regular players who have pledged themselves to pitch in and do anything and everything around the club for the duration. So, you needn't be surprised, on visiting Westgate next summer, to find President Tom Crane starting off foursomes, Jim Bourke waiting on table, or Ed McCormack operating a mower.

Bourke Leads Volunteers.

Tom Walsh, manager and professional of the club since its foundation, revealed yesterday that the cooperative help plan originated during the club's annual meeting in December. The regulars at Westgate knew the job before Walsh. He had lost his assistant, Chuck Blasgen, to the navy, and his superintendent, Ed Hassenfang, to the army. And there was little prospect of obtaining replacements.

Thirty-five of the regulars, led by Bourke, thereupon volunteered their services for the 1943 season. They'll skip their own starting times whenever Walsh needs help, working in the clubhouse, on the course, or in the pro shop. The volunteer force, and their regular everyday occupations, follow:

James Bourke, draftsman; Ken Millikan, traffic manager; John Clark, union secretary; Ed Rehfuss, physical instructor; John Siebes, carpenter; Lou Figari, trainer; Art Ward, insurance; Fred Meisel, meat salesman; Mike Lavin, insurance; Bill Durkin, cigars; Steve Golden, restaurant; Thomas W. Crane, attorney; B. L. Leake, engineer; W. D. Works, architect; Fred Siemsen, retired farmer; John Plummer, sales manager; A. H. Parks, electrical engineer; W. J. Riley, printer; Arch Bell, coal salesman; Stanley Hayes, printer; Bob Oehmen, salesman; Michael Mulcahy, printer; Ed Saltus, salesman; John O'Malley, insurance; Joseph Martin, accountant; Ed McCormack, salesman; Ed McCarthy, insurance, and Mike Rusnak, trucking.

Pete's a Farmer, Too.

Walsh's own direct working staff this year will consist of Pete Engelhardt and 68 year old Frank Baker, who will be responsible for the maintenance of the course. Pete, who has a son at Pearl Harbor, is doing one of the most unusual war jobs in the Chicago district. In addition to working on the course from 8 to 10 hours a day, he also finds time to run a farm in the vicinity of the club.

Tom, who is a past national president of the P. G. A., feels that the daily fee courses can make a direct contribution to the game in wartime. Such courses as Oak Hills, Cog-Hill, Big Run, Evergreen, Hickory Hills, Big Oaks, Techny Fields, Glenbard, Mission Hills, York, and Hillside all plan to operate in the coming season.

These clubs are currently discussing a plan whereby they can extend playing privileges to service men thru the U. S. O. centers.

COUNTY BUDGET OF $18,647,482 HANDED TO BOARD

Sum Is $800,000 Beyond Income Estimate.

BY WILLIAM SHINNICK.

A tentative budget of $18,647,482, the smallest since 1937, was adopted yesterday by the finance committee of the Cook county board. It will be taken up for consideration by the board as a whole today.

The final figure as recommended is 3 million dollars under the appropriations for 1942. One of its outstandings features is that it lops 420 employés from the county pay rolls and makes a flat 10 per cent cut in the sum set up a year ago for the employment of extra help. Of the cut in the number of workers the judges of the Circuit court accounted for 215 and the county board for 205.

$800,000 Over Revenue.

Even with this showing the budget is nearly $800,000 above the estimate of revenues, $17,895,000, made last November by County Controler Michael J. Flynn. It was reported that Clayton F. Smith, board president, and Maurice F. Kavanagh, finance chairman, who sponsored the economy program, felt that they could get 6 million dollars this year from delinquent tax collections.

This is a million and a half over the Flynn estimate. Last year, when the prospective revenues seemed smaller than the spending, it was assumed back taxes would be good for 7 millions. Less than 5 millions was actually collected.

One of the results was that the county deficit, represented by unpaid bills, leaped to more than five millions. It was this condition that has compelled the county commissioners to make what they regard as important slashes in spending.

Called Too Optimistic.

The Civic federation, which watches and studies expenditures, has sent to the board a letter asserting that the $17,898,000 is too optimistic a guess on income; and that even the back tax collection estimate of Flynn is unwarranted. The letter held that 18 millions would be more than county corporate income.

Most of the county office heads asked about the same appropriations this year as last. In some cases their cuts from the finance committee were severe. The county assessor, who must make a quadrennial assessment this year, asked for $959,649 and was held at $826,697, and the county treasurer was allowed $1,212,766 instead of $1,285,766. Finance committee members said that the reductions ran between 7 and 9 per cent on all spending in offices under their supervision.

THE WORLD'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER

Commerce

TUESDAY, JANUARY 26, 1943.  19

INVESTOR ISSUES LEAD STOCKS TO 16 MONTH PEAK

Big Gains Recorded in Broad Trade.

New York, Jan. 25 (AP).—"Blue chip" investment issues continued their recovery in today's stock market, many registering new highs for 15 months or longer with gains of fractions to 2 or more points.

Some irregularity prevailed at the start in slow dealings. Demand for dividend payers soon appeared, and both prices and volume rose in the final hour. Altho many issues failed to make the grade, most favorites closed near best levels of the day.

Brokers were pleased with the fact that prime stocks rather than the recent lively "penny" issues were the principal movers. Persistently good war news and the pressure of idle investment funds received main credit for the upswing.

Index Sets New Peak.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up 0.4 to 43.5, a peak since Sept. 24, 1941. Transfers totaled 803,790 shares against 883,410 last Friday.

The market was broad again, 861 individual issues changing hands. Of these 459 were up, 169 down, and 233 unchanged.

Rails just about held even, notwithstanding the Texas and Pacific preliminary statement showing a big 1942 profit gain.

Among the new highs were Standard Oil [N. J.], General Motors, United States Rubber common and preferred, J. I. Case, Deere, Oliver Farm, American Can, Dow Chemical, Allied Chemical, Zenith Radio, and Pepsi-Cola. Du Pont jumped 3⅛ and American Telephone 2⅝.

BOND ADVANCE SLOWS.

New York, Jan. 25 (AP).—The bond market had many firm spots among rails and specialties today but the brisk forward move of last week slowed when profit taking appeared in some issues.

It was a busy session with sales of $15,332,000 against Friday's $14,079,900. All major groups in the Associated Press averages held close to Saturday's levels except the foreign issues, which advanced to a new 1942-'43 high at 57.1, up 0.4.

Announcement at Washington an interstate commerce commission examiner had recommended a small increase in certain fares of the Hudson & Manhattan railroad brought heavy buying in that road's refunding 5s and income 5s which ended 3½ and 2 points higher, respectively.

CHICAGO GAINS LARGE.

Chicago Stock exchange prices rose yesterday, and 16 issues reached new 1942-'43 highs. Larger gains made in reaching new peaks were by Abbott Laboratories, 1½; Deere & Co., 1¼; Perfect Circle, 2½, and Zenith Radio, 1¼. Turnover was 29,000 shares.

RATION BANKING OPENS TOMORROW THRUOUT NATION

Ration banking, the system of clearing coupons and other rationing paper thru the banks in the same manner as checks, will start officially tomorrow in Chicago and thruout the nation. The program utilizes the trained personnel and equipment of commercial banks to keep records, and count and transfer ration stamps and coupons—work formerly done by local rationing boards. The banks are paid a fee to cover expenses.

Michael F. Mulcahy, Chicago metropolitan area OPA director, said the following businesses are required to open bank ration accounts: coffee roasters, primary distributors of sugar, wholesalers of coffee and sugar, retail food dealers who own more than one store or who had gross food sales of $5,000 or more in December, 1942; licensed gasoline distributors, and intermediate gasoline distributors [not retailers].

Inland's Indiana Harbor Plant Receives 'E' Flag

The first of 13,000 Indiana Harbor employés of the Inland Steel company were given lapel buttons for excellence in war production yesterday as the plant itself was awarded the army-navy "E" pennant. Participating in the ceremony were company officials and Col. F. U. McCoskrie of the army and Capt. Richard F. Whithead of the navy. Receiving the buttons on behalf of the other employés were four men, plant veterans since 1902, and one woman.

LACK OF INSTRUCTION FORMS DELAYS MAILING OF INCOME TAX BLANKS

A shortage of printed instructions to accompany income tax form 1040 explains the inability of taxpayers to obtain copies of this form, Carter H. Harrison, collector of internal revenue in Chicago, said yesterday. As rapidly as the 1040 forms and instructions are received, they are sent thru the mails to last year's income tax payers.

When this mailing is completed, in about 10 days, Harrison said, new taxpayers will be able to obtain copies at the collector's office in the United States courthouse or at one of the branch offices being established this year for the first time. Ample supplies are on hand of the simplified return 1040A and of corporation and partnership return forms, Harrison added.

Says SEC May Liquidate Firm If Not Efficient

New York, Jan. 25 (AP).—Tremendous post-war jobs for private enterprise and private capital were predicted today by Ganson Purcell, chairman of the securities and exchange commission, and Sumner H. Slichter, economist.

Speaking before the National Association of Investment Companies, Purcell suggested solutions were in store for two "weak spots" in the field covered by such organizations:

"The problem of small companies which could not operate efficiently, and that of concerns whose management continued in control thru holdings of common stock for which no asset value remained.

Suggests Liquidation.

Purcell suggested the SEC might step in and take hold of such ventures, merging several of the former type if desired by security holders, or perhaps liquidating them.

Slichter, a Harvard university professor, foresaw after the war a "deferred demand economy" in which a high level of production and employment "will not be too hard to maintain." This demand, for goods not now available, he estimated would reach $10,000,000,000 by midsummer of this year and possibly $25,000,000,000 a year later.

Risk Takers Important.

In order to realize the greatest possibilities of the postwar period, Slichter told the investment men, "risk takers"—the men who start new businesses and make jobs—must be encouraged.

"Risk takers in our economy possess a special importance since they are job givers," Slichter said. "It is from the risk taker that the rest of us derive our security. He is our most important natural resource of all."

ABNORMAL DROP IN HOG SUPPLIES SENDS PRICES UP

Abnormally small supplies of hogs for a Monday in January sent the market at the Chicago stockyards up 10 to 20 cents a hundredweight yesterday.

Cold storage holdings of all meats on Jan. 1 totaled 736,557,000 pounds, exclusive of lard, not exclusive of pork as was reported in THE TRIBUNE Sunday.

[All prices are in dollars per 100 pounds].

Igoe Approves Payments on Surface Lines Bonds

Federal District Judge Michael L. Igoe yesterday authorized trustees of the Chicago Railways, Chicago City Railway, and Calumet and South Chicago Railway companies to make a semi-annual interest payment of $1,855,585 on first mortgage bonds Feb. 1. This was the first time in years of receivership litigation that the distribution was approved in advance of the due date.

TREASURY TO REDEEM 454 MILLION OF BONDS AND EXCHANGE OTHERS

Washington, D. C., Jan. 25 (AP).—The treasury announced today it would call in 454 million dollars of its outstanding 3¾ per cent treasury bonds of 1943-'47 on June 15 and pay them off in cash. Formal notice of redemption will be issued just prior to Feb. 15.

The treasury also announced that on and after Feb. 1, holders of both series of the registered 2½ per cent bonds of 1962-'67 will be permitted to exchange them for coupon bonds. Two billion 110 millions are outstanding. The treasury said the exchange was arranged because most bondholders prefer coupon bonds.

Grains Higher as Rye Rises to Season's Peak

Rye futures closed with gains of 2⅛ to 2¼ cents a bushel on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday. July and September deliveries reached new seasonal highs and the May contract equaled its year's top price. Other grains were firm and finished mostly fractionally higher. May and July oats advanced to seasonal peaks.

Brokers with eastern connections and commission firms were active buyers of rye futures after a quiet opening. Short covering was a factor in the wide advance.

Rye Relatively Cheap.

The heavy buying of rye futures was attributed by some traders to the grain's relative cheapness. Other brokers believed the market was affected by allied successes in Russia and North Africa, which indicated lend-lease movement of rye into export channels sooner than expected.

Final wheat prices were ¼ to ½ cent a bushel higher, and corn was unchanged to ⅛ cent up. Oats advanced ⅜ to ½ cent. Soy beans were ⅛ cent higher to ¼ cent lower in a nominal market.

Chicago grain trade representatives who attended the conference with the office of price administration in Washington, D. C., on corn ceiling adjustments said that the OPA received the suggestions of the trade regarding revisions favorably.

PERSONAL INCOME TAX—4.

The taxpayer who reports on the regular form, 1040, will note that Item 1 is a line on which he will show the total amount received in 1942 as salaries and other compensation for personal services, followed by the amount of his deductible expenses. Only the net figure is carried forward to be added to other taxable income.

It should be noted particularly that the taxpayer is required to attach to his return an itemized account of the expenses claimed as deductions from salary and other compensation. This means that he must be prepared to defend the propriety of the deductions if called upto to do so by the bureau of internal revenue.

Broadly speaking, personal expenses are not deductible, while other "necessary" expenses are. The personal exemptions of $500 for single persons and $1,200 for married persons or heads of families, plus additional credit for dependents, are designed to allow every one a tax-free minimum for such essentials as food, clothing, shelter, recreation, ordinary medical care, education, and other personal expenses. Since these things are covered by the personal exemption, no additional deduction can be taken for them.

Fortunately, the treasury department has made definite rulings on just about every common type of deductible expense.

Traveling expenses in connection with one's employment or business are deductible, including transportation, meals, and lodging, but the cost of having shirts laundered, clothes pressed, or shoes shined, and similar expenses incurred whether a person travels or not, are not deductible. Travel expense deductions must be supported, if the commissioner of internal revenue requests it, by a statement showing the nature of the business, the number of days away from home, expense incident to meals and lodging, and the amount of other expense.

Salesmen who entertain customers in order to obtain business may deduct the cost of this entertainment, but an officer or employé whose contract does not specifically require him to do this sort of entertaining is not entitled to the deduction. The amount of any reimbursement of expense, or an expense allowance, must be reported as compensation.

A person on a roving commission and maintaining no permanent home is not entitled to deduct the cost of meals and lodging while traveling.

Commuters' fares and street car or bus fares for transportation to and from work are not deductible, nor are amounts spent in seeking a job or in traveling to the location of a new job. The fee paid to an employment agency for a job is deductible.

Membership fees in a labor union, or in an organization which renders a "protective service" to its members, are allowable deductions.

[Wednesday's article will discuss allowable expense deductions for investors, and allowance for uniforms, tools and instruments.]

Grocers Told: Must Use All Kinds of Labor

William H. Spencer.

William H. Spencer, Chicago regional director of the war man power commission, told members of the National-American Wholesale Grocers' association in the Drake hotel yesterday that employment of women, minority groups, the handicapped and those in young and old age groups was the only way employers will be able to meet the man power shortage in 1943. The three day meeting, which opened yesterday, was expected to attract 1,000 grocery wholesalers.

"By the end of 1943, three or four million additional men between the ages of 18 and 38 will have been withdrawn from civilian life for the armed forces, while 2½ to 3 million more workers will be needed for war industries," Spencer said. "To replace these men, employers will have to hire women and must break down their prejudices in the matter of hiring Jews, Negroes, aliens, and members of other minorities.

Must Meet Man Power Needs.

"Unless employers make a conscientious effort to meet man power needs by full utilization of minorities, women, handicapped persons and older persons, they cannot justifiably complain of a labor shortage."

Spencer asserted that every employer engaged in a less essential activity was duty bound to take steps necessary to release his able bodied men immediately for the army and navy, or war industries.

Other speakers on yesterday's program included August E. Glister of St. Louis, Mo., president of the association; Dr. Walter F. Crowder, chief of the business structure and operations unit, bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, and Arthur D. Whiteside, president of Dun & Bradstreet, Inc.

Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard is scheduled to address the meeting tomorrow. Most of today's session will be given to discussions of food price control and rationing by several office of price administration officials.

Announces Committee Personnel.

Meanwhile, Spencer announced the personnel of the Chicago area WMC management-labor committee, created to help organize the labor market and solve man power problems in the area.

Representing management are W. Homer Hartz, president of the Morden Frog and Crossing works; Charles S. Craigmile, executive vice president, Belden Manufacturing company; David Mayer, president, Maurice L. Rothschild, and George Williamson, president, Williamson Candy company.

Labor representatives are Gunnar Hallstrom, business manager, Pattern Makers' union [AFL]; Charles Sand, secretary, Carpenters' district council of Chicago [AFL]; Sam Sponseller, chairman, Packinghouse Workers Organizing committee [CIO], and Ernest De Maio, international vice president, United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers [CIO].

PLANT U. S. TOOK RETURNED WITH $889,744 FOR USE

Boston, Mass., Jan. 25 (AP).—The S. A. Woods Machine company plant in South Boston which was seized by the government last August after the management failed to settle labor difficulties, was returned to its owners today and Federal Judge Francis J. W. Ford awarded them $889,744 as compensation for use of the buildings, machinery, and equipment.

The company has been given new contracts to continue the manufacture of materials for the army. The plant has been operating under direction of the army ordnance department. A Woods plant in Natick, Mass., also taken over, was returned.

'BIG FIVE' UNIONS SUBMIT FORMAL PAY DEMANDS

Step in Adjustment Under Rail Act.

Chief operating officers of nearly 200 railroads thruout the country were put on formal notice yesterday that their engineers, firemen, conductors, trainmen, and switchmen demand a 30 per cent wage increase—a minimum raise of $3 a day.

About 700 chairmen of general and grievance committees of the "Big Five" brotherhoods filed the demands, formulated at a meeting in Chicago last month and since ratified by referendum among the 350,000 brotherhood members.

Step in Adjustment.

Their action, taken simultaneously under an advance agreement, was a step in the machinery for adjusting disputes undor the railway labor act, which gives the carriers 10 days to arrange direct negotiations and 30 days from the filing of demands to begin negotiations with the unions.

Demands of the 350,000 brotherhood members would, if met, add 275 or 300 million dollars to the carriers' annual wage bill, it was estimated. Demands of 15 nonoperating railway unions involving wage increases of 450 millions annually are also going thru the machinery of the railway labor act, designed to prevent strikes. The nonoperating unions are expected to ask appointment of a federal emergency board to hear their case.

Railroads Have Lever.

Rail management's formal arguments against granting the increases are expected to include the efforts of various governmental agencies to rescind last year's increase in passenger and freight rates.

Atty. Gen. Francis Biddle, meanwhile, announced a formal ruling that the railway labor act forbids maintenance of membership as well as the closed shop in a rail labor contract. His opinion, requested by the national [railway] mediation board, eliminates the union security issue from the dispute between carriers and the nonoperating unions, leaving wages as the single issue.

FOOD INDUSTRY SETS UP CHICAGO SHORTAGE GROUP

Organization of a food industry committee to deal with any shortages that may develop in the Chicago area was announced yesterday by Homer B. Kinzie, area supervisor of the food distribution administration and chairman of the committee. Final details will be completed today at a meeting in the Hotel La Salle.

The committee, which has volunteered its services, represents all branches of the food industry. Its establishment is part of a national program ordered by Food Administrator Claude R. Wickard to correct and anticipate any shortages caused by wartime maldistribution.

The Chicago area group will handle all reports of shortages and dislocations in Cook, Lake, Du Page, and Will counties. Reports should be directed to the committee thru Kinzie's office at 5 South Wabash avenue.

Fruit Firm Grows Rope Crop; Tries Other East Indies Plants

United Fruit company's crop experiments in Central America will yield tangible results for the United States this year in the form of a harvest of 20,000 acres of abaca, which will go into rope of the manila type used on naval craft, helping to ease the shortage of far eastern hemp, the company reported yesterday.

The 1943 abaca crop will be the first ever planted or harvested commercially in Central America, the company said. The crop was planted recently, mostly in Panama.

Expirements with Crops.

The company is engaged in an extensive program of experimentation with several tropical crops normally grown mainly in Malaya, the Netherlands East Indies and other far eastern areas now in Japanese hands.

The program is aimed at developing new tropical crops in Central America that will continue as a permanent supply source for the United States.

Another crop which is being planted under the program is derris, said to be one of the best sources of rotenone, which is needed in large quantities as an insecticide.

Hevea trees, the principal source of natural rubber, are being grown experimentally on sites covering several hundred acres. In the study stage are plans to cultivate quinine, tung trees, castor beans, teak trees, and various essential oils.

Creates Information Service.

The company announced that it has created a Middle America information bureau to spread "the facts about Middle America and the interdependence of the United States and the 10 nearby Middle American nations," which are Mexico, Guatemala, Honduras, El Salvador, Nicaragua, Costa Rica, Panama, Cuba, Haiti, and the Dominican Republic.

Besides bananas, natural rubber, sugar, derris, and abaca, Central America is supplying or could supply much of the following products, United Fruit said: Cinchona tree bark, source of quinine; palm oil, for chemical and industrial uses; tung oil, castor oil, citronella, lemon grass oil, perfumes, cork oak, kapok, vanilla, sisal, jute and loofa, or vegetable sponges.

Gen. Electric Tells Aircraft Supply Growth

Schenectady, N. Y., Jan. 25 (AP).—General Electric company today submitted with its quarterly dividend of 35 cents a share, the 182d dividend, a report to stockholders describing many accessories it is manufacturing for war planes.

The company said it is manufacturing a variety of aircraft electrical equipment and more than 400 plastic parts.

All United States army bombers carry General Electric radio transmitters, the report said, and some navy bombers use transmitters and receivers made by the company. More than 200 kinds of lamps are being manufactured for all types of planes.

"Literally Fly by Themselves."

Generators and devices enabling aircraft literally to fly by themselves also are being turned out. In addition, experimental work is being conducted in many aeronautical fields.

High on the list of aeronautical devices being manufactured was the turbosupercharger, which enables planes to "breathe" at substratosphere levels.

"Flaming hot gases exhausted from a combustion engine operate a turbine which drives a compressor for supplying air to the engine," the company explained.

Other superchargers had been geared to the engine, and used a considerable amount of its power.

Red Hot Against 76 Below.

"Since exhaust gases leave an airplane engine at super-hurricane speed and are destructive to all ferrous metals, dozens of problems in metallurgy and design engineering had to be overcome before the device would operate successfully," the company added. "It runs at more than 20,000 revolutions per minute, with the turbine red hot at about 1,500 degrees Fahrenheit and the compressor only a few inches away handling atmosphere as cold as 76 degrees below zero."

Many electric devices formerly made separately, it was reported, now are designed and built as a unit, saving installation time and guaranteeing synchronized operation. High altitude flying also has required redesign of other equipment to meet tougher "upstairs" conditions.

BIG AIR FREIGHT GAINS HELD SPUR TO TRUCK INDUSTRY AFTER WAR

Washington, D. C., Jan. 25 (AP).—A Cleveland truck manufacturer said today that war borne air freight would grow mightily but that it would serve only as a spur to the automotive trade in the peace years.

"Air transport is a lusty infant and is growing phenomenally," said Robert F. Black, president of the White Motor company, told the house interstate commerce committee, discussing research work of the Automotive Council for War Production.

After the war the truck industry will develop more horsepower in its models, 100 octane aviation fuel will increase compresion ratios, and superchargers may be introduced in truck engines, Black asserted. He forecast also introduction of lighter metals in manufacture, wider use of multidrive wheels as developed for the army now, and overall lower cost and better service.

George M. Kellogg of the International Harvester company, Chicago, recommended uniform state regulations on commercial motor vehicles. Diversity of laws now hampers truck manufacture and travel, he asserted.

S., plant of the Dominion Steel and Coal corporation had voted to end their two weeks' tieup, but reserved the right to call a new strike in 30 days if their demands are not met by then.

BRITISH ADOPT SIMPLER FUND FREEZING RULE

Three U. S. Accounts Rolled Into One.

LONDON, Jan. 25 (AP).—The British treasury today announced that foreign exchange "freezing" regulations would be simplified Feb. 2 and three types of accounts held for United States interests lumped under a single category.

The three—registered, free, and sterling area accounts—would come under a "U. S. A. registered" classification at a guaranteed rate of $4.02⅛ to the pound.

[American bankers said this would benefit United States owners of British bank accounts under the "free" and "sterling area" categories because these funds apparently would be available to pay for exports from Britain. Only registered accounts could be used for such purposes under rules in effect since July, 1940.]

Arrange for Simplification.

"Arrangements have been completed to simplify the conduct of sterling accounts held by residents in the United States by amalgamating the differing types of account," the treasury's statement said.

United States registered accounts, it continued, may [after Feb. 2], be opened in the names of individuals as well as of banks and companies. They will carry the guaranteed rate of $4.02⅛ to the pound.

[This rate continued subject to bank charges, however, indicating that a buyer of British exchange would pay $4.04 for each pound, and a seller would receive $4.02.]

Present Accounts Explained.

The three types of accounts have been United States registered, maintained chiefly by American banks and usable to pay for exports from Great Britain; "free" accounts such as deposits of American individuals, and "sterling area" accounts which could be used only within certain parts of the British commonwealth, such as Australia and India, but excluding Canada. Neither "free" nor "sterling area" funds could be used to pay for goods exported from Great Britain.

Britain originally restricted bank accounts of persons living in the United States in order that she might have available American dollars to pay for war supplies bought from the United States.

DRESS INDUSTRY STRIKE AT HAND, SAYS DUBINSKY.

New York, Jan. 25 (AP).—David Dubinsky, president of the AFL International Ladies Garment Workers' union, today declared it was likely that a general work stoppage would begin tomorrow in New York City's dress industry, first such stoppage since 1933.

Dubinsky made the statement after announcing that five employer associations rejected a proposal by the ILGWU joint board to arbitrate a demand for an equalization wage.

"If the government does not step in and take it to the war labor board, action will be taken within a week," Dubinsky asserted. "They will cease to work. The union will not call a stoppage, but will not oppose a stoppage. It will be a spontaneous popular stoppage and in some plants it may start tomorrow."

Washington, D. C., Jan. 25 (AP).—Increases in price ceilings generally ranging from 5 to 8 per cent were authorized today by the OPA for industrial fuel oils refined in parts of Kansas, Arkansas, Louisiana, Oklahoma, New Mexico, and Texas. KAY MARTIN

[Head of our girls' department.]

SAYS:

Thousands of you girls are working for low salaries and with companies which have no connection with the war effort. Now is the time to get set for the "after war" boom! My department has hundreds of positions paying top salaries and with companies which have war contracts at present and will continue to boom after the war. In other words, you would help yourself and help your country, too. For instance, we can place beginners at $100 to $110: file clerks, with no typing, from $90 to $110, and stenographers with a few months' experience, from $115 to $130. We also give you, free of charge, the services of a professional vocational advisor, Miss Luella Canterbury. Come in and get acquainted. There is no registration fee or obligation of any kind.
